KENNEDY MOVES TO HALT STRIKE OF SEA UNIONS, INVOKES TAFT-HARTLEY

APPOINTS BOARD OF FACT FINDERS TO REPORT BACK TO HIM BY FRIDAY

Presumably President Then Will Seek Injunction Forcing Men to Return to Jobs for 80 Days.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 26—President Kennedy established a board of inquiry today in the 11-day-old maritime dispute as the first step toward a possible federal injunction to end the walkout, which has crippled shipping on three coasts.

The President acted under the Taft - Hartley Act which authorizes him to invoke emergency procedures when a strike, if permitted to continue, threatens national health and safety. In an executive order setting up the board of inquiry, the President said that in his opinion the strike, if permitted to go on, would peril national health and safety.

The urgency with which the President views the shipping strike was apparent in his directive to the board of inquiry to report to him on its findings not later than Friday. Its report will be confined to findings of the issues between the parties. The board is prohibited by statute from recommending settlement terms. One of its key functions probably will be to inform the President of the outlook for prompt termination of the strike.

Injunction Procedure.

A pessimistic report by the board on this point would almost certainly lead to a directive by the President to the Attorney General, Robert F. Kennedy, his brother, to seek an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Law terminating the walkout for a cooling-off period of 80 days, during which Government mediation efforts would continue.

Named to the inquiry board were Chairman David L. Cole, Paterson, N.J., former chairman of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower; Samuel I. Rosenman, former White House counsel under President Roosevelt, and Prof. James J. Healy of the Harvard University School of Business, who has been active in many arbitration cases.

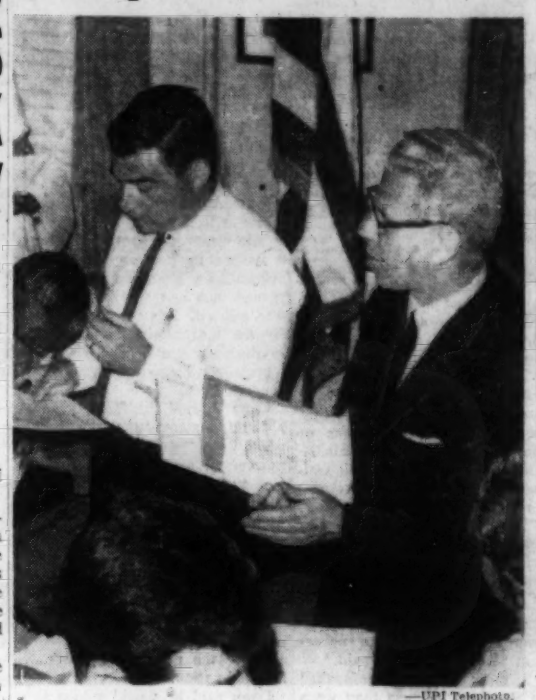

The President urged the parties in the dispute to continue their bargaining and to use the Federal Mediation Service and the board of inquiry toward achieving an immediate settlement. Such a settlement would come, he said, through their efforts in any event.

Rejects Union Plan.

The President rejected a proposal made yesterday by three of the five striking unions asking for an impartial board to designate food and fuel cargoes "essential to maintain national health, safety and security." The three unions offered to lift

2000 M.P.H. FOR AIRLINERS IN 12 YEARS PREDICTED

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (UPI)—Najeeb Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency predicted yesterday that within 12 years 2000-mile-an-hour airliners will link Los Angeles directly with major cities of the world.

Halaby made the prediction in an address at dedication ceremonies for the new $70,000,000 jet-age terminal at Los Angeles International Airport.

He said that there was no question that the supersonic transport is on its way and predicted that air passenger miles would be doubled as more and more Americans take to the air on vacations and intercity trips.

Halaby said the "great tide of passengers" will be carried safely and comfortably in the new commercial fleet, consisting of aircraft that will be able to do the work of two present airplanes.

4-YEAR-OLD PAINTER WINS PRIZE FOR ABSTRACT ART

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, June 26 (AP) — Four-year-old Kevin Worthington, using a pot scraper and paint, won first prize in the abstract art section of the winter show at Whangarei.

Kevin was given paint and paper when staying with his grandmother, and she said she entered the result in the show for a joke.

The judge commented that the work showed background, was free flowing, and an effort had been made to attract attention by the use of color.

VENEZUELA ENDS ARMY REVOLT, 40 REPORTED DEAD

Rebels Who Seized Governor and Radio Station Captured, Government Says.

CARACAS, June 26 (AP)—A military revolt flared and quickly died today in Barcelona, President Romulo Betancourt's government announced. Forty persons were reported killed.

Betancourt said the rebels, threatened by loyal forces by land, sea and air, held out only 4½ hours.

Radio Tropical of Barcelona said all the rebel leaders were captured. The Interior Ministry identified them as junior officers plus two ex-majors dismissed from the army for revolutionary plotting.

A squadron of Canberra air force jets staged a show of force with a flight over the rebel barracks. Two destroyers had sped to a nearby Caribbean port and loyal troops marched on Barcelona from three garrison towns to the east and southeast.

Announced by Governor.

The announcement that 40 persons were killed was made by Gov. Rafael Solorzano Bruce of Anzoategui state in a telephoned report to Caracas.

The rebels earlier had seized the Barcelona radio station and announced that Solorzano was their prisoner.

Loyal Venezuelan troops and navy men were dispatched to Barcelona, Anzoategui's capital and commercial center near the Caribbean coast, to quell the uprising.

A related attempt at rebellion at La Guaira, the seaport for Caracas, was reported quickly crushed.

Betancourt called on the garrison of Barcelona, reported to number 350 officers and men, to surrender or face an attack by loyal forces from land, sea and air. Barcelona is a city of about

LONDON, KUWAIT REJECT CLAIM OF IRAQ; DEFENSE PLEDGE RENEWED

Delay Is Reported in Departure of British Ships, Troops—Military Action by Kassem Doubted.

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—Britain and Kuwait rejected today Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's move to annex the rich Persian gulf oil sheikdom.

Britain reaffirmed a pledge to go to the aid of the ruler, Sheik Abdullah Al-Salim As 'Sabah, if asked. But diplomats here reported that the ruler made no equest for immediate help in talks at his palace today with Britain's representative, John Richmond.

The Sheik and the British agreed instead that they would try to resist Kassem's move calmly and quietly. Both hope Kassem can be persuaded to modify his stand. Both are anxious to avert new Middle East crisis that could upset the stability of the sheikdom that supplies 40 per cent of Britain's oil.

Britain's stand and that of Kuwait were made known through the Foreign Office. Kuwait sent an official statement saying it was determined to defend its territory and independence and called on all peace loving nations, including Arab states, to support it.

Britain ended its protectorate over Kuwait last week but announced it would continue to guarantee Kuwait against aggression if the sheikdom asked for aid.

Independent State.

"Kuwait is an independent, sovereign state," a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Oil resources in the 5800-square-mile territory are worked by the Kuwait Oil Company, jointly owned by the British Petroleum Co. and the American Gulf Oil Corp. Output in 1959 topped 68,000,000 tons of crude oil.

A dispatch from Kuwait said that "as a result of the Iraq Premier's claim the departure of British soldiers and Royal Navy vessels from Kuwait was postponed."

This dispatch said crowds assembled in front of the Sheik's palace in protest against Iraq's annexation move but no disorders were reported.

Kassem's claim seemed to signal a political rather than military campaign to take over the territory. The Iraqi soldier-leader announced yesterday he would send notes to all governments with which Baghdad has relations setting forth his case.

Belligerent Front.

But Iraq put up a belligerent front. A dispatch from Baghdad, the capital, said Iraq's army chief of staff sent the Premier pledges of support.

The chief of staff said the Iraqi army, which "destroyed

4 KILLED, 29 HURT AS ICE FALLS AT GREENLAND BASE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 26 (UPI)—Four men were killed and 29 injured yesterday when a chunk of glacial ice 200 feet in diameter crashed down on an Air Force sight-seeing party in a fjord near Sondrestrom Air Base in Greenland, the Air Defense Command said today.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Nine of the injured were taken to a hospital, but none was listed as critical.

ADC headquarters here said only two men out of 35 on the sight-seeing tour escaped without injury. They were a Danish guide and a seaman from the U.S.S. Atka, an icebreaker being used to open the fjord.

The two walked to the air base to report the accident. Two helicopters evacuated the rest of the party within 30 minutes, the ADC said.

An ADC spokesman said some of the men were hit by flying ice particles, some were caught in the avalanche and others were caught by "the tidal wave action of the water in the fjord."

RUSSIA SNAPPING AT HEELS, TO TOP U.S. BY '70, SAYS KHRUSHCHEV

Britain, France Already Passed Up, Premier Declares — America 'Now Running on Reputation.'

MOSCOW, June 26 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev said yesterday the Soviet Union is "snapping at the heels of America" in the economic race and will pass its production by 1970.

The premier told a Communist party rally in a voice bursting with pride that the Soviet Union, founded only 44 years ago, has already forged ahead of Britain and France.

"Comrades! There is only America," he shouted in a speech at Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan, which was broadcast yesterday by the Moscow radio.

Drawing the analogy of a track meet, he depicted the United States as an old, worn out runner and the Soviet Union as young and fresh.

Running on Reputation.

"The United States is now running on its past reputation but at the finish line the young, fresh, strong runner will break the tape and our socialist country — young, strong, organized, mobilized — is snapping at the heels of America—not silently, but saying 'Look, we are in the race. Hurry up or we will overtake you!'"

Khrushchev said American experts were telling President Kennedy the Soviet Union would overtake the United States by 1970 and declared confidently: "That is our date."

France, England Surpassed.

"We have overtaken England, mistress of the seas; England which had Africa and Asia," Khrushchev said. "We left it behind us.

"We left behind us France and now we have only America."

Khrushchev emphasized the success so far of the Soviet Union but he demanded the Russians "work, work, work" for further successes.

"Work alone is the source of the wealth of society and the wealth of every man," he said. "We want to amass more and more so that our cup shall be full and our riches grow, so that everyone may drink his fill from this cup."

Campaign Against Spongers.

The premier called for a "merciless struggle" against parasites and "spongers on whom public scorn has no influence. They must be made to work.

Surpassing the United States in per capita production had been made the goal of the Soviet seven-year plan to be completed in 1965.

It was Khrushchev's second speech in two days dealing with Soviet economic growth.

Speaking at Alma Ata Saturday he promised that plans would be disclosed soon for swift growth, with the consumer goods and food industries developing side by side with heavy industry.

NAVY TO STORE 8 BLIMPS, USE OTHER TWO FOR A YEAR

Fund Shortage, Capability of Helicopters, Other Aircraft Given as Reason.

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—The Navy handed down a death sentence today for its blimp fleet.

It announced that eight of its 10 active airships will be deflated and placed in storage by Nov. 30. The two others will be kept in service until a year from now for research and development work.

The decision was made because of a shortage of funds and personnel "combined with the increasing capability of helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft to perform all necessary anti-submarine and airborne early warning functions," the announcement said. It cost $5,792,054 to operate the blimps this year, the Navy said.

Khrushchev May Find It Tough Driving Russians to Horse Meat

MOSCOW, June 26 (UPI) — Premier Khrushchev is going to have a tough job selling horse meat to Russians.

Even though accustomed to periodic meat shortages, most Russians draw the line at eating what they consider mans best friend.

Horse meat is eaten in the Soviet Union, but mainly by Moslems. European Russians look on the practice with disgust.

Khrushchev told a meeting in Alma Ata, Kazakhstan, Saturday that horse meat is a "tasty, nourishing, high calorie, inexpensive product." He called for the development of the horse meat industry.

Generally, the inhibition against eating horses is as strong as against eating pigeons—both revered almost as much as cows are in India.

Only in times of extreme famine has the average Russian peasant betrayed the horse.

The last time was during the starvation years of the civil war that followed the Communist revolution. Then meager rations of horse meat were distributed to a lucky few—scientists, professors, top engineers and army officers.

When a Western correspondent recently told a prominent Soviet scientist that horse meat is a special daily feature of the Harvard Faculty Club he replied incredulously: "There must be a civil war in Cambridge."

NAVY AIR SHOW JAMS TRAFFIC AT SCOTT BASE

Traffic jams extending eight to 10 miles on several highways and roads leading to the vicinity of Scott Air Force Base developed yesterday when the Navy's "Blue Angels" gave a precision jet flying performance, Illinois State Police reported.

A spokesman for the Air Force estimated the crowd in the area of Scott Air Force Base at more than 250,000. He said 80,000 automobiles were counted in the area.

The biggest traffic jams were on U.S. Highway 50 and Illinois routes 43, 161, 158 and 15. Air police had to turn away many cars when all parking space at the base was filled.

The air show commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of Navy aviation.

4 KILLED, 15 HURT IN WAVE OF TERRORISM IN ALGERIA

ORAN, Algeria, June 26 (AP) — A new wave of terrorism claimed four lives yesterday and left 15 other persons wounded.

In one of the attacks Amar Haddouchi, second assistant to the mayor of Mers-el-Kebir, the big French naval base nearby, was shot through the head and his body dumped on a street.

A European was hacked to death in a suburban housing area and a Moslem was shot to death in a separate incident. Two cafe customers were knifed by Algerian nationalists. In Algiers a grenade tossed into a cafe injured three persons. A Moslem shopkeeper was shot and killed in Algiers. Two Algerians tossed a grenade into a crowded Oran cafe, wounding six persons.

CONGRESS GIVES FINAL APPROVAL TO HIGHWAY BILL

Compromise Boosting Taxes for 41,000-Mile Network Goes to Kennedy.

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UPI)—Congress gave final approval today to President Kennedy's long-range highway program.

The Senate approved the compromise bill by voice vote, sending it to the White House. The House had acted earlier.

The bill authorizes additional outlays and new truck and tire taxes to finance completion of the 41,000-mile network of superhighways by 1972 on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Key Points of Measure.

Main provisions of the bill:

Taxes—It levies about $150,000,000 more in taxes on the trucking and tire industries, starting Saturday, and cancels a one-cent-a-gallon reduction in federal gasoline taxes schedule to take effect on the same day.

Spending—It authorizes an additional $11,560,000,000 in road-building grants to states. This boosts authorized long-range federal spending for the program to 37 billion dollars. Total cost is estimated at 41 billions—or about $1,000,000 per mile—with states required to put up $1 for every $9 in federal grants.

Billboards—It gives states two more years to take advantage of an offer of a ½ per cent bonus

Traffic Tale Has Real Stinger: 3,200,000 Upset Bees Buzz Road

MELROSE, N.M., June 26 (UPI)—A truck loaded with 200 happily humming beehives overturned on U.S. Highway 60 near here last night. The estimated 3,200,000 bees inside got very upset.

For several hours they swarmed in thick clouds across the highway, dealing stinging rebuffs to state police and Melrose volunteer firemen who were summoned to help reopen the road to traffic.

The owner of the shipment, J. K. McClaugherty of Monte Vista, Colo., was stung more than 100 times and the firemen—who came equipped with masks but wore short sleeve shirts—fared little better.

The firemen finally hosed down the wreckage enough so that the hives could be pushed off the road and the bees settled down for the night.

Meantime, traffic was diverted around the area via a ditch off the side of the highway.

30-YEAR CREDIT ANNOUNCED BY EQUITABLE LIFE; FOUR CONDITIONS

They Concern Equity Capital, Parking, Area Redevelopment, Project Completion —Leaders Confident.

A $31,000,000 loan for the downtown stadium project was announced today by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States at a meeting of the Civic Center Redevelopment Corp. at the Statler Hilton Hotel.

The 30-year-loan, termed the largest ever made in St. Louis, will almost complete financing of the first stage of construction of the $89,000,000 project, James P. Hickok, president of the redevelopment corporation, reported.

Announcement of the loan by James F. Oates of New York, president and board chairman of Equitable, was welcomed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker as "clinching evidence that we are really on the right track in our great task of redeveloping St. Louis."

Four Preliminary Steps.

Oates set four conditions that must be met before the commitment will become final. They are:

1. The redevelopment corporation must complete its campaign to raise $20,000,000 in equity capital. A total of $17,355,000 already has been pledged.

2. The city must complete work on access streets, utilities and off-street bus parking facilities in the project area, work that will require voter approval of a bond issue.

3. Properties in the redevelopment area must be leased to the satisfaction of the lender.

4. Construction of the project must be completed.

Outlook Good for Capital.

Preston Estep, vice president of the corporation, predicted that the remaining $2,645,000 in equity capital will be obtained immediately. And Mayor Tucker forecast that the necessary bond issue "will be well received by our citizens."

The redevelopment corporation proposes to build a stadium, motel, parking garages, office buildings and commercial facilities in a 31-block, 82-acre area south of the city's main business district. Almost all present buildings in the area are deteriorated and will be razed.

The first stage of construction will cost about $55,000,000 and will include the 50,000-seat, double-deck stadium, 400 rooms of the 800-room motel and parking facilities for about 7400 automobiles.

Impressed by Spirit Here.

Oates gave high praise to St. Louis in telling of his company's decision to make the loan. He said his firm was "inspired by the great rebuilding program planned for the Mill Creek area, the riverfront development and the Plaza Apartments."

An important factor in the decision, he said, was the fact that the citizens of the city voted "more than $100,000,000 to improve this city" in approving the 1955 bond issue.

"This is the largest loan we have ever made for a project of this type," Oates asserted. "I am told that it is the largest single loan ever made in St. Louis.

"The entire nation will be watching how you carry out your plans."

Estep Outlines Job Ahead.

Estep, speaking after Oates, said the next two steps to be taken are to reach the equity capital goal and to get the proposed bond issue approved.

He said an announcement on the subscription drive will be made within a few days.

Explaining the requirement involving the city, Estep said that St. Louis must provide services such as streets, sidewalks, street lighting, traffic signals and water, "municipal public improvements normally provided by the city for all areas within the city."

Mayor Tucker, he said, has recommended that $6,000,000 to provide those services in the project area be included in the next public improvement bond issue. The recommendation now is in the hands of a bond issue screening committee.

"We are very hopeful that the

JOHNSON WARNS KHRUSHCHEV ON FORCING ISSUE IN WEST BERLIN

Says It Would Be 'Tragic Mistake' to Underestimate America's Obligation to Its Allies.

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, in a warning to Nikita Khrushchev, says the Soviet Premier will make a "tragic mistake" if he underestimates America's obligation to the people of West Berlin.

Johnson spoke yesterday at the dedication of the International Airport's new terminal, a complex of futuristic structures described as the finest such installation in the world.

Johnson charged that Russia alone is responsible for new international tension. Stating that Khrushchev had produced another crisis by again threatening to make a separate peace with East Germany, the Vice President said:

"Russia is trying to force the Western world to recognize that the partition of Germany is permanent and that all our rights in Berlin in the future will be a matter of negotiations with East Germany.

"Let us not underestimate the importance of any such development. It will cause the utmost anxiety among our friends in Germany. It will give new hope to the minority groups which still favor extreme solutions."

Won't Give Reds Clues.

Johnson, mentioning the recent conferences President Kennedy conducted on the current Berlin crisis, said he had no intention of giving the Soviet leader any clues on future American policy.

"We reserve the right to take all those timely and appropriate actions which are necessary in our national interests, which are essential to the safety of the free world, and which are consistent with our obligations to our allies and our friends," he said.

Then he cautioned the Russian chief in these words:

"Mr. Khrushchev will be making a tragic mistake if he assumes that these principles and obligations count for little in Washington or with the American people."

After his speech, Johnson flew to Honolulu for the governors' conference.

Military Buildup Urged.

(Senator Clair Engle (Dem.), California, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called for an Allied military buildup in Germany that would enable the West to defend Berlin against any Soviet move, United Press International said.

(Engle said on a radio broadcast that the United States is in no position now to back up its commitment to resist the Russian threat to oust the Allies from Berlin. He said, "We don't have the divisions over there to support a real action in Berlin."

(He called for abandonment of World War II equipment and giving Allied troops better rifles, tanks and anti-tank weapons. Then, if NATO countries put in the men they should, he said, the Soviets probably would not go through with their Berlin threat.)

In West Berlin, Mayor Willy Brandt declared that his city can be relied on in any new crisis.

"We have friends on whom we can rely, and our friends can rely on Berlin's behavior," he said. "Berlin will be heard from, and unmistakably, when necessary. We remain at our posts and will not thoughtlessly allow a new test of nerves to descend on us."

JOHN A. D. M'CURDY DIES, FIRST TO FLY IN CANADA

MONTREAL, June 26 (AP)—John Alexander Douglas McCurdy, a pioneer in aviation and a former lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia, died yesterday. He was 74 years old.

Mr. McCurdy took off Feb. 23, 1909, from ice-covered Baddeck, N.S., and flew about three quarters of a mile in the Silver Dart, a tiny aircraft of his own design.

The flight, the first in Canada, occurred six years after the flight of the Wright brothers. He was first to pilot a flying boat, taking off from Long Island sound. He dropped oranges on targets to prove bombing as practical. In 1911, he flew a plane that sent and received the first wireless message and established records for the longest time spent in the air and the longest flight over open sea. He gave up flying in 1916 because of failing eyesight.

Anti-Castro Captives in Florida Still Discussing Tractor Deal

KEY WEST, Fla., June 26 (AP) — Ten anti-Castro prisoners awaited developments here today that might bring freedom to them and 1187 of their comrades in Cuba.

John Hooker Jr., executive secretary of the Tractors for Freedom Committee, was expected to return here from Miami in the early afternoon for his third meeting with the prisoners since their arrival from Havana Saturday.

Hooker has insisted he is not negotiating with the prisoners but only serving as a contact between them and the members of the committee, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton Eisenhower and Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers.

New Approach Indicated.

The committee had announced it was disbanding.

Informed sources said, however, that Hooker's continued contact with the prisoners indicated a new approach may be made to resume the stalemated negotiations. One of the prisoners privately indicated that Hooker was offered a new proposal during his brief meeting with them yesterday.

Negotiations for the prisoners' release broke down Friday when Fidel Castro rejected the committee's offer of 500 general purpose tractors in return for release of the prisoners. At that time he said he would send ten prisoners back to the United States to explain his position in the negotiations. The same prisoner group visited Miami and Washington last month after Castro first offered to trade the captives for 500 bulldozers.

When asked about the $28,000,000 estimated cost of the heavy tractors demanded by Castro, Ulises Carbo, leader of the prisoner delegation, replied:

"The tractors are worth $28,000,000 in Cuba. They are much cheaper here," indicating that a face-saving formula may be found in a reduced figure.

Prisoners Given 15 Days.

Carbo also told the Associated Press that Castro had given the prisoners "15 days or more" in which to complete their mission. "We still haven't decided whether we'll take all the time," he added.

Earlier an immigration official said, "There is always a possibility the prisoners may be returned to Cuba." He emphasized they had been admitted to the United States "on a temporary parole subject to revocation at any time."

Senator George A. Smathers (Dem.) of Florida, said yesterday he has heard reports of new military training of Cuban revolutionaries in Florida. He said he had no knowledge of any United States co-operation and indicated it was being done by anti-Castro Cubans themselves.

BANK OFFICER OUT ON BOND; $600,000 MAY BE MISSING

CHARLESTON, S.C., June 26 (UPI)—The vice president of a small rural bank with money estimated at $600,000 missing was out on bond today posted by four prominent members of his community.

Frank Dill Rogers, who has pleaded guilty to making a false entry in the books of the Anderson State Bank, was released on $75,000 bail.

"We think of him as our leading citizen," said Merrit Morris, a funeral director and commander of the American Legion post. "We could always count on his help in all community projects."

A warrant was issued for Rogers when an audit revealed an $18,490 shortage at the bank he managed in the small tobacco town of Hemingway, subsequent checks have revealed a shortage of $380,000, and assistant United States district attorney Arthur Howe said more than $600,000 may be missing.

PILOT KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

WHITEHOUSE, N.J., June 26 (UPI)—The president of a sports parachuting club, acting as pilot for two members, was killed Sunday when his single-engine plane went out of control and fell 7000 feet into a hayfield.

He was Allan D. MacPherson of Plainfield, N.J., a former paratrooper who had more than 230 jumps to his credit. Two club members had just leaped from the plane and MacPherson was circling to land when the craft went into a spin.

KENNEDY MEETS WITH SON-IN-LAW OF KHRUSHCHEV

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UPI) — President Kennedy conferred today with Alexei Adjubei, son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and editor of Izvestia.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mr. Kennedy met for a half hour with Adjubei and Mikhail Kharlamov, chief of the press section of the Soviet Foreign Ministry and that they discussed a variety of subjects.

Salinger said that Mr. Kennedy "made some points which he is confident" Adjubei will carry back to his father-in-law.

Adjubei told Salinger that he would be seeing his father-in-law Wednesday and would convey the essence of his talk with the President to Khrushchev.

GEN. CHANG URGES KOREANS TO RALLY TO GOVERNMENT

SEOUL, June 26 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Chang Do-yung called on South Koreans yesterday to support the goals of his military government with the same patriotism they showed in battling Communist aggression in the Korean war.

Speaking on the eleventh anniversary of the invasion from Communist North Korea, the chairman of the ruling junta said: "If we want to avoid further Communist aggression we must strengthen our preparedness against the Communists . . . and build up a self-sustaining economy."

Chang's theme was repeated by other speakers at hundreds of ceremonies commemorating the anniversary throughout this impoverished, pro-Western nation of 22,000,000 population.

U.S. IS REPORTED FOR 20-NATION ARMS-CUT TALKS

Zorin Said to Be Cool to Expansion as He and McCloy Resume Planning.

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP) The United States and Russia resume preliminary disarmament talks today amid reports of a new United States move to break an apparant deadlock.

Informed sources say the United States has proposed expanding next month's disarmament conference to 20 nations by bringing in nations from Africa, Latin America, and possibly Asia and the Far East.

The proposal was reported to have been made last week during earlier meetings between President Kennedy's disarmament adviser, John J. McCloy, and Valerian A. Zorin, Russia's U.N. delegate. Zorin was said to have been cool to the idea.

There was no official confirmation of the 20-nation proposal, but sources said it suggested addition of three nations from Latin America, three from Africa and several from Asia and the Far East.

Meeting Not Yet Definite.

The talks are in preparation for resumption of disarmament negotiation, which may start July 31 at the United Nations in New York.

The United States has contended the present talks concern only such matters as what nations will take part, the rules of procedure and possibly the agenda.

Russia has argued that the talks should be expanded to take in matters of substance.

Last year's Geneva disarmament conference was made up of 10 nations, five western and five communist.

The western nations were the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Italy and Canada. Communist nations were Russia, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet Union has proposed inclusion of five neutral nations in the conference. The United States reportedly had agreed to the addition of two more nations, Mexico and India.

Red China and the Bomb.

Meanwhile, Arthur H. Dean, the chief United States delegate to the nuclear test ban talks in Geneva, told television interviewers the Chinese Communists may develop a nuclear bomb in a year or two.

"What small evidence we have is that the Russians are not helping them," Dean added.

He said the Chinese have excellent mathematicians and other scientists who could develop a nuclear weapon of their own.

Dean was recalled to Washington last week for consultation on the stalled Geneva talks. He appeared yesterday on Meet the Press.

Asked if he thought the Russians really wanted an agreement at Geneva, Dean said:

"I think we have unmasked the Russians because they were making great propaganda that they wanted it (a test ban treaty) and now I think they have made it clear that they don't want it."

He said it was possible the Russians have violated the present test moratorium, but said, "We can't find any evidence."

Analyzes Russian Strategy.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev thinks the Communists are winning in Laos, in Cuba, Berlin and elsewhere, he said, and cited their insistence on merging the test ban negotiations with general disarmament negotiations.

These could take several years to complete, he said. Meanwhile, it is possible the Russians might gain some advantage from this because, "we have tested many more times than the Soviets have and we are far ahead of them."

Dean, who has faced the Communists across many negotiating tables including the Panmunjom peace talks that produced the Korean armistice, said he felt the Geneva talks should be kept open.

"Testing is the most important question facing our civilization," he said. He said renewal of testing would make us "rather unpopular, especially in areas like Japan," the world's only atom-bombed nation.

Dean said he would return to Geneva whenever there is any possibility for fruitful negotiations, adding the entire nuclear test issue is under serious study by President Kennedy.

China Promoting Red Takeover Of Laos, U.S. Charges at Geneva

Goal Is Gateway to Southeast Asia, Says Delegate After Peiping Rejects American-French Proposals.

GENEVA, June 26 (UPI) — The United States said today Communist China is promoting a Communist takeover of Laos to establish a gateway to Southeast Asia.

The charge was made by Ned Nordness, spokesman for the United States delegation at the 14-nation conference on Laos.

His statement followed a rejection by the Chinese Communists of the American and French proposals for effective controls to insure a free and neutral Laos.

Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi earlier denounced the Western demands for guarantees against foreign aggression.

Chen Yi accused the United States of trying to "rekindle the war in Laos" and demanded abrogation of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's pledge to protect Laos.

Nordness told a press conference after today's meeting:

"It seems to us they do not want any kind of controls to stop the seven-year-old (Communist) North Viet Nam infiltration into Laos.

"They are adamant in their desire to keep the road wide open from north to south so that they can fulfill their plans of using the North Viet Namese infiltration, subversion and ultimate takeover of Laos, to establish a gateway to Southeast Asia.

"They are opposed to any means of guarantees for the protection of the sovereignty of the country."

Chen Yi made no mention of Communist Viet Namese troops in his address before the conference. He charged that the foreign forces causing trouble in Laos were American-backed South Viet Namese, Thais and remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist armies.

American officials said at least 1000 Communist Viet Namese soldiers and "technicians" have been sighted in Laos as recently as two weeks ago.

Chen Yi told the conference that the Communist camp was united in opposition to United States and French proposals on Laos.

"The delegations of the Peoples Republic of China, the U.S.S.R., the Democratic Republics of Poland and (North) Viet Nam have clearly indicated their disagreement with the French-American draft," the Chinese Red said.

The Western proposals call for a unified Laotian security force whose size, type and supply of arms would be strictly controlled and policed. This would be done by an international supervisory commission whose powers would be clearly defined by the conference here.

Chen Yi said the formation of a Laotian army "should not be taken up by our conference. The agreement of the three princes clearly lists the armed forces on the internal section of their communique."

He referred to a communique by the rival princes issued following their meeting in Zurich last week.

Sentenced in Son's Death.

NAHA, Okinawa, June 26 (AP) —A United States civil court today gave Mrs. Donna Nicholson a five-year suspended sentence on charges of bodily injury resulting in the death of her 4-year-old son, Paul. She was found not guilty of homicide. The three-man tribunal said the boy died as a result of a "brutal inhuman beating." The woman's husband, Lt. William Nicholson, was sentenced earlier by a court-martial to three years at hard labor on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

CONGO REPORTS KATANGA PACT ENDS SECESSION

Leopoldville Radio Says Tshombe Agreed to Unify Schools and Army.

© New York Times News Service

LEOPOLDVILLE, June 26—The Congo central government claimed yesterday that President Moise Tshombe of Katanga had agreed to end the secession of his province.

The government-controlled Leopoldville radio annnounced that Premier Joseph Ileo of the central government and Tshombe signed an agreement Saturday wiping out the division between Katanga and the rest of the country.

Tshombe agreed to unity of the national army, of the educational system and of foreign relations, all under the control of the central government, the broadcast said.

It added that Tshombe had promised to give up, "in due time" the separate Katanga currency. Exports of Katanga's mineral wealth would be channeled through Congolese territory again, and no longer through Angola, the broadcast claimed.

Signed Before Return.

The agreement between Ileo and Tshombe was signed before the latter returned to Elisabethville Saturday after being freed from two months political captivity, the broadcast asserted.

United Nations officials said they expected the Congo Parliament to begin its session next Sunday or Monday. The opening had been set for yesterday. However, only a few senators and deputies from the interior have reached the capital so far.

One or several meetings of principal leaders from various rival groups are expected to take place this week. U.N. sources hope that Antoine Gizenga, head of the Lumumbist regime in Stanleyville, will attend these meetings and that Tshombe will return from Elisabethville for them.

Would Avoid Delay.

Officials of the central government hope that these preliminary meetings will bring agreement on the principal points in dispute before Parliament formally opens. Such an accord might keep Parliament from getting bogged down in a session lasting several months.

2 CUT IN CITY JAIL FIGHT; INQUIRY INTO HOW KNIFE WAS OBTAINED

One Prisoner Badly Wounded, in Hospital — Losses in Dice Game Blamed for Dispute.

Warden William Boeger was investigating today to determine how a pocketknife was taken into City Jail. The knife was used in a scuffle yesterday in which two prisoners were cut.

Boeger questioned Daniel Jackson, 20 years old, one of the prisoners, who was placed in solitary confinement after he fought with Alyous Thompson, 21, on the fifth floor of the jail. Thompson is in serious condition at City Hospital with a severe knife wound of the face. Jackson suffered a cut on the wrist and was treated at Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

The knife was found in a toilet bowl on the fifth floor of the jail several hours after the fight. Jail guards made a thorough search of all prisoners on the floor but found no other weapons.

Boeger said Jackson claimed that Thompson was choking him, and he looked down and saw the knife on the floor. Prisoners who witnessed the fight told the warden that Jackson drew the knife from his trousers and slashed at Thompson as the other man was choking him.

Jackson told police at first that the cuts were inflicted with a razor blade, but later admitted that a knife had been used. He contended that Thompson had drawn the knife from his pocket and dropped it on the floor in the struggle.

The fight took place in a fifth-floor recreation room at 12:20 p.m. Nineteen other prisoners were in the room at the time, Boeger said.

Jackson told police that he and Thompson were playing craps, and that he had won all of Thompson's money. He said Thompson became angry and kicked him, and he fell to the floor. As they fought, Jackson told police, he saw Thompson remove a shiny metal object from his pocket which he thought was a razor blade.

Jackson said he swung at Thompson and was slashed on the wrist. Then Thompson began to run around the dining room, with Jackson close behind, Jackson said. The prisoner said he saw a knife on the floor which Thompson evidently dropped. He picked it up, Jackson told police, followed Thompson across a metal table, tumbled to the floor with him and struck at him with the knife, cutting him on the left cheek.

Under questioning, Jackson told police he never had seen the knife before and did not know how it had gotten into the jail.

Thompson would say only that he was cut with a pocket knife by Jackson.

Boeger told a reporter that Jackson had the razor blade in his hand when guards arrived in the recreation room. Three unusually small dice were found in a tobacco sack in Jackson's possession, the warden said.

Other prisoners told authorities that a knife had been used and helped guards locate it in the toilet bowl.

Boeger said the jail does not permit dice-playing, but it was virtually impossible to prevent it. "These boys have nothing to do but think for 24 hours a day," he said. "They can figure a lot of ways to make dice. They even make them out of soap, or little pieces of wood."

Jackson, who lives at 2724 North Jefferson avenue, has been in the jail since June 2. He has been charged in warrants with assault with intent to kill and carrying a concealed weapon in connection with the wounding on May 29 of his former friend, Mrs. Bernice Guy, 23, and her daughter, Ronda, 5.

Thompson, a prisoner since May 26, is charged in two warrants with robbery with a deadly weapon.

Both men were booked suspected of assault with a deadly weapon as a result of the fight.

$225,000 FIRE IN MAPLEWOOD DESTROYS STORE

The Shamrock Furniture & Appliance Co. store at 7162-68 Manchester boulevard, Maplewood, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early yesterday. Damage was estimated at $100,000 to the two-story brick building and $125,000 to the contents.

Two cruising Maplewood policemen saw smoke from the second floor of the building at 5:25 a.m., and turned in an alarm. When the first firemen arrived, the blaze had not reached the lower floor. The fire spread quickly, and Maplewood Fire Chief Matthew Recsnik sent an urgent call for help to St. Louis and suburban departments.

Ten pieces of apparatus arrived from St. Louis, and firemen from University City, Webster Groves, Richmond Heights, Rock Hill, Brentwood and Shrewsbury also responded. Hose from aerial trucks prevented flames from spreading to adjoining buildings, but the firemen were unable to save the Shamrock store.

The roof and second floor of the building collapsed as flames burned through supporting beams. The contents, including fixtures and equipment in the three offices above the store were a total loss, Chief Recsnik said. There was heavy water damage to furniture stored in the basement. There were no injuries.

Spectators gathered quickly, and traffic was rerouted around the area for about five hours. Firemen continued to pour water on the wreckage until late afternoon. Several hose lines were connected throughout the night, in the event the smoldering wreckage rekindled.

Chief Recsnik said the fire apparently started in offices of the Public Finance Corp., on the second floor. Other offices destroyed were those of Dr. Oscar T. Haumueller, a dentist, and Sprague F. Kimberlin, chiropractor.

A three-story building on the site was destroyed by fire in February 1936. The fire burned all night in below-zero temperatures that froze ladders to the ice-coated walls.

Occupants at that time were a Jim Remley Market, Scott's Variety Store and a bowling alley.

COSTLY SAW BLADES STOLEN

Masonry saw blades valued at $9522 and $50 in cash were stolen yesterday in a burglary at Chapman Knives & Saws, Inc., 4040 Clayton avenue, police said.

Police said entrance was gained by forcing a wooden window panel. A company spokesman placed the value on the blades. He said that 36 different blades were stolen. The cash was in an office desk.

Kennedy Returns From Estate, Appears Almost Recovered

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UPI) President Kennedy flew back here today from a weekend rest in the country, apparently all but recovered from his recent ailments.

He planned a day of activity in the White House after his return by helicopter from Glen Ora, his rented estate near Middleburg, Va.

Alighting on the White House lawn after the 24-minute flight, Mr. Kennedy stepped out of the helicopter briskly and walked easily to his office, showing no evidence of the back ailment that put him on crutches earlier in the month. He apparently was pretty well over the virus infection that sent him to bed for one day last week.

Leaving church services at Middleburg yesterday, Mr. Kennedy was asked by a reporter how he was feeling. He replied with a smile, "Oh, fine, very good."

He walked without crutches, having eased off use of them for several days after needing them for about two weeks to relieve pressure on his strained lower back. He showed no outward aftereffects of the "one-day virus" which kept him in bed last Thursday.

The only real evidence of Mr. Kennedy's back trouble was that he remained seated while other worshippers knelt at the Mass of St. John's parish in the Middleburg Community Center.

Dr. Janet Travell, White House physician, treated Mr. Kennedy with penicillin while he was at Glen Ora.

Another indication of Mr. Kennedy's improved health was that yesterday marked his first visit to church in three weeks.

Mrs. Kennedy accompanied her husband to church.

CURTIS ACCUSES DILLON OF TAX 'IRRESPONSIBILITY'

United States Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, yesterday accused Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon of "irresponsibility" in predicting a tax cut next year.

Curtis, in a New York television broadcast, said Dillon made the prediction last week in a speech before the National Press Club. But in an appearance before the House Ways and Means Committee a day earlier, Dillon urged a higher federal debt limit, and made no mention of a tax cut, Curtis noted.

Curtis said Dillon's position "made no sense," since this country is entering what Dillon calls a "most prosperous year." Dillon should be balancing the budget and paying off some of the national debt instead of talking about tax cuts, Curtis said.

COUNTY POLICE DESTROY THREE PINBALL DEVICES

Three pinball machines, valued at $2000, were destroyed today by St. Louis county police.

Two of the machines, each worth $700, were seized Aug. 29 from Montrey's Tavern, 5701 North Lindbergh boulevard. Mrs. Verona Pugh, a waitress at the tavern, was fined $100 Feb. 8 after pleading guilty to a charge of possessing gambling paraphernalia.

Magistrate Peter J. Maniscalco at Clayton, who imposed the fine, ordered the two machines destroyed.

The other pinball machine was taken Nov. 24, 1959, from the American Buffet, 2604 Woodson road, Overland.

L. D. Burdine, a bartender at the buffet, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of gambling paraphernalia. He was fined $100 by Magistrate A. Bertram Elam last Feb. 8. The order to destroy the machine valued at $600, was issued by Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis.

THREE DROWN IN SEPARATE ACCIDENTS HERE

Two Men Are Victims in Rivers — 2-Year-Old Girl Dies in Well.

Three persons drowned in separate accidents in the St. Louis area yesterday. The victims were:

Raymond Hazer Jr., 39 years old, 10430 Liberty avenue, Creve Coeur.

Earl G. Gregory, 44, 4987 Magnolia avenue.

Sharon Jackson, 2, Maryland Heights.

Hazer drowned in the Mississippi river near Sherwood Harbor, one fourth of a mile north of the Grafton ferry crossing. He was operating a boat which was pulling Mrs. Hazer on water skis when the craft swerved suddenly, throwing him into the water. He had been sitting on the side of the boat.

Mrs. Hazer, who fell off the water skis, said her husband swam toward her as the boat began circling. When he was about three feet from her, he shouted to her to submerge because the craft was heading toward them.

She went under the water, and when she came to the surface, Hazer had disappeared. St. Charles County Sheriff Lester Plackmeyer said the boat apparently struck Hazer after narrowly missing his wife and shattering one of the water skis.

His body was recovered about three hours later by members of the Grafton and St. Charles volunteer emergency corps. Hazer was chef at Carpenters' Hall and the father of six children.

Gregory drowned in the Meramec river at Glencoe when he attempted to swim from the east bank to a gravel bar on the west bank in search of a good fishing spot.

He had been fishing with his wife and two brothers, Clark and Raney Gregory, both of 2735A South Tenth street, from a boat tied to the east bank and decided to try another location.

With his fishing pole in his hand, Gregory entered the water fully clothed, including shoes, and attempted to swim to the gravel bar 300 feet away. About one third of the way across, he disappeared, his brothers said.

Members of the Briggs Rescue Squad recovered the body two hours later about 600 feet downstream. The fishing pole was still in Gregory's hand. He was a counter man at the Quick Way Grill at Eighteenth and Olive streets.

FIRECRACKER BURNS BOY, STORE OWNER CHARGED

William Glass, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glass, 9203 Bridgedale court, Berkeley, suffered first-degree burns on the fingers of his left hand Saturday when he caught a firecracker thrown by another boy, police say.

Mrs. Nettie Terrill, owner of a confectionery at 2843 Wisconsin avenue, was arrested and booked for violation of a city ordinance prohibiting possession and sale of fireworks. Police said she admitted selling an assortment of fireworks to the boy.

The Glass boy was treated at Alexian Brothers Hospital. He was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Messmer, 1963A Arsenal street, for the day. Sale and possession of fireworks such as torpedoes, cherry bombs, skyrockets, Roman candles, salutes and large firecrackers is not permitted in the city and carries a minimum fine of $50.

225 SEEK SUMMER JOBS AT YOUTH SERVICE OFFICE

About 225 youths filed applications for summer jobs today when the Youth Employment Service opened at 1823 Hickory street.

"About 125 children registered for jobs during the first two hours after we opened, although we expected 75 to 80 persons," John A. Sullivan, director of the Youth Employment Service, said.

The employment office, a branch of the State Employment Service, arranges temporary jobs for persons under 16 years of age. It will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays through August.

The Hickory street office is located in the Caroline Mission of the United Church of Christ.

The Jackson child drowned in a 20-foot-deep well in front of the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Virginia Jackson, who lives on Fee Fee road in Maryland Heights.

The child was playing on boards which covered the opening of the well when one of the boards moved and the child plunged in. The well contained about 12 feet of water.

Members of the Maryland Heights fire department pumped water from the well and recovered her body. An inhalator was used without success.

The child's mother, Mrs. Isaiah Jackson, and her grandmother were in the front yard when she fell into the well. Her father was away on an errand. The Jacksons, who live in the Bolton Grove section of Maryland Heights, have four other children and are expecting another.

THREE ARRESTED AFTER ROBBERY BY AX-WIELDERS

Held on Complaint of Indiana Victims of $107 Holdup—Auto Is Damaged.

Three men were held today on complaint of three visitors from Indiana, who reported they were threatened with an ax and robbed of $107 early yesterday. The victims' automobile was damaged in two encounters with the men.

Held were Arthur R. Schirmer, 29 years old, a filling station attendant living in the 3100 block of South Compton avenue; Louis A. Trost Jr., 20, laborer, and Max Robinson, 23, painter, both living in the 3500 block of Victor street.

Police were told that a series of incidents began in East St. Louis when a car occupied by James Pruett, 21; Carl J. Bratton, 20, and Claude Bough, 15, all of Shoals, Ind., was bumped from the rear by a car driven by Schirmer at a railroad crossing. A man, later identified as Robinson, got out of the second car with an ax and smashed a window of the Indiana car, police were told.

Both cars crossed Veterans Memorial Bridge to the Third Street Interregional Highway. At Market street, both drivers stopped and Trost and Robinson got out and demanded money from the Indiana visitors. The windshield and a window of the car were smashed with the ax, and the Indiana group then handed over wallets containing a total of $107, they said. Schirmer and his two companions drove away.

A license number reported by the victims was traced to Schirmer, who was arrested at his home. An ax was in his car. Schirmer told detectives he and his associates had been drinking and there had been an argument with the Indiana group at the East Side railroad crossing.

Trost was arrested at his home and Robinson was taken into custody by St. Louis detectives and St. Clair county officers at an East Side tavern. All were booked suspected of robbery and destruction of property.

On information obtained from Schirmer and Trost, police recovered the wallets from sewers in South St. Louis. Bratton's wallet contained $55 in a secret compartment.

the fortress of imperialism in the Middle East is ready at your disposal."

There were repercussions in the Middle East, where the rival ambitions of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and those of Kassem have clashed.

A dispatch from Damascus said the Arab League council may hold an urgent session to take up what was called the Iraq-Kuwait crisis. Damascus is capital of the Syrian province of the U.A.R. Egypt is the other province.

Informed sources in Damascus said, however, that a council meeting might be delayed until attempts at mediation have been made.

Damascus newspapers carried Kassem's claim without comment other than to call it surprise. But Nasser has shown more than passing interest in Kuwait and its future.

Sent Congratulations.

The U.A.R. President recently sent Sheik Abdullah a warm message of congratulations on Kuwait's independence.

There was speculation that Saudi Arabia, another neighbor of Kuwait, might object to Kassem's move.

In his statement, the Iraqi Premier insisted that Kuwait belonged to Iraq by historical right.

He told a press conference last night the takeover would be peaceful and the ruling sheik would be named chief administrator of the 5800 square-mile territory.

Kassem, who led the revolt that overthrew Iraq's Hashemite monarchy in 1958, warned the Sheik that if he misused his office, he would be considered rebellious.

$3,000,000 a Day.

The ruling sheik has been receiving about $3,000,000 a day from a crude oil output that totaled more than 500,000,000 barrels in 1959.

One London diplomat contradicted Kassem's statement that Iraq is entitled to Kuwait for historical reasons. He said Kuwait had been recognized as independent by the British since 1914, several years before the British established Iraq as an independent kingdom after World War I. Iraq was created out of the three former Turkish provinces of Basra, Baghdad and Mosul.

Treaty Signed in 1899.

Kuwait, which lies on the Persian gulf between Saudi Arabia and Iraq, signed a treaty with Britain in 1899 when it was seeking protection from the Turks. The sheikdom remained under British protection since then, but in practice had been conducting its own foreign relations for some time.

Kuwait's oil has made its rulers enormously rich and has benefited the sheikdom's 80,000 citizens, who have free education, modern hospitals and other facilities not shared by their Middle East neighbors despite their own vast oil revenues.

The oil supply has brought 140,000 foreigners from Britain, the United States, Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Palestine and Syria.

Kuwait's government was one of the first to congratulate Kassem after his 1958 revolution and to wish him "every prosperity and success."

Sea Strike

their picket lines to permit movement of goods so designated.

"I am aware of the suggestions some of the parties to this dispute have made for minimizing its effect upon the national health and safety," the President said. "The suggestions appear, on first impression, more tactical than substantial. I request the board of inquiry to consider these suggestions, however, and to include findings of fact regarding them in the report the board will submit to me."

The President obviously invoked the Taft-Hartley Law with reluctance. He noted the "desirability in situations of this kind of more flexible statutory procedures." He said that Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who made a weekend survey of the strike effects as the forerunner of the President's action today, "has sought in the course of this dispute to develop such procedures but has not been able to obtain the consent of all parties."

Taft-Hartley Changes.

"This dispute," the President went on, "presents new evidence of the imperative need for modifications in the present (Taft-Hartley) law. I propose to make suggestions to the Congress along these lines very shortly."

"In the meantime," Mr. Kennedy said, "the particular dispute must be met with the procedures at hand."

He long has contended the Taft-Hartley procedures are too rigid and should be amended to give the Chief Executive several alternate plans for dealing with emergency strikes.

The President noted that the current shutdown has continued for 11 days, involves nearly all American shipping companies and more than 70,000 men and has affected commerce at every Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf port.

"There have been serious interruptions in the movement of food, oil and other essential commodities," the President went on. He said the supply lifelines of Hawaii and Puerto Rico have been cut and there have been delays in the shipment of military cargoes.

Safety Imperiled.

"The law provides for establishment of a board of inquiry whenever, in the opinion of the President, a strike affecting a substantial part of any industry will, if permitted to continue, imperil the national health and safety," Mr. Kennedy said. "It is my opinion we have reached that stage in this dispute."

He described himself as "keenly aware of the desirability of so conducting the Government's participation in this dispute as to recognize the continuing importance here of collective bargaining."

"For this dispute eventually will be settled by collective bargaining," he said.

Secretary Goldberg arrived at the White House for a conference with the President about 10:30 a.m. The order setting the Taft-Hartley machinery in action was announced about an hour and a half later.

Goldberg, once general counsel for the AFL-CIO United Steel Workers Union and a long-time critic of the Taft-Hartley injunction procedure, was with White House press secretary Pierre Salinger when the President's action was announced.

Hearings in New York.

Goldberg said the board of inquiry will begin work almost immediately. He said its hearings will be conducted in New York.

Taft-Hartley injunctions, which are obtained by the Attorney General, provide an 80-day "cooling off period" during which strikers are required to return to their jobs while efforts to reach agreement continue. If there is no settlement at the end of the 80-day period, the strikers are free under the law to resume their walkout.

The telegram containing the offer of the three unions to permit movement of critically needed food and fuel shipments was signed by the heads of three unions which form one clique in the complicated dispute. The signers were Joseph Curren, head of the National Maritime Union, Charles M. Crooks, president of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, and William R. Steinberg, president of the American Radio Association.

Other Unions.

The other striking unions, the Seafarers International Union and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and another radio union, said they had been clearing vessels carrying essential cargoes as a matter "of routine practice and traditional policy." A spokesman for these unions said he did not believe the organizations had been asked to clear any non-military shipments, but that any such request would be considered.

Jesse M. Calhoun, chairman of a bargaining committee representing SIU and the Marine Engineers, charged that shipowners were refusing to bargain because they expected to be rescued by a Taft-Hartley injunction.

The offer from the three unions to move essential cargo on the say-so of an impartial board is a departure from their previous policy in this strike. They have opposed any Government intervention now because this is considered the peak shipping season and they believe their economic pressure now is at its height.

For these reasons the unions turned down last week a suggestion by Secretary Goldberg for a voluntary 60-day recess in the strike. Their refusal to accept this proposal triggered movement toward the Taft-Hartley emergency procedures.

The dispute involves economic issues such as shorter hours and better pay. But a principal bone of contention is the refusal of American-owned ships flying foreign "flags of convenience" to bargain with the unions. These ships generally carry flags of and are registered in Liberia, Panama and Honduras to escape having to pay United States taxes and conform to American union labor conditions.

By the Associated Press.

Joseph Curran, head of the NMU, said earlier today at Unity House, Pa., that Taft-Hartley injunction could lead to a much worse shipping walkout next fall.

Curran discussed the 11-day strike with fellow members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council at their summer session at Unity House.

"Sailors can't be pushed around," Curran said. "We might hit them twice as hard after an injunction expires."

Curran said that if an injunction is obtained, his union would obey it and go back to work. He said, however, it was only postponing the day when the strike issues must be settled in negotiations with the shipowners.

He claimed he had worked out a complete agreement with shipping owners a few days ago but said the owners did not go through with the agreement.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council unanimously recommended that Mr. Kennedy order an investigation of the large number of American owned ships registered under foreign flags.

In a resolution, the labor leaders said ship owners "have transferred hundreds of their American ships to foreign flags to reap huge profits by escaping American taxes, labor standards and safety requirements."

"These activities have made our nation a second rate maritime power, to the detriment of our national safety and security," the resolution said.

Capt. Charles Crooks, president of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, said in New York his union was "kind of disappointed" at the President's order. He said the Government "is in the process of bailing out the ship owners" by using the Taft-Hartley Act.

Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, declared, "Our industry will, of course, give full cooperation." A spokesman for his organization, which represents ship owners, called the President's action "good news."

U.A.R. AND ISRAELI TROOPS REPORTED IN BORDER CLASH

DAMASCUS, June 26 (AP)—United Arab Republic and Israeli troops fought a 75-minute battle on the Syrian-Israeli frontier last night, an army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said an Israeli patrol attacked the Syrian outpost at Khirbet Aldardara but was repulsed. He added that there were no casualties.

committee will act favorably on Mayor Tucker's recommendation on this modest, but essential item," Estep said.

Message From Tucker.

A message from Tucker was delivered by Robert Blackburn, secretary to the Mayor. Tucker is convalescing from recent surgery.

"This is supremely an occasion in which the whole community shares and properly takes pride," Tucker's message stated. "I want to assure Mr. Oates that he has made a good investment in a community which has the will, the ability and the resources to progress.

"The rebuilding of a city is no simple task. Now we can be assured that the confidence in the city's future displayed by its citizens in passing the great 1955 $110,000,000 bond issue for revitalization of the city was properly placed.

"What the announcement at this meeting represents is the certain recognition that the wise use of public money in redevelopment will be followed by totally private investment (which is) all to the benefit of the city's economy and its taxpayers."

The redevelopment plan has been approved by all the necessary public agencies and enabling legislation has been passed by the Board of Aldermen. Construction of the first stage is expected to take about 30 months.

The area to be redeveloped extends from Third street on the east to Eleventh street on the west, and from Pine street on the north to Poplar street on the south.

On Use of Stadium.

The stadium, heart of the plan, will be the home of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball and football teams. The main entrance will be located on Market street at the end of a proposed pedestrian mall along Sixth street.

The arena will be built so that it can be expanded eventually to seat 70,000 spectators.

The stadium is expected to lose about $750,000 a year, and the supporting facilities are considered necessary to assure the developers of a profit. Net profits will be limited to 8 per cent a year under terms of the Missouri urban redevelopment law. In return, taxes for the first 10 years will be limited to the land without improvements, and for the next 15 years taxes will be only 50 per cent of the normal rate.

BIRTHS IN FIRST 4 MONTHS OF 1961 SET U.S. RECORD

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—More babies were born in the first four months of 1961 than ever before in the comparable period, the Public Health Service estimated today.

The total reached an estimated 1,382,000 registered births. The old record was 1,362,000 in 1959 and last year there was a drop to 1,340,000.

The birth rate for the first four months this year was 23.1 per 1000 population, up 2.2 per cent from the 1960 rate of 22.6. There were an estimated 334,000 registered births in April, or 2.1 per cent more than the 327,000 in April 1960.

SEC IS EXPECTED TO BACK MAJOR MARKET INQUIRY

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 26—The Securities and Exchange Commission is expected to indorse a proposal for an extensive investigation of the nation's stock exchanges at congressional hearings opening tomorrow.

William L. Cary, SEC chairman, is scheduled to be the first witness at three days of hearings on a resolution by Representative Peter F. Mack Jr. (Dem.), Illinois, authorizing an appropriation of $750,000 for an inquiry to be conducted by the commission.

The SEC, which has under way a limited investigation of the American Stock Exchange, is likely to support the need for a broader inquiry that would cover the larger New York Stock Exchange as well as other stock markets and securities associations.

Changes in Market.

Reliable sources said today that Cary is expected to take the position that an inquiry should be made because market conditions have changed greatly since the last major study in 1933-34, which led to creation of the SEC. In this connection the booming over-the-counter market was cited. The SEC generally has less control over securities traded on this market than those listed on the American or New York Exchanges.

The increasing number of small investors who have entered the stock market in recent years have led to concern in some quarters as to whether present regulations and statutes are adequate to protect them.

Cary is expected to stress that the SEC's present staff is inadequate to take on an extensive investigation. Mack's resolution would allow the SEC to employ additional personnel for the proposed study.

Top Officers to Testify.

In addition to Cary, other witnesses scheduled to testify are Keith Funston, president of the New York Exchange; Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Exchange, and William Claflin III, of the board of governors of the National Association of Securities Dealers. The hearings will continue through Thursday. They will be conducted by the House commerce and finance subcommittee. Mack is chairman of the subcommittee.

Mack thinks an investigation is needed into what he has termed "widespread evidence of speculation and of apparent manipulation" in the nation's securities markets.

Both the SEC's present inquiry and the one contemplated in the Mack resolution grew out of a year-long investigation completed recently by the commission into the operations of Gerard A. and Gerard F. Re, large stock specialists on the American Exchange. The two men were expelled from the securities business May 4 after the SEC found they had conducted a multi-million-dollar market manipulation in violation of securities laws.

Marines Lost in Surf.

FIRM ACCUSED OF MONOPOLY IN FRATERNITY, CLASS RINGS

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—The Federal Government accused the L. G. Balfour Co. yesterday of monopolizing the sale and distribution of fraternity jewelry and college and class rings.

The Federal Trade Commission charged the Attleboro (Mass.) firm had "unreasonably foreclosed competitors and potential competitors from markets, and employed other illegal practices which have restrained trade."

Lloyd G. Balfour, company president, is named in the FTC complaint along with Burr, Patterson & Auld Co., Detroit, described as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Balfour. The complaint said the two companies have negotiated "sole official jeweler" contracts with practically all the national Greek-letter social, professional and honor societies.

20 FREEDOM RIDERS SEIZED IN JACKSON

JACKSON, Miss., June 26 (UPI)—The arrests of 20 Freedom Riders yesterday boosted to 164 the number jailed here since May 24, and a Negro leader promised more would come.

The group arrested yesterday followed the pattern of previous ones. Eleven Negroes and nine whites, mostly from the West coast, arrived by train from New Orleans. They walked into the segregated waiting rooms at the depot and refused to obey a police order to move.

The promise of more demonstrations was made by the Rev. G. R. Haughton of Jackson to about 500 Negroes at a rally sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

At the state penitentiary at Parchman, where a number of the integrationists have been moved to relieve crowded conditions in Jackson jails, authorities ordered one prisoner isolated to learn if he is on a hunger strike.

Price Chatham, 29, years old, Long Island, N.Y., said he has not eaten since June 2. But Dr. Hector P. Harrell, prison physician, said the man had lost only 2½ pounds. He said he suspected he was getting food from other prisoners and "unduly alarming" prison officials.

ENGINEERS TO DISTRIBUTE FLOOD PLAIN INFORMATION

The United States Army Engineer District here will accept requests for flood plain information studies after Saturday, Col. Alfred D'Arezzo, district engineer, announced today.

He said the purpose of the studies is to make information on flood hazards available to state and local governmental agencies. D'Arezzo said the information would help communities reduce future flood damage by providing facts to help them draft plans and regulations.

Applications for surveys should be made in writing to the district engineer.

It includes 470 charts showing the state of the atmosphere and the surface of the planet at various times. Tass said the atlas is based on studies made in 1956 when Mars made its closest approach to the earth.

EICHMANN SAYS HE SIGNED JEWS' DEATH ORDERS

JERUSALEM, June 26 (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann admitted today he signed orders for executions of Jews. But he likened himself to Pontius Pilate and washed his hands of any guilt.

The former Nazi lieutenant colonel told the court trying him for mass murder that he only passed on orders from top Nazi police boss Heinrich Himmler that were sent down to him through channels for transmission.

"The orders came from Himmler," he declared.

Eichmann told the court that when he learned of the Nazi "final solution" plan to exterminate European Jewry "I had the feeling of Pontius Pilate. I felt that it was not with me that the guilt lay."

Under questioning by his West German counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius, Eichmann said "I considered I had done my utmost, despite my relatively low rank of lieutenant colonel in the S.S. and I knew that I personally had sought a final solution that was neither repellent nor hideous, but possible and feasible."

Eichmann spoke in a clear, precise voice. He was seated in his bullet-proof glass box as he testified.

He continued: "I do not say this because I am facing an Israeli court and standing trial before Israeli judges today. But this is the truth. I did my very best to bring order into the chaos and confusion in the deportation and emigration of Jews."

He claimed that his idea had been to set up Jewish states—as in the plans for an all-Jewish area near Lublin in Poland and later an all-Jewish state on the big island of Madagascar off the coast of Africa.

Eichmann continued, "In the light of all this I can say that the decision was made regardless of my efforts. I felt like Pontius Pilate who washed his hands of the whole affair. It felt it was not with me that the guilt lay, because what was laid down at the Wannsee conference was laid down by the 'popes' of the state. I was only able to carry out orders and I had to follow them whether I wanted to or not.

"This is how I found justification for what I did and from this I drew satisfaction in later years."

Today's testimony centered on the Wannsee conference of top level Nazi bureaucrats outside Berlin Jan. 20, 1942, at which Gestapo chief Reinhard Heydrich said the final solution was death for 10,000,000 European Jews.

ITALY AND AUSTRIA TO SEEK MEDIATOR IN TYROL DISPUTE

ROME, June 26 (AP)—Italy and Austria have decided to seek outside mediation in their dispute over South Tyrol, but they still must agree on who will mediate.

A third round of foreign ministers' talks ended inconclusively yesterday in Zurich, Switzerland.

Italian foreign minister Antonio Segni said on returning to Rome that the Austrian delegates refused to give ground in their demand that the predominantly German-speaking Bolzano province in South Tyrol be given a large measure of virtual independence. Austria has accused Italy with discriminating against the German-speaking territory it took over after World War I. The dispute flared into violence last week that has taken three lives.

ATTACKED, ROBBED OF $174 BY TWO MEN ON STREET

Herbert Scott, 6228 Derby avenue, Wellston, reported to police he was robbed of $174 by two men in the 700 block of North Eighteenth street yesterday.

He said he was attacked shortly after he alighted from a streetcar on Franklin avenue.

Scott, a mailhandler, said he was walking south when the pair seized him from behind, struck him, knocked off his glasses and took his billfold.

ST. LOUIS AIRMAN KILLED IN CRASH

Air Force Second Lt. Jerry R. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Williams, 5038 Genevieve avenue, was killed Saturday when a small plane he was operating crashed about 50 miles east of Roswell, N.M.

Williams, 20 years old, was commissioned last March and assigned as co-pilot of a B-52 jet bomber. He was sent to Walker Air Force Base near Roswell a few days ago to take B-52 training.

A witness said the plane went into a loop and failed to come out of it. Williams and another Air Force officer, Second Lt. Hugh L. Willoughby, Boyce, Va., were burned beyond recognition.

They were in a plane on loan from the Air Force to the Walker Air Force Base Aero Club.

Killed

LT. JERRY WILLIAMS

Williams, a Beaumont High School graduate, enlisted as an Air Force cadet in September 1959. He was a member of the Civil Air Patrol here for more than two years.

Surviving in addition to his parents are three brothers, Charles, George and Gary Williams, and two sisters, Mrs. Shirley Sanfillippo and Miss Brenda Doris Williams, all of St. Louis.

U.S.-CANADIAN PICKUP PREDICTED BY U.N. SURVEY

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 26 (AP) — United Nations economists predicted last night that the United States and Canada will make a moderate recovery this year from the recession of mid-1960.

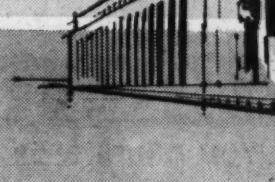

A considerable degree of unemployment will persist through 1961, but the United States rate will fall from almost 7 to about 6 per cent of the labor force, they said.

In Western Europe and Japan and in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, they said, indications are that industrial output will rise, but more slowly than last year.

Their estimates were given in the "World Economic Survey, 1960," prepared by the U.N. secretariat's Division of General Economic Research and Policies. The U.N. Economic and Social Council will study the survey at its thirty-second session July 4 to Aug. 4 in Geneva.

Electric Grid works for St. Louisans

This is an "Electric Grid" . . . part of a multi-state network of electric companies of which Union Electric is a part. Here is how it works for you.

Power lines connect Union Electric's own vast facilities with three other major utilities in Illinois and Missouri. Our partners, in turn, tie in with other utilities bordering their service areas.

During emergencies, peak load periods, or when facilities are being overhauled, we draw electricity from each other. The size and efficiency of this Electric Grid provide virtually unlimited power for St. Louis.

Just another of many ways Union Electric provides quality service at the lowest possible cost.

GOVERNORS BACK KENNEDY MOVES WITH RUSSIANS

HONOLULU, June 26 (AP)—Governors belonging to both political parties pledged strong support today to President Kennedy in his dealing with the Russians on Berlin and other crisis areas.

However, Mr. Kennedy's domestic policies came in for sharp criticism at the annual Governors Conference from some Republicans. They were joined by a Democrat who was one of Mr. Kennedy's early supporters for the 1960 presidential nomination, Gov. John Patterson of Alabama.

Patterson kicked up some excitement by attacking in a television interview what he called the childish handling of the Freedom Riders bus controversy by the President's brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who might be Mr. Kennedy's Republican opponent for the presidency in 1964, called for a moratorium on political criticism of the Administration's international moves.

Rockefeller's Views.

Rockefeller told a press conference yesterday that Mr. Kennedy obviously faces a great many problems "more complex than they looked from outside" the presidency. He said it was too early to make any judgments, commenting:

"The problems are so complex, so serious, they have such an effect on human dignity and liberty around the world I feel all of us, regardless of party, should stand behind him to support the defense of freedom with whatever steps are necessary."

Rockefeller's attitude contrasted with criticisms voiced by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 G.O.P. presidential nominee, and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a potential candidate for the 1964 Republican nomination. Rockefeller said it was too early to say whether he might run against President Kennedy in 1964.

In recent speeches Nixon has contended that the Kennedy Administration has tended to "talk big and act timidly." Goldwater has said that it will "take a lot more doing than is being done" to win the cold war.

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, California Democrat, said he believed the people were supporting Mr. Kennedy in the international field despite the Cuban invasion fiasco and the difficulties over Laos. He said he did not think this is the time for political criticism in that area.

Johnson Arrives.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, scheduled for a major speech at the annual state dinner tomorrow night, arrived last night to take the place of President Kennedy, who canceled his scheduled appearance.

Patterson said on a television program here that Robert Kennedy's actions have made race relations worse than they were previously in the South.

"The racial problem is getting worse each day and the two sides are being driven further apart by federal intervention," he said. "Mr. Kennedy called me up on the telephone in the middle of the night and issued orders like I was a private in his army. That's not what I am and that's not the way I conduct business."

Republican Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii, formerly of St. Louis, said the executive program on area redevelopment is so confused nobody knows how it is going to work. Quinn said the Administration has failed to produce on its "glowing promises" and is offering nothing new to back up its pledge to accelerate the nation's economic growth.

The Governors' committee on civil defense reported to the conference that "it is still a sobering fact that today our people lack the capacity to protect themselves and their families from the most dangerous aspect of nuclear war, fallout."

The committee, headed by Gov. Rockefeller, recommended income tax deductions for the cost of fallout shelters, the stockpiling of food in private shelters thus constructed and revision of building codes to make construction of such shelters mandatory.

Quinn told the Governors in a speech prepared for the opening business session that Hawaiian statehood had proved "a dramatic demonstration of the American ideal" by providing "full citizenship to our multiracial people out in the middle of the vast Pacific."

26,000 population some 135 miles east of Caracas, the capital.

Outside Barcelona the country was reported quiet. Traffic was detoured two blocks away from the Miraflores presidential palace but the only military guard on duty there was a detachment of steel-helmeted soldiers. On the occasion of previous uprisings armored cars have been sent to guard the palace.

The revolt came 48 hours after Gen. Pedro Jose Quevedo, the army commander, said the armed forces would put down any attempts at "personal adventures." Quevedo on Saturday proclaimed the army's loyalty to Betancourt.

Expelled Men in Revolt.

Participants in the uprising were reported to include Vivas Ramirez and Massino Perdomo, former officers expelled from the army for previous revolutionary activity.

The uprising was the fourth reported revolt of 1961 against Betancourt's middle-road administration. Both leftists and rightists have been involved. There has also been a series of strikes and riots with political overtones.

Communists irritated by Betancourt's denunciation of Soviet-Red Chinese interference in Latin American affairs have been involved in much of the trouble.

Betancourt suspended constitutional guarantees Jan. 23 after announcing uncovering of a plot by Venezuelan Reds and some military men to set up a government patterned on Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

in federal funds for curbing billboards on sections of interstate roads within their boundaries.

Short of Kennedy's Goal.

Including $600,000,000 a year resulting from the canceled cut in gasoline taxes, the measure over the next 11 years will provide about three-fourths of the additional tax revenue sought by President Kennedy. The shortage would be offset by channeling about $150,000,000 in existing general tax revenues into the highway trust fund, starting July 1, 1962.

Under the provisions, trucks weighing 13 tons or more, when fully loaded will have to pay $3 a year for every 1000 pounds instead of $1.50.

The tax on tread rubber will be increased to five cents a pound from three cents. The tax on tires and inner tubes will be boosted to 10 cents. These levies now are eight and nine cents, respectively. All the new taxes take effect Saturday.

Social Security Boosts.

By the Associated Press.

Another of Mr. Kennedy's major bills, a proposal to expand social security benefits, came up for debate today in the Senate.

The Senate is expected to clear the House-passed measure handily after a flurry of oratory over a Republican proposal to write in a health insurance program for old persons.

The House, meanwhile, will debate Mr. Kennedy's request for another five billion dollar increase in the national debt limit now standing at 293 billions.

Tomorrow the House takes up the biggest appropriations measure of the session, the $42,711,105,000 Defense Department bill.

Recess Thursday is Goal.

Both branches hope to clean up a big batch of major bills by Thursday so members can get away for a long Fourth of July holiday weekend. Neither body plans any business from Thursday until after the Fourth.

The social security bill up for consideration in the Senate lowers to age 62 the retirement age for men, increases the minimum social security benefit, raises the monthly payments to widows of retired workers, and makes other changes in the law.

This is one of the items on Mr. Kennedy's 16-point program submitted to Congress in February. So far nine have been sent to him for signature.

The Social Security benefits in the pending bill would be paid for by a ⅛ of 1 per cent increase in the security payroll tax on both the employer and employe effective Jan. 1, 1962.

Both branches will have to clear by Thursday a continuing resolution to provide funds on a temporary basis so the government can continue to operate. So far not a single money bill for fiscal 1962, starting Saturday, has been sent to the White House. Congress is farther behind on appropriations than at any time in many years.

Kennedy Tells Teachers School Aid Will Become Law in Summer

By WILLIAM K. WYANT JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 26—The National Education Association got down to business at its ninety-ninth annual meeting today after hearing a message of encouragement from President Kennedy, who predicted that federal aid to education would become law this summer.

Mr. Kennedy's message was read to the convention at its opening session last night by Representative Frank P. Thompson (Dem.), New Jersey. Thompson is House sponsor of the federal aid bill.

"The most crucial period for this legislation is still ahead," the President said. "But it is a sound measure. It is a just measure. It is and urgently needed measure, and I have every reason to believe that . . . I will sign into law before the summer is out this nation's first federal-aid-to-education program."

Speaking for himself, Thompson was not so sure. The proposed law would authorize $2,500,000,000 in federal funds to be spent over a three-year period for public school operation and maintenance, construction and teachers' salaries.

No Time for Despair.

"I wish I could report to you tonight that passage is assured," he told teachers and officials in the huge Atlantic City Auditorium, "but I cannot in candor do that.

"On the other hand, I am prepared to say that this is no time for despair and gloom. . . . It is probably going to be a close decision, but the advocates have not lost and will not lose their nerve and determination."

Thompson said it was absolutely untrue that sponsors of federal aid were preparing to jettison teacher salaries as part of the bill. He said both facilities and staff needed assistance, and neither element would be sacrificed.

There is no basis, Thompson said, for fears that provision of funds for teacher salaries might increase the danger of federal controls in the future. Under the bill, any state fearing federal control could put all its share of the money into construction.

Tired of Debate.

"In all frankness," Thompson said, "I am rather tired of the whole debate. The need is undeniable and the proposed legislation is a sensible and prudent step towards eliminating it.

"But to say that I am tired of the whole debate and bored by the whole controversy about phantom controls and phantom bankruptcy is not to say that I have wearied or despaired of the fight. On the contrary, . . . we hope, to win."

Approximately 10,000 delegates and observers are attending the convention, largest such meeting of the year. The N.E.A. has 765,000 members. Its president is Miss Clarice Kline of Waukesha, Wis., a high school teacher.

Miss Kline spoke disapprovingly of Americans who give lip service to universal public education, but vote to defeat school bond issues and refuse to recognize that teachers must be paid well if high standards are to be maintained.

Attention On Price Tag.

"The attention of these people is always on the price tag," she said. "What the price might buy in terms of America's future seems less important than the dollar sign attached to it."

The Kennedy program for federal sharing of the cost of public education, Miss Kline said, involves nothing new in governmental philosophy.

Earlier she released a study indicating there will be a population of 214,000,000 in the United States in 1970, compared with 180,000,000 last year. The overall increase for the decade was expected to be 19.1 per cent.

Unofficial statistics showed that Missouri's population would increase from the 1960 level of 4,319,813, to 4,536,000 in 1965 and 4,811,000 in 1970. This would be an increase of 11 per cent for the 10 years, below the national average.

For Missouri, the most spectacular increase will be in the college-level group, from 18 through 21 years of age. This is expected to jump from 216,916 to 329,000, an increase of 112,084, or 51 per cent. The national increase will be 56 per cent.

In other categories, Missouri's increase was predicted as follows:

Population under five years, from 465,761 to 561,000, up 95,239 or 20 per cent; national increase 21 per cent.

Age 5-11 inclusive, from 55,905 to 625,000, up 47,095 or 8 per cent; national increase 17.

Age 12-17 inclusive, from 415,455 to 499,000, up 83,545 or 20 per cent; national increase 33.

Age 5-17 inclusive, from 993,360 to 1,124,000, up by 130,640 or 13 per cent; national increase 23.

Missouri's population increase was not up to the national percentage in any of the categories listed in the survey, although it came close in the case of pre-school children and the college age group.

Mrs. Buena Stolberg of Webster Groves, president of the N.E.A. department of classroom teachers, said in her annual message this morning that two-thirds of the nation's people will be living in metropolitan areas by 1970.

"We must be willing to experiment with new ideas and techniques to improve our teaching," she said. "We must inform ourselves of new methods and teaching tools.

"At the same time we must be firm in our insistence on sound experimentation and research, so that children's welfare will in no way be jeopardized by persons who are interested only in promoting an idea or selling a product."

Sour Cream is a versatile performer. Here the dairy product is shown in the center of a lazy Susan, surrounded by a few of the seasonings and condiments which may be used to make varied salad dressings. Recipes are given for 22 of them, including types suitable for fruit, seafood, meat or vegetable salads.

Cream Soured Scientifically

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor

THERE IS a certain glamor to sour cream which certainly is belied by its plain-Jane name. Actually, the term is confusing to many homemakers, since commercially soured cream is quite different from cream that has soured from being in a warm spot too long or becoming lost in the depths of the refrigerator. Extra heating required in the pasteurization process means that milk and cream keep fresh longer; it also results in cream taking so long to sour naturally that it spoils first.

Commercially soured cream is a fresh dairy food, made from sweet cream which has been pasteurized and homogenized, then inoculated with a lactic acid culture to sour it instantly. After being held at a warm temperature for eight to 10 hours, it is cooled quickly and packaged.

If you want to use a recipe that calls for sour cream and do not have any on hand, it is possible to make a substitute at home. Best way is to add one tablespoon vinegar or one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice to one cup of table or coffee cream, or undiluted evaporated milk; stir, and let stand in a warm place until the cream thickens.

Most Americans meet sour cream for the first time as a topping for baked potatoes, sprinkled with chopped chives or crumbled crisp bacon. Excellent fare—but only an introduction to the countless ways in which this versatile food can dress up everyday dishes.

As a garnish for soup (tomato, green pea or beet), as a sauce (add horseradish for meats, chopped cucumbers for fish), as a dip, a salad dressing, a topping for fruits, or as an ingredient it makes that subtle difference which establishes a woman as "a fabulous cook."

The recipes in today's section have been selected to illustrate the versatility of this smooth dairy product, with its delicate but piquant flavor which is so hard to describe and so impossible to forget.

Since salads are such summer favorites, let's start with salad dressings. Here are 22 of them, no less, which illustrates how sour cream plus various seasonings and condiments can dress salads most flatteringly.

SOUR CREAM DRESSINGS.

What should

A MOUTHWASH SHOULD KILL GERMS FAST...

...KEEP BREATH CLEAN...HAVE A LASTING EFFECT...HOUR AFTER HOUR

New MICRIN
kills mouth germs fast with results that last

KEEPS MOUTH FRESH, BREATH CLEAN FOR HOURS

When you use a mouthwash, the first thing you want to do is get rid of the germs in your mouth and throat—germs that cause bad breath, germs that can cause infection.

MICRIN does destroy these mouth and throat germs instantly—by the millions.

And, most important, the results of MICRIN last—hour after hour after hour.

Just a single use of MICRIN results in a dramatically reduced number of germs in your mouth for hours afterward. Your taste stays fresh and your breath stays clean—hour after hour. Carefully controlled clinical and laboratory tests have proved MICRIN's lasting results.

MICRIN's unique formula, with Dequalinium, is the reason MICRIN is far ahead of ordinary mouthwashes and toothpastes.

You'll like the refreshing, pleasant taste of mint-blue MICRIN, the oral antiseptic that kills germs fast with results that last.

Green Beans Supreme are made with a flavorful sauce with a sour cream base, and are topped with snappy sharp cheddar cheese. Serve with pork chops and spiced crab-apples, rolls and butter.

Sour Cream

One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon dry mustard.
One-half teaspoon chopped mixed herbs.
One teaspoon paprika.
One egg.

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Form into meat balls and brown in butter. This will make 10 meat balls about two inches in diameter. Meanwhile prepare:

Sour Cream Tomato Sauce:

One and one-half cups water.
Two beef bouillon cubes.
One six-ounce can tomato paste.
Two teaspoons worcestershire sauce.
Two cups dairy sour cream.

Heat water and add beef bouillon cubes. Stir until dissolved. Add tomato paste and worcestershire sauce and bring to a boil. Stir in the sour cream. Pour over meat balls in skillet and simmer for 10 minutes, or until the sour cream is heated through. Serve alone or with noodles or rice.

CHICKEN PAPRIKA is one of the world's great dishes.

Chicken Paprika

One large frying chicken (three to three and one-half pounds).
Three to four tablespoons butter.
One-half cup chopped onion.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
Paprika.
One bay leaf (optional).
One-half pint (one cup) dairy sour cream.

Melt butter in heavy frying pan with tight fitting cover. Add onions and cook over very low heat until onions lose crispness. Push onions to one side of pan. Add chicken, cut in pieces for serving, and sprinkle heavily with paprika. Cook slowly for about five minutes (does not need to brown). Turn. Add more paprika until chicken is well coated. Add bay leaf, salt and one-half cup of water.

Cover tightly. Cook very slowly for 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. To prevent sticking, add a bit of water if necessary. Spoon the sour cream over the chicken, cover and cook slowly eight to 10 minutes more. Stir the cream down into the paprika sauce. Arrange chicken on warm platter and pour sauce over all.

Green Beans Supreme.

One-third cup minced onion.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One cup dairy sour cream.
Two cups French style green beans, cooked, canned or frozen.
One-half cup grated sharp cheddar cheese.

Simmer onion in melted butter. Add flour, salt and pepper and mix well. Add sour cream and heat through. Blend with cooked beans and pour into a shallow baking dish. Top with grated cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

CHEESE CAKE is the "just right" thing to serve on so many occasions. This fluffy pineapple-apricot refrigerator one is the no-bake type (happy idea for summer.) It calls for three of the good dairy foods which are so plentiful at this time of year.

Pineapple-Apricot Refrigerator Cheese Cake.

One nine-ounce can crushed pineapple.
One 17-ounce can apricot halves.
One and one-fourth teaspoons salt.
Two cups sieved cottage cheese (cream style).
Two tablespoons plain gelatine.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One cup liquid (juice from canned fruit with water added to make one cup).
One cup dairy sour cream.
One cup whipping cream.
One-half cup sugar.
One-half cup graham cracker crumbs,
Three tablespoons melted butter.
Three tablespoons finely chopped nuts.

Sieve pineapple and apricot halves. Add salt and sieved cottage cheese and mix well.

Dissolve the gelatine in the lemon juice. Heat the fruit juice to boiling and pour over the gelatine. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cool slightly.

Gradually add to cheese mixture and blend thoroughly. Add sour cream.

Whip cream and add sugar. Fold into cheese mixture.

Pour into an eight-inch spring form pan and chilll several hours. Unmold on plate. Mix crumbs, butter and chopped nuts and sprinkle over top of cake. Garnish with fresh or canned apricot halves.

Zesty Dressing For Fruit Salads

Sour cream, orange juice and grated orange rind are given zip with instant minced onion and tabasco sauce in this dressing.

It is a fine way to add interest to fruit salads.

Orange Cream Dressing.

One cup dairy sour cream.
Two teaspoons grated orange rind.
Three tablespoons orange juice.
One tablespoon instant minced onion.
One teaspoon sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash tabasco sauce.

Blend all ingredients. Chill. Serve with fruit salads.

Yield: One and one-fourth cups dressing.

Pancake Topping

Pineapple and rhubarb sauce makes a delicious topping to serve on pancakes or waffles for Sunday brunch. Combine two cups of diced fresh rhubarb with one cup of crushed pineapple, one-half cup of light corn syrup, one-fourth cup of sugar and a dash of salt. Simmer until rhubarb is tender and sauce lightly thickened.

Tired of fried and broiled fish? Try baking fillets or steaks in a sour cream sauce, seasoned with dill pickle, onion, green pepper and parsley.

Cucumber Dressing For Salad Greens

Crisp, chilled salad greens will take on new appeal when served with this Cucumber Dressing.

One medium size cucumber.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-half cup commercial sour cream.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Pepper to taste.

Peel cucumber and grate on fine grater. Remove seeds and drain pulp.

Mix grated cucumber pulp with mayonnaise, sour cream, salt and pepper; blend well. Chill until ready to use.

Yield about one and one-half cups dressing.

String-a-Skewer

Don't forget to let your guests get into the string-a-skewer act. Set out the makin's and let them string their own. The big thing to keep in mind about skewer cooking is that while many meats, vegetables and fruits are wonderful done this way, they don't always belong side by side on the same skewer.

The best way is to group slow-cookers on one set of skewers, quickly-cooked foods on another.

Sausage Balls

For your next party add these gay appetizers to your tray. There's a surprise inside.

Surround stuffed olives with liver sausage, forming little balls. Roll each in minced parsley and stick with wooden picks.

Salad Idea

For an unusual salad, arrange canned Bartlett pear halves on salad greens, place a spoonful of dairy sour cream in the pear cavity and sprinkle generously with toasted coconut.

BOY PLAYING WITH RIFLE KILLS SISTER

Betty Ann Bragg, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Louzie Bragg, 18 North Fifteenth street, East St. Louis, was killed last night when a rifle her eight-year-old brother was playing with discharged, the bullet striking her in the head, police reported.

Another brother, James Edward Bragg, 11, told police that Mrs. Bragg had gone to a movie, leaving her five children at home alone. The eight-year-old, James Thomas Bragg, obtained a .22-caliber rifle from a closet and began chasing the girl with it, police reported.

After warning his brother that the gun was loaded, James Edward went to the kitchen, he said. Shortly afterward, he heard a shot, and James Thomas ran in, saying his sister was shot.

The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. An inquest will be held.

E. ST. LOUIS SERVICE STATION EMPLOYES ROBBED OF $60

Two attendants at a service station at 6800 State street, East St. Louis, were robbed of about $60 last night by a man who posed as a customer, police reported.

Duke Trammel, 21 years old, Dupo, Ill., told police a man drove into the station and ordered gasoline. After Trammel serviced the car, the man handed him a paper bag and told him to put his money in it. The man told him he had a gun in his pocket, Trammel said.

The other attendant, Paul Fulton, 23, of Tilden, Ill., came up to the car and the man ordered him to turn over his money also, Trammel said. The robber drove east on State.

MINERS TRYING TO REACH 3D MAN TRAPPED IN CAVE-IN

PETROS, Tenn., June 26 (AP)—Weary workmen resumed their toil inside Fork Mountain Mine today in an attempt to learn the fate of the last of three men trapped by a cave-in Friday.

The bodies of two coal miners killed in the collapse were recovered over the weekend.

Charles Seiber, 35 years old, presumed dead, was believed trapped behind a heap of rock and debris about 400 feet inside a shaft in the face of Fork Mountain. Miners worked through yesterday trying to reach Seiber but they held no hope that he would be found alive.

2000 EX-REDS IN INDIA JOIN CONGRESS PARTY

NEW DELHI, June 26 (UPI)—More than 2000 Communists have deserted their party to join Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party, the general secretary of the Punjab State Congress Committee, Meher Chand Ahuja, announced yesterday.

He said Communist workers have left their party in protest against the anti-Indian policy of Indian Communists in the international sphere.

Earlier this year, in the Uttar Pradesh towns of Agra, Ballia and Jaunpur, at least 1000 Communists resigned to join the Congress party or Praja socialist party.

LEBANON (ILL.) MAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

The body of William E. Schmidt, 44 years old, of Lebanon, Ill., was recovered from a creek beside U.S. Highway 50, a mile west of Lebanon about two hours after his car ran off the highway Saturday night, Illinois State Police reported.

A passenger in the car, Mrs. Betty Hartman, 30, also of Lebanon, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville after the accident, suffering from shock and injuries to her right arm.

Police said Schmidt was driving west at a high rate of speed and apparently lost control of his car near the Silver Creek bridge. The car ran off the highway, struck a tree, ran across a gully and landed in the creek, which contained about 13 feet of water.

Mrs. Hartman was thrown out of the car before it entered the creek, police said. Schmidt was also thrown out of the car. His body was recovered from the creek by members of the Lebanon Fire Department rescue squad. It was not determined if Schmidt drowned or died of injuries.

Dale Schaffer of Alton died yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident last Tuesday in which five other persons were injured, one fatally.

Schaffer, 32, was the driver of a car which collided with another on Illinois Route 140 near the intersection of Illinois Route 112, about 10 miles east of Alton. Robert Crane, of Alton, a passenger in Schaffer's car, died a few hours after the crash.

VATICAN ASSAILS CUBAN MEASURES AGAINST CHURCH

VATICAN CITY, June 25 (AP) —The Vatican radio assailed today measures that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has taken against the Roman Catholic Church in Cuba.

The Vatican speaker said Castro's regime has occupied Catholic schools preparatory to issuing a decree for their nationalization.

The Cuban regime has forced hundreds of foreign priests to leave and in recent days the term counter-revolutionary has been even applied to native priests, the radio said adding:

"Nearly all the clergy of the diocese of Camaguay (province) has been ordered to leave the island in 48 hours."

Now! Relieve acid attacks caused by

STOMACH TENSION

Tablet discovery checks attacks in seconds...

then works like a warm glass of milk to keep acid stomach soothed for hours

N.Y., N.Y. (Special). Medical science knows that today, millions suffer from Stomach Tension...a distress caused by today's hectic pace of living; juice and coffee breakfasts...eat-and-run lunches...diet foods.

Your own doctor can tell you, Stomach Tension pours wave after wave of burning acid onto delicate stomach tissues. But ordinary antacids merely relieve the first wave of acid... then leave the stomach, leave you open to further attack. An antacid was needed that could give prolonged soothing relief...the same amazing relief that doctors knew a warm glass of milk gave. The answer came when physicians discovered a Glycine compound—a medication that soothed a burning acid stomach even better than a warm glass of milk. A medical publication reported that this compound gave faster relief than ordinary antacids, and actually worked to soothe the stomach for hours and guard against repeated acid attacks. This most effective compound is named Amitone.

If you suffer Stomach Tension today, and ordinary antacids fail to bring the relief you want, you need Amitone. Amitone tablets are available at all drug counters without prescription.

WOULD USE EXILES AGAINST CASTROISM

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP) —Adlai E. Stevenson proposed today that anti-Castro Cuban exiles be used to expose Castroism in Latin America.

Especially those who fought with Castro in earlier days, Stevenson said, could show Castroism up for what it really is.

"Their testimony would have a credibility which no North American can be expected to achieve," Stevenson said.

He did not give further details in speaking of this to a National Press Club luncheon. Ambassadors from the 10 South American countries he visited were honored guests at the luncheon.

Stevenson, this nation's U.N. ambassador, spoke of a growth in Communist activities throughout the hemisphere. He expressed strong hope—though he declined to predict it "with any confidence"—that, after the inter-American economic conference in Uruguay this summer, the Latin nations would band together for tougher action against Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Stevenson said many South Americans still do not understand the ties between the Castro regime and the Communist bloc. He described Castro's Cuba as a spearhead of Red penetration into the hemisphere which is being heavily exploited by the Moscow-Peiping camp.

He said the South Americans tended to regard the Castro issue as a two-nation affair between Cuba and the United States, and that he sought to explain it was a matter affecting all of the Americas.

A delayed broadcast of Stevenson's address will be carried by Post-Dispatch radio station KSD from 9:05 to 9:30 o'clock tonight.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY INCINERATOR BILL SIGNED BY DALTON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 26— A bill permitting St. Louis county to construct and operate incinerators and composting plants with general revenue funds or by revenue or general obligation bonds has been signed by Gov. John M. Dalton, it was announced today.

The bill, one of 12 signed over the weekend, had been termed "a must for the future" by St. Louis County Supervisor James H. J. McNary. At present, the county uses land fills to dispose of garbage and trash.

Another bill signed by Gov. Dalton permits school boards to outlaw fraternities and sororities and gives school authorities power to discipline students who defy the ban.

The bill, state-wide in application, was sought by the Kansas City School Board. The St. Louis School Board last fall approved a resolution outlawing such organizations.

Other bills signed by the Governor include one which makes it a misdemeanor to turn in a false fire or accident report.

COURT UPHOLDS DELAWARE PLANS FOR DESEGREGATION

WILMINGTON, Del., June 26 (AP) — United States District Court upheld today the State Board of Education's "short range" plan of school desegregation this fall for all Negroes who want it, if the school districts can handle the transfers.

Judge Caleb M. Wright, in a 15-page opinion, also upheld the state board's "long range" plan of total desegregation by 1970. The General Assembly was given supervision over the desegregation procedure.

The plans had been opposed by Louis L. Redding, A Wilmington lawyer representing Negro children seeking admission to desegregated schools. The state had held that adequate facilities must be insisted upon, otherwise impossible administrative problems would arise.

Algerians Homeless After Fire.

PHILIPPEVILLE, Algeria, June 26 (AP)—Fire destroyed 150 huts in the nearby settlement of Zardezas Saturday killing two children and leaving hundreds of Algerians homeless.

NASA HEAD SAYS U.S. WILL BEAT RUSSIA TO MOON

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UPI) —James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, predicted today the United States would beat Russia in the race to put a man on the moon and bring him back to earth.

Webb said the first manned lunar landing would put three Americans on the moon "before the end of the decade."

The achievement will cost between 20 and 40 billion dollars, "probably toward the 20-billion level," he said.

"When it comes to all the technology—to make a 'soft' landing and bring the men back—I think we're starting slightly ahead," Webb said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report.

He conceded the advantage was with Russia in being first to orbit a multi-manned spacecraft around the earth and also to fly men around the moon.

"The kind of over-all space effort that President Kennedy has recommended . . . will put us there (on the moon) first," he said.

Webb said the United States planned to use a three-man team on its moon landing to do different jobs. The United States lunar team will include a geologist, an electroncs-communications expert and a pilot, all with "cross training," he said.

In other developments:

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), of Missouri, today urged support of the President's goal of "a clearly leading role in space achievement." Symington, a member of the Senate space sciences and Armed Services Committees, said bad administration and power struggles among the military services cost the United States a two-year lead over Russia in space developments.

The Federal space agency anniunced last night it would try to orbit around the earth this week a six-foot long, 187-pound satellite designed to gather data "vitally needed by engineers who will design future space flight systems." The agency said it would record impacts of larger sizes of meteorites than those recorded by previous satellites.

AMERICANS SIT TOO MUCH, CHIROPRACTORS ARE TOLD

The United States is becoming a nation of white collar workers who spend too much time slouched at their desks in swivel chairs, delegates to an International Chiropractic Research Institute here were told today.

"There is too much sitting over long periods of time going on in our world today," Vinton F. Logan, president of Logan Basic Chiropractic College, 7701 Florissant road, Normandy, asserted. He said that at least 20,000,000 persons in this country share the backache complaint President Kennedy experienced recently.

Logan told the opening session of the four-day institute at the Chase Hotel that back ailments can be averted by greater concern for care of the spine. "People should stretch out on a bed to take the weight off their spines, giving the muscles an opportunity to rest," he said. "Back trouble can be caused by the slightest shifting of weight in a spine that sits on an uneven foundation, even in using a spade to plant a tree."

BOY IS CRUSHED TO DEATH AS CANNON TOPPLES ON HIM

Phillip Summers, 12 years old, was crushed to death Saturday evening when a cannon on which he was playing toppled over and fell across his chest in the American Legion Park in Edwardsville, police reported yesterday.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Summers of Decatur, Ill., was pronounced dead at St. Joseph Hospital in Alton. Police said the family was returning home after spending the day at the St. Louis Zoo.

They were traveling on By-Pass U.S. Highway 66 in Edwardsville, saw the park and decided to eat a picnic supper there, police said. The cannon, a souvenir, was displayed near the park's clubhouse. It took four men to lift it off the boy.

TWO RED CHINESE OFFICIALS GRANTED ASYLUM BY BURMA

RANGOON, June 26 (AP) — Two minor Chinese Communist officials who fled to Burma have been granted political asylum.

They are Han Ti-ling, formerly with the labor office at the Chinese People's Bank, and Kwang Kway-kyan, a secretary with the government broadcasting department.

They said they tried first to cross over to Hong Kong but Communist vigilance prevented this. They proceeded to the Burma border and crossed near Lashio where Burmese police arrested them.

TERRORISM IN CAMEROUN

YAOUNDE, Cameroun, June 26(UPI)—The Cameroun government has ordered general mobilization of the population in the five Bamileke districts to fight terrorists, it was reported today.

Officials enlisted more than 5000 men as an auxuiliary anti-terrorist force and armed them with machetes and a few hunting rifles, the report said.

Needs of Red China and Japan's Rising Industry Renew Historic Forces Drawing Them Together

Tokyo Would Like to See Peiping Taken Into U.N. if It Wouldn't Hurt West — U.S. Recognizing Defeated Nation Has Become Vital Power.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

© 1961, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 26.

A JAPANESE TRADE MISSION is now in Peiping negotiating with Communist China's state trading agency for renewal of commercial relations between the two Asian neighbors. This begins a process of drawing together that, because of geography and history, seems likely to override political differences.

That at any rate is the impression left here this past week by members of the Japanese mission accompanying Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda to Washington. There is no question at present of Japan's giving formal recognition to Communist China. But Japan would like to see some formula agreed on for bringing mainland China into the United Nations, if this could be done without damage to the interest of the non-Communist world.

The difficult and complicated question of China, with all the emotionalism it evokes, was largely presented by Shigenobu Shima, who proved himself a master of political nuance. Shima served for three years in the embassy in Washington, returning to Tokyo in 1957 to become deputy foreign minister and chief of the foreign office planning staff. His three years here left him in no doubt as to the power of the organized forces in this country that oppose any change in the status of Red China.

WHAT IS HAPPENING is in part a consequence of Japan's growing industrial productivity and the need to find markets. Each time a trade union or a trade association in the United States demands that Japanese imports be cut back, the ruling clique of industrialists and politicians in Tokyo begin to look nervously about for markets that might replace those lost in this country.

But the trade mission to Peiping and other signs of a renewal of old ties can also be put down to the difficult situation in which Communist China finds itself. The initiative came from Peiping. It marks the end of a break that came three years ago when, after carefully working out an exchange of trade missions, Tokyo refused to allow the Red China mission to fly Red China's flag in the Japanese capital.

The first tentative trade talks took place in March. Now the Japanese are considering whether to buy Chinese coking coal, soybeans, salt and certain other commodities. They would be exchanged for Japanese manufactures and thereby Red China's desperate need for hard currency might be somewhat eased.

IN THE COURSE of the Washington talks, the Japanese confirmed from their own intelligence sources reports received here of the seriousness of the crisis in China. It is so grave, according to Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka, that Peiping has suspended for an indefinite period the all-out drive to industrialize the country. The major failure has been in agriculture, with widespread hunger and belt-tightening throughout the country. The Communist Chinese regime ascribes this to bad weather and resulting crop failures.

But reports to Tokyo and other world capitals indicates serious political trouble in the effort to communize the land and force all peasants to work in giant communes under constant surveillance. With the Chinese industrial drive indefinitely suspended, the Japanese gave officials here the impression that Peiping was compelled to turn to Tokyo. And on Tokyo's terms, it was indicated, meaning that Red China will foreswear any effort to influence domestic policy in Japan.

In talking about what seems to be the beginning of a new orientation, Shima and others used the word "sentimental." The "sentimental" ties with China going back thousands of years are so important that they cannot be ignored.

What is more, the Japanese have nothing against the Chinese people. In China's long history, various forms of government have come and gone, yet the power, if only the power to endure and resist, of the Chinese people has continued. And so, in the philosophic view with which the Japanese profess to view China today, it will be again.

THE PROBLEM is complicated by Nationalist China and the fact that Tokyo recognizes the China of Chiang Kai-shek. In 1958 a violent protest from Formosa against the establishment of a Red China trade mission flying the red flag in Tokyo caused Japan to pull back and forbid the display of the flag. That, in turn, led to Peiping abruptly calling the whole deal off.

Similarly, Nationalist China is a complication in Japan's approach to the issue of admission of Red China to the U.N. Japan probably would support a "two Chinas" arrangement, under which Formosa would continue to have U.N. membership after Red China came in. But Peiping has repeatedly denounced such a solution.

What Japan appears to be saying is what some American critics of our China policy have long said: You can't ignore 600,000,000 people.

After the 1958 trade mission deal was broken off, the Japanese turned to other suppliers. Soy beans have come from the United States. And in the new approach, the Japanese say they are making it clear to Peiping that they are not in urgent need of Chinese sources of supply. If China wants to trade, perhaps some exchanges can be arranged.

It is this take-it-or-leave-it attitude that Japanese officials stressed in explaining, while in Washington, what is beginning to take place. Peiping has been saying that trade could be arranged only between a Chinese state trading agency and a Japanese state trading agency. But Tokyo has insisted that the Japanese end of any deal must be handled by private traders.

HOW REAL this distinction is one may doubt, since government and big industry are closely linked in Japan. The constantly repeated theme is that Japan must use its skills to hold a place in the markets of the world or face the kind of explosion that led to World War II. By putting the China trade in nominally private hands, with the government remaining in the background, it is possible to disclaim any political implications.

Japan has for several years been America's second or third best customer, with Canada first. With the exception of 1958, the trade balance has been in favor of the United States. Japan is one of the best markets for American raw cotton.

But in recent years Japanese competition has begun to hit sensitive spots. This has been true notably in textiles. Six months ago the Textile Workers' Union threatened to boycott all woolen goods imported from Japan. While this threat was

Stevenson Says New Cuban Invasion Could Kill Inter-American System

But He Asserts Adverse Reaction to Abortive Attempt Recedes.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 26.

A REPETITION of the United States-sponsored invasion of Cuba could be fatal to the inter-American system, Adlai E. Stevenson told the Post-Dispatch last night.

He said he found on his recent tour of South America that all Latin American leaders considered the attempted invasion a great mistake and "an offense to the American system."

"The adverse reaction now is receding, partly because of the great interest shown in the alliance for progress program," Stevenson said. "But another unilateral intervention, unless approved by the Organization of American States, could be fatal."

The ambassador to the United Nations returned Thursday night from an 18-day, 16,500-mile tour of 10 countries of South America. He reported to President Kennedy Friday on his findings.

Stevenson said he had obtained a file of articles published by the Post-Dispatch earlier this year about political and social unrest and Communist activity in Latin America in preparation for his trip. He said the articles showed "extraordinary insight that was later confirmed by my own observations."

After a weekend of swimming, tennis and relaxation at the home of Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee at nearby Middleburg, Va., Stevenson discussed his observations and conclusion in a 90-minute interview.

STEVENSON SAID he found President Janio Quadros of Brazil particularly vehement in his criticism of the invasion attempt, calling it a plain case of intervention by the United States. Quadros and other Latin American leaders expressed anxiety over the possibility of further similar moves against Cuba.

Stevenson said he thought he had been successful in allaying their fears.

One executive, whom Stevenson declined to name, told him the invasion plan was bad in itself but carried with it the further disaster that it failed, thus giving the impression that Cuba had been able to administer a defeat to the mighty United States.

This same line was being exploited, Stevenson said, by two Cuban envoys who followed him around South America, meeting with government leaders sometimes only an hour after Stevenson's visits. One of the Cubans, named Aja, is chief of the North American section of the Cuban Foreign Office.

— Associated Press Wirephoto.

ADLAI STEVENSON as he visited June 11 with Brazil's PRESIDENT JANIO QUADROS.

Stevenson told a group in Colombia, as he concluded his trip, that the two Cubans reminded him of the Republican "truth squad" that followed him around the country in his two campaigns as Democratic nominee for President. He recalled saying that the "truth squad bore the same relationship to truth that firemen do to a fire—they will extinguish it if they can."

STEVENSON LEARNED that the Cubans generally asked the same question: "What is your position on self-determination and non-intervention in the inter-American system?"

He reported that some of the replies showed an awareness that Cuba has become a Communist state.

In Colombia, Prime Minister Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala said: "I'm in favor of all the principles of the Organization of American States. How many do you favor?"

In Bolivia, the Foreign Minister replied: "We are in favor of self determination. By that we mean the right of the people to determine how they shall be governed. Have you got that in Cuba?"

Among Latin Americans generally, Stevenson found that Fidel Castro still is admired as the leader of a social revolution that has stood for the popular goals of redistribution of wealth, land reform and nationalism. He found little popular awareness, as yet, that the Cuban revolution has been taken over by the Communists.

EVEN THOSE who realize the extent of Communist influence in Cuba include many to whom Havana seems as far away as Moscow, Stevenson said. He thought he had had some success in convincing some of those that Communist intervention in the hemisphere is a problem for all the American republics and not just the United States.

He observed that many persons in the United States seem unaware that the United States

Russia Within Polaris Range For 6 Months

Two Submarines Meet or Exceed Requirements in First Tests.

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP).

POLARIS SUBMARINES have been stationed, alert and ready, within rocket range of Russia for more than half a year.

The first detailed, technical reports on this unprecedented naval operation have been turned in to the Navy by submarine skippers.

The pattern for the use of the rapidly growing fleet of missile submersibles is now tested and in use.

The performance of the first two submarines and their crews met or exceeded all the requirements which were set up when the Navy and the Joint Chiefs of Staff were devising this deadly addition to the weapon system for deterring Russia from starting nuclear war.

Rear Adm. J. J. Galantin, director of submarine warfare in the Office of Chief of Naval Operations, said yesterday the first two submarines, the George Washington and Patrick Henry, began their mission "in the worst of a North Atlantic winter."

But storm, cold and long nights in icy seas in high latitudes were of no concern to the atomic-powered ships, submerged, providing their own atmosphere.

AT ALL TIMES, two of the most important features of the Polaris system worked with amazing reliability — navigation and communications.

The ships, hidden beneath the sea, knew at each moment precisely where they were with relation to potential targets in the Soviet homeland. Though weeks went by when, intentionally, no radio messages were sent from the submarines, they were receiving all messages sent them —and to all other United States fleet ships in the eastern Atlantic.

Personal, first-hand reports have now been given to Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval

President's Advisers on Berlin Form Three Schools of Thought

Soft Group Favors Use of Sanctions — Middle for Stronger Western Unity — Hard for Mobilization.

By JOSEPH ALSOP
WASHINGTON.

THE ESSENCE OF THE DRAMA in Washington is the sharpening of all the different viewpoints in the Kennedy Administration by the sharpening of the Berlin crisis. Unseen but powerful, the cross-currents of opinion swirl around the President.

Occasionally, an opinion is expressed for the record, as when Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara recently stated that he saw no immediate need for strengthening our defense effort. Yet the Defense Secretary was careful to indicate that he might change his mind later on—perhaps because a majority of the President's policy advisers hold a contrary opinion, which is not yet on the record.

What, then, are the principal cross-currents in this formative period, when President Kennedy is moving toward the crucial choices which he alone can make?

To begin with, a soft policy at Berlin is advocated by only a small minority. The President has not yet brought anyone in this minority into the Berlin discussions, but they are there on the fringes, nonetheless, arguing for economic sanctions against East Germany and other pin-prick responses to the Berlin challenge. This is exactly the kind of response Nikita S. Khrushchev expects and is ready to accept, according to those who should know best.

FAR MORE WEIGHT should therefore be given to the viewpoint of the middle group of policymakers. They advocate a hard policy, probably including eventual American mobilization. But they are much preoccupied by the difficulties they believe must first be overcome.

In particular, the members of this middle group hold that Khrushchev will be impressed, above all, by the degree of Western unity, or disunity, in meeting the threat to Berlin. One of his primary aims, they believe, is to promote a split in the Western Alliance, and especially a split between the compromise-minded British and the other Western allies.

Political measures to secure Western unity, combined with other chessboard moves like a plebescite in free Berlin, are therefore the first items on the program of the middle group.

The hard group's program begins instead, with prompt, partial but still massive military mobilization. The members of this group argue that the two real weaknesses in the Berlin position are Khrushchev's often-announced conviction that the military balance of power has tilted heavily in his favor, and his equally outspoken belief that the United States will never fight for Berlin. Nothing but early mobilization, they believe, will cure these two fatal weaknesses.

THE KIND of mobilization they have been talking about, and even laying plans for, would certainly be impressive. If they have their way, many hundreds of thousands of men will be called back to the colors. The air alert of the Strategic Air Command will be greatly intensified. And the United States element in NATO will be powerfully reinforced.

The list is formidable, though incomplete. Yet those who advocate these measures, as already indicated, appear to comprise an actual majority of the men to whom the President has given direct policy responsibility in the present crisis.

Thus far, one must add, the three men destined to be the major actors in the drama stand above, or at least apart from, the cross-currents of policy opinion. The first of these is the President. Kennedy has only indicated his own tendency by choosing former Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson, a strong member of the hard group, to prepare a kind of Berlin balance sheet for him. But that does not

FINALLY!

LEICINA IS HERE!

Look into a fully electromatic Leicina at Stanley Photo Service today

At last! We've got Leicinas in all our stores. It was a long wait, true, but worth it. All the fantastic tales we heard about Leicina—about its superbly functional design . . . its magnificent optics . . . its miraculous electromatic (what?) operation—were modest understatements. Leicina is the most astonishing 8mm movie camera you can put to your eye. We tested it when our limited quantity shipment arrived and found it takes the best 8mm movies we've ever shot. And it takes them electromatically! (There's that word again.) May we put a Leicina in your hands? Your sense of touch alone will tell you Leicina was worth waiting for. Come in and we'll even explain electromatic!

B is fifteen years older than his wife. His estate amounts to $150,000 and she has a separate estate of $200,000. They have two grown children and a number of grandchildren.

B's will provided that his estate would go to Mrs. B outright. He thought that she was likely to survive him and that she would ultimately leave the combined estates to their children. In deciding upon this plan B neglected to determine what the tax consequences would be. When he talked to his lawyer he was told that in the event he predeceases his wife the prospective Federal estate tax on his death would be only $1,050. But if Mrs. B survives him by ten years or longer his entire estate will be added to her estate for tax purposes. As a result the prospective estate tax upon her death will amount to $78,500.

B's lawyer suggested a change in plan that will reduce the prospective tax bill substantially and still accomplish what B had in mind. Under the new plan B's will provides that upon his death his estate is to be left in trust for Mrs. B in two separate trusts, a marital trust and residuary trust. Mrs. B will be paid the income from both trusts for life and the trustee may encroach upon the principal for her benefit. Mrs. B will be given the right to dispose of the principal of the marital trust by the terms of her will but will have no such power in reference to the residuary trust, which will go to the B's children in equal shares.

Under his new will the prospective Federal estate tax at B's death will be $1,050—the same as under his old will. But only the property in the marital trust amounting to one-half of B's adjusted gross estate will be included in Mrs. B's estate for tax purposes. Hence upon her death the prospective tax on her estate will be cut from $78,500 to $55,200.

If B wants to reduce the prospective tax liability upon Mrs. B's death still further he can do so by making $6,000 annual gifts to his children and thus gradually reducing his estate and hence the amount by which Mrs. B's estate will be increased for tax purposes after his death.

Letters from the People

Why Worry Over Berlin?

Why do we want to continue the stalemate in Berlin?

Why, recognizing the inherent dangers in a unified Germany, do we continue to give the greatest symbol of German nationalism, namely Berlin, the dominant position in world affairs?

What real profit, ideological or material, results to this country and our allies from the fantastic cost of maintaining this divided city?

In reality, is not our present position in Berlin indefensible, its security dependent on the whim of Russia and East Germany?

What possible advantage (against untold disadvantages) is there to us to permit Russia to force a showdown on the Berlin issue?

If the real importance of Western Germany to the Free World is its position as a buffer state, how is its position strengthened by our partial occupation of the city of Berlin? Would we not gain by the exchange of the western border area and population of East Germany for our mutual areas of Berlin?

True, the creation, agreement and execution of such a formula exchanging land and peoples would be neither simple nor quick, but it would be a positive action in the midst of inaction on our part and nightmarish threats on the Communists and should be of ultimate advantage to all parties concerned.

Why not propose and work for such a plan, instead of letting a supposedly "conquered" city prevent the possible (even if seemingly improbable) other agreements necessary to peaceful coexistence—which, after all, is the only alternative to war? Fey Jane Dawson

Half A Loaf, Then

Please allow me to suggest that with federal aid to education nearly dead something should be done by the Federal Government to aid the youth of the nation directly.

A bill could be introduced providing for supplemental aid to after-school sports and summer playground activity. The probable curb on delinquency alone would justify the expenditure. The building and development of the minds and bodies of the youth of this nation would be immeasurable.

Of course, the fuller program that has been pending before Congress for six months is very desirable but half a loaf is surely better than none at all. Morton L. Schwartz

Malice Plus Ignorance

The critics have been having a field day with the tractors-for-prisoners deal, especially with such "fuzzy thinkers" (as they like to tell you) as Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Reuther on the committee. (I'm playing down co-member Dr. Eisenhower because there is some doubt in the minds of the faithful that he is really as fuzzy as all that, for heaven's sake.)

Anyway, it is a rare letter or editorial or column that discusses the deal without dragging in the word "blackmail," which is really what this letter is about.

It is not my opinion, but Noah Webster's, that blackmail has nothing to do with the case. It means, and I quote, "(1) A tribute . . . exacted . . . for protection from pillage. (2) Extortion by intimidation, esp. by threats of public accusation or exposure."

Has our changing language really changed so much that blackmail now means ransom? Or is it that we have in our midst some acknowledged, if semi-literate, fuzzy thinkers? Or maybe it is just a case of mixing malice with ignorance.

Busses For Dellwood

I am sure the residents of Northland Hills subdivisions 4, 5 and 6 in Dellwood (500 homes) would welcome Public Service Co.'s proposed Lucas-Hunt rapid line if the company would extend this route one mile west of Chambers on West Florissant to our subdivision and give us bus service that Ferguson-Broadway bus lines will not provide.

No Longer Beat?

What is Gaslight Square? It is a grotesque section of the city where excess-profits seekers capitalize on suburbanite escapism.

The beat and bohemian had to move on to a less expensive atmosphere. Meanwhile, the Gaslight area could use some more concessions; you know, souvenirs, cotton candy, and like that.

Bi-State Tackles Transit

The Bi-State Development Agency has cautiously moved to fulfill a portion of its great potential for public service. We refer of course to its conditional decision to create a publicly-owned transit system covering the Missouri and Illinois portions of the St. Louis metropolitan area. It is a judgment that ought to enhance the future of the whole community.

The need for action is as real as it is pressing, and Bi-State's decision no doubt is as welcome to most of the 15 private transit operators as it should be to the traveling public, which stands to enjoy a sure and perhaps even substantial improvement in service as a result. As to the private operators, public ownership may well come as a blessing in disguise; it will permit them to get their capital out of a business in which there has been very little money and fewer prospects.

John C. Baine, president of the largest private operator, Public Service Co., admitted this in effect last March when he declared privately-operated transit had to have tax relief or public subsidy or both—"or some form of public ownership will be required." Some of the smaller operators have been losing money and their very survival has been a touch and go proposition. Since it is unreasonable to ask a community to forego collecting taxes in order that the private operators could continue paying dividends, public ownership now is both logical and necessary, doctrinaire notions to the contrary notwithstanding. For if the communities gave up their local taxes to a private operator they would have no assurance the tax money would be used to improve service, nor would the private operation be relieved from paying state and federal taxes.

Bi-State's decision for public ownership is predicated, among other things, on the various communities being willing to finance appraisals of the private properties that are a necessary prelude to a negotiated purchase. We would hope the communities co-operate, and judging by the response of Mayor Tucker for St. Louis and Supervisor McNary for St. Louis county, those with the financial ability may be favorably inclined, as self-interest suggests they surely should be.

As an alternative, Bi-State might well explore the possibility of working out an arrangement with those who might want to handle the sale of the revenue bonds by which the agency would acquire the private properties. That is, it just might be possible for Bi-State to obtain private financing for the appraisal work in return for a commitment permitting a particular financial house to handle the bonds.

What the appraisals will show remains to be seen, of course, but the financial details on the private operators as reported by W. C. Gilman & Co., suggest the figures should fall well with the range that would make the revenue bonds salable. And as a last resort, Bi-State can always exercise its power of eminent domain. It does not have to stand still for a holdup.

Having taken the big decision, Bi-State now ought to move aggressively to carry it out. Instead of waiting for the various communities to volunteer to help out on the appraisal costs, the agency ought actively to solicit such help, and also explore all possible alternatives. The metropolitan area needs a unified transit system, and the sooner it is created the sooner the whole community will begin to realize the benefits that such a service will produce. Bi-State has its work cut out for it.

The Electricians Back Away

The brazen effort by the Electrical Workers Local 1 and some contractors to rig the city's model Building Code in their behalf has failed. That is the unmistakable meaning of the aldermanic decision to postpone until September the heralded attempt to override Mayor Tucker's veto of the union-sponsored amendment to the code. Aldermen fronting for the union simply did not have the 20 votes necessary to override, which means that the model code remains on the books unblemished.

All that is necessary now is for Aldermanic President Cervantes and other leaders of the overwhelmingly Democratic aldermanic body to stand firm in support of the Mayor. If they do, this first sustained attempt to insert a make-work change into the code will die a natural death, and similar efforts by other special interest groups may be inhibited.

Presidential Military Aide

The reported selection of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as White House military adviser bears great promise. President Kennedy has every right to have such an aide and Gen. Taylor, with his long and widely varied record and his excellent personal attributes, seems the perfect choice.

President Kennedy, from all indications, simply wants to have close at hand a military man with vastly more experience than the younger officers who are attached to the White House as Army, Navy and Air Force aides. Had a man of Gen. Taylor's stature been at the President's elbow last April, would the Cuban invasion fiasco have happened? Would not the coldly analytical eye of Gen. Taylor have seen what the President at first did not see?

It is to be remembered that Adm. William D. Leahy held this post under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. It has been vacant since then. Some friction and ill-feeling ensued in Congress and other quarters where it was felt that Adm. Leahy had too much power. But on a lower level in the Truman Administration, Defense Secretary Forrestal, who accomplished so much in the Pentagon reorganization after World War II, depended on Maj. Gen. Alfred Gruenther, a man in Gen. Taylor's category, as his "principal military adviser." During the arduous reorganization years, Secretary Forrestal saved himself much time and effort by using Gen. Gruenther as his intermediary in dealing with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and in resolving differences of opinion. The general proved far more successful than the admiral in maintaining amicable relations.

The stands Gen. Taylor took during his last four years of active duty, 1955-59, as Army Chief of Staff, and his subsequent book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," reveal his thinking. He resigned because he felt the Eisenhower Administration put a balanced budget over adequate defense. He was one of the first to oppose the single policy of massive nuclear retaliation and to urge a modernized Army ready for limited warfare at any spot on the globe. His advocacy of solid-fueled and mobile big missiles, as well as his fight for the delayed Nike Zeus anti-missile missile, prove that he has been looking ahead.

Although Gen. Taylor may continue to be a critic of many phases of the established order, his record is one that indicates service rivalries and narrow outlooks will not play a part in straightening out the present confused defense picture.

Confusion as a Weapon

The frivolous broadening of the National Defense Education bill—at last week's end by the proposal of a G.I. college program for service men discharged since Jan. 31, 1955—is an indefensible tactic in the debate on federal aid for parochial schools.

An argument of sorts—but hardly a very persuasive one—may be made for the renewal of veterans' educational grants. Since they were an acknowledgment of the nation's debt to those drafted to fight in World War II and in Korea, similar benefits might be extended to those drafted at any time. There is, however, a great difference between service in war and in peace. Further, those drafted have a duty which should be performed without special compensation. It is balanced by the protection of the laws and the general benefits accruing to citizens of a democracy.

The Senate education subcommittee probably would have given the proposal short shrift except for the pressure for construction loans to parochial schools. This gives it some maneuvering value, but does not make it relevant. The real issue is whether aid denied under the President's proposal should be extended under the defense program, and as the price for adoption of the Administration measure.

From the outset, Mr. Kennedy has asserted that in his opinion aid to parochial schools is unconstitutional. We believe that most Americans agree with him. Yet since the Supreme Court rather than the President or Congress has the last word on constitutionality, he is willing to see the issue presented to the Court, but in a special and separate bill. Rightly, he believes it should not jeopardize badly needed legislation. Some legislators, however, resort as much to log-rolling as to logic. They make unwarranted demands to gain unwarranted concessions. If they really believe in the renewal of G.I. benefits or in parochial school aid, let them pass the public school bill and the defense bill in proper form, and then bring up those separate matters in quite separate measures to stand on their merits in the Congress and in the Court.

Floating Rocket Launchers

The Saturn, the nuclear-fueled rocket, and other giants now in the offing may be expected to present serious launching problems. They will have a higher potential for danger to surrounding communities than do Atlas and Titan. If they exploded on blast-off or soon after, they could do untold damage in populated areas. So although no money has been appropriated, the Defense Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration are studying the feasibility of using mothballed floating drydocks as safe and economical mobile launching sites. The idea is an intriguing one and if the study continues to show promise there should be no hesitancy about backing it with funds.

Realistic Report

Adlai Stevenson has reported to the public, and undoubtedly to President Kennedy, that he found on his recent mission that Latin American governments are increasingly aware of economic and social shortcomings which can be exploited by subversive groups. The United States has as much right to expect the neighbors to attend to such problems as they had to protest that the United States paid little attention to them.

Latins used to joke that the best way to get North American help was to develop an internal Communist threat. Now some republics face a real threat, and the necessity for doing something about it themselves, with Washington's assistance, is no longer amusing.

Mr. Stevenson is believed to have found a good deal of governmental timidity about dealing with internal subversion, and more about any kind of dealing with Castro Cuba. But the main purpose of his tour was to assess the economic needs of the sister republics and their willingness to help themselves, as required in the new Administration development aid program.

Fortunately the republics below the border have generally better and more democratic leadership today than ever before. If that leadership is truly determined to answer subversion with popular reforms, the problem of external threats can be reduced. Mr. Stevenson's report is not entirely optimistic, but this one finding is particularly hopeful for the future of the President's Alliance for Progress.

Sure Thing

Certain characters who are in the pages of Damon Runyon will find much of the flavor of duck soup, salted to taste, in the decision by the West German Supreme Court that it is O.K. and in fact nicely-nicely if a horse player places a bet on a race when he already knows the payoff, provided in all cases he finds a bookie who is in a mood to accept same. This is no doubt the finest compliment to the sure thing since Harry the Horse turns up the last citizen in New York, N.Y., who wishes to acquire the Brooklyn Bridge for investment purposes.

From what we pick up here and there, and even elsewhere, sauce is one and the same thing to a gander as well as a goose, and it is a matter of no doubt in our mind that bookies in those parts will hastily wise up to the fact that they can transact some sound and profitable business, at very good odds, by encouraging citizens to place their wagers on nags which have come in out of the money.

In case there is anyone who will solicit our opinion on how to proceed in this matter—which is barely possible, to be exact we would put the odds at about 1 to 50—our advice will be, "Caveat emptor." This is a saying which is bandied about with much success by the guys and dolls at the chariot races in Rome, Italy, somewhat more than a very long time ago, and it means that before chancing a denarius that the chariot of their choice will swing high, careful citizens will make as sure as a sure thing that it has not already swung low.

Nasser: Case for Flexibility

Neutral Egypt, Now Talking Back to Russia, Offers Chance to Correct U.S. Blunder

Royce Brier in the San Francisco Chronicle

Five years ago this summer the late John Foster Dulles goofed. After a virtual promise to aid in building a new Aswan dam he canceled out.

This was done ostensibly because the Egyptian economy couldn't pay off, in reality, because the Egyptians had bought some Czech tanks because they couldn't buy them elsewhere. At the time the Russians were creating a big flap in Cairo in the liberation celebration and were trying to move in all over the Arab world.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

There is little doubt the Aswan frustration contributed to the seizure of the Suez canal (which the Egyptians couldn't fun, remember?) and the Suez war. It was bad diplomacy in plan and execution, first American, then British and French. The Russians promptly promised to finance Aswan dam.

President Nasser was told he couldn't deal with Russians, that they would take him over by the familiar sapping method. He was convinced otherwise.

But Nasser is not, and never will be,

—Post-Dispatch, July 24, 1956.

By a Dam Site in Egypt

another Castro. For instance, he refused Soviet demands he diminish pressure against domestic Communists in Egypt, later in Syria, which he combined (1958) as the United Arab Republic.

The Russian gorge slowly rose and last winter a needling propaganda campaign was directed at Nasser. Soon Nasser was reported privately to be saying the Russian "no strings" help for Aswan dam was proving to have strings indeed.

A few days ago the Egyptians lashed back. The controlled press in Cairo charged the Russians were trying to meddle in U.A.R. affairs, trying to put the U.A.R. in a position of "submissive dependence."

Nasser's critics could well say, "I told you so!", but from the American view there is a good deal more to this business than that.

Now Nasser maintains a policy which he calls "positive neutralism." Mr. Dulles said in effect that neutralism is immoral (which is about what Mr. Khrushchev is now saying). This all-or-nothing diplomacy may have looked bold, but it disregarded the historical experience of such peoples as the Arabs. In any case, it blundered into alienation of Arabs at the very moment the West was striving to keep them out of the Soviet orbit.

The Kennedy Administration is not dedicated to this flexible and unpromising policy as to uncommitted peoples. In view of Nasser's demarche we will now learn if the American State Department through its Near East desk is any more aware of the need, and the time, than was the case under Mr. Dulles's guidance.

A Low Rank From The Kansas City Star

Missouri's ranking of forty-fifth among the states in per capita government expenditures for higher education has been challenged on the grounds that Missouri has many private schools.

Using figures from the United States Office of Education, Gov. John M. Dalton observed recently that "we have 44,600 students . . . in private institutions compared to 37,500 . . . at publicly supported institutions."

Certainly it is well known that the Governor is no foe of education. A big part of his tax schedule is for the full financing of the school foundation program. He has used his influence to move the junior college bill through the Legislature and his budget for higher education generally is reasonable, considering the entire needs of the state. Nevertheless, the enrollment statistics used in the speech need clarification.

The figures from the Office of Education include part-time and extension students. A more significant measure would be the number of full-time students. On them, a school must base its total operation including faculty and physical plant — dormitories, laboratories and instructional equipment. The cost of serving part-time students usually can be covered by fees.

Fifty-seven per cent of the full-time students in Missouri schools attend publicly supported institutions—about the national average. But the fact remains that Missouri is far below average in its tax support of colleges and universities. For that matter, we would guess that the administrators and trustees of the state's private schools would appreciate considerably more support from alumni and other benefactors for their own institutions.

Between Book Ends A Chain of Defeat

STREET WITHOUT JOY, Indochina at War, 1946-54. By Bernard B. Fall. (The Stackpole Co., 322 pgs., $4.95.)

The reader with a desire to know what is happening in Laos, and what will be the outcome of the struggle there between Communism and the West, may find the answers in this timely account of the Indochina war.

The failure of the West to win in Indochina made the present war inevitable, the author points out. And the vain efforts of the West to counter the tactics of the new "Revolutionary Warfare," which were applied successfully by the Communists in Indochina, indicates they are about to win another round in their fight for control of all Asia.

The author is a French citizen, a survivor of the resistance, now living in the United States. He first came to this country as a Fulbright scholar. In 1953 he went to Indochina, at his own expense, seeking material for a doctorate thesis. Later he was in Laos on a research project for the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO). This book is primarily an account of the author's own experiences and observations.

France's failure to throw back the Communist invasion of Indochina was not due to lack of equipment for modern war, the author states. Arms were plentifully supplied from the United States and other sources. Nor was there any lack of individual gallantry. The French forces and their Asian auxiliaries were defeated because, in the author's opinion, they failed to adapt to the hit and run jungle fighting forced upon them by their opponents. In addition the Viet-Minh had the advantage of an "active sanctuary" in Red China.

"Yet guerrilla forces are not invincible," the author contends. "Their logistical requirements may be simpler than those of large regular forces, but they have some rock bottom needs which must be filled from outside, or they die. Conversely, abundance of logistical support to a regular force opposing guerrillas does not necessarily give it a sure fire chance for victory over the lightly armed partisans. Neither do more sophisticated weapons automatically insure superiority.

"The continuing insecurity in Laos and South Viet-Nam," the author continues, "proves that in five years of uneasy peace the Viet-Minh forces and their Laotian satellites have lost none of their ability to fight and win a jungle and swamp war against superior forces when the latter fight the war according to the traditional 'book.' Considering the less than startling results of such western methods in nearly all areas of the world where they have come face to face with the new 'Revolutionary Warfare' of the Communists, all branches of the armed forces of the United States and her allies should begin to study and teach the theory and practice of such warfare."

The author pays tribute to the Post-Dispatch as one of the very few newspapers in the United States which accurately reported the "Laos War" of 1959. "Most of the American press," he states, "gave a completely distorted picture of what happened in Laos in the summer of 1959."

EVERYMAN'S CONCISE ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF RUSSIA, by S. V. Utechin. (Dutton, 623 pgs., $7.95.)

This is a handy reference guide to the Soviet Union by a Russian-born scholar who is on the staff of the London School of Economics. It contains, in alphabetical order, 2050 articles on Russian history, topography, biography, art, music, literature and science. The publisher asserts this is the only such condensed encyclopaedic dictionary in English; it should be useful to students, writers, politicians and others who have a general interest in the subject. The book contains a map and a few photographs.

DORIS FLEESON

About Berlin, Not Much to Say

WASHINGTON.

SECRETARY OF STATE DEAN RUSK performed almost above and beyond the call of duty when he agreed to hold a press conference and answer questions about the manifold problems which now beset United States foreign policy.

A restive Senate is breathing down his neck on the subject of West Berlin, with suggestions which nobody had asked for, while at the same time it is warming up for a hard crack at the foreign aid bill, which is designed to fortify the free nations. Rusk was obliged to fend off the first tactfully with appropriate expressions of gratitude for Congressional interest and at the same time defend foreign aid.

Mansfield.

He is not the first Secretary of State to experience such contradictions in the attentions lavished on him by the Senate. Some of his predecessors, mainly those with some experience in elective politics, saw the humor in the situation.

Not Much to Say.

Rusk has humor, too, but he seems determined at this point to be only absolutely correct. This is safer but less interesting. Futhermore, his voice, while pleasant and educated, is uninflected and he speaks very rapidly. Even his well-reasoned answers—and his were for the most part—tend to get lost.

There was really not too much he could say now. Assurances of a firm stand on Berlin have been made before. He repeated them.

The Republican Senators who have just entered the discussion—Jacob Javits of New York and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky—want to be helpful. They probably also thought it wise to suggest the presence of a liberal force on their side of the aisle.

Failure of Communication.

Ironically, the serious and thoughtful Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield, was probably off in his timing when he suggested a free city composed of both West and East Berlin might be possible. This has given others a chance to cry appeasement, which is nonsense as applied to Mansfield or the spirit of the Administration.

Somehow there was a failure of communications on that one between the Democratic leadership and the White House. It is not the first one.

The President has just lost two reorganization proposals in large part because the chairmen of the Congressional committees involved were not brought into the situation earlier.

Confident and Calm.

Such slippages—and they are no more than that—can usually be remedied, but they alter the psychological atmosphere at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. White House aides become resentful, and the Administration opposition becomes bolder.

With the President unavailable to discuss public questions, it is wise for Cabinet members to pinch-hit and contribute to an impression that confident and calm people are working on what has to be done. Rusk made that contribution.

'TAKE ME ALONG' AT PARK OPERA

Musical Version of O'Neill's 'Ah, Wilderness' Opens Tonight.

"Take Me Along," a musical version of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness," will open a week's engagement at the Municipal Opera tonight. Performances through Sunday will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Jack Carson heads the cast in the role of Uncle Sid, a tippling bachelor who for 15 years has been courting a spinster school teacher. Betty White portrays the teacher, Lily, who seeks to reform Sid. Both performers will be making their debut on the Forest Park stage.

Other players include baritone Wilbur Evans as Nat Miller, publisher of the town newspaper; Garold Gardner, as his teen-age son Richard, and April Shawhan, as Muriel Macomber, the girl next door.

The book, by Joseph Stein and Robert Russell, is based on O'Neill's play which first appeared on Broadway in 1933 and had a long run with the late George M. Cohan in the leading role. The play was made into a movie, called "Summer Holiday. "Take Me Along" opened on Broadway in October, 1959, with Jackie Gleason and Walter Pidgeon in the starring roles and ran for 449 performances.

The story is set in a small Connecticut town in 1906 and revolves around the romances of Uncle Sid and Lily and of Richard and Muriel. After tribulation, both romances end on a gay and happy note with the entire town gathering to see Uncle Sid and Lily off on their long-awaited honeymoon.

Fifteen songs, by Bob Merrill, include "Take Me Along," "I Would Die," "Staying Young," "Sid, Ol' Kid," "I Get Embarrassed" and "We're Home."

Among the scenes are a jubilant Fourth of July parade, the barroom of a beach house and a trolley station which includes a trolley car on the stage. The cast includes Mary Stevenson, Susan Kennedy, Edmund Lyndeck, Jerome Michael, Lila Gage and lead dancer Shirley DeBurgh.

Nixon is expected to deliver a 30-minute speech, touching on party organization and rebuilding G.O.P. strength in the big cities. MRS. MIRIAM A. FERGUSON DIES; TEXAS EX-GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Tex., June 26 (AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, twice governor of Texas and one of the nation's first women governors, died here yesterday. She was 86 years old.

Both Mrs. Ferguson and her late husband, James E. Ferguson, were political powers in Texas. Ferguson was elected governor of Texas twice before World War I. He was impeached and removed from office for fiscal irregularities in his second term as governor in 1917. Because of the impeachment Ferguson was barred from seeking public office but his wife ran for governor on a platform vindicating his name. Mrs. Ferguson was defeated for re-election in 1926. Then she won the office for another two-year term in 1932.

BLAMES TV VIEWERS FOR VIOLENCE SHOWS

N.A.B. Head Says Public Apathy in Opposing Programs Is Responsible.

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Television viewers are largely responsible for the crime and violence piped into their homes, the president of the National Association of Broadcasters said yesterday.

Former Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, now N.A.B. president, told a New York radio and television audience: "Public apathy and indifference to letting broadcasters know how they feel is responsible to a large degree for much of the kind of programming that a great many people complain of."

Collins said TV viewers should complain to the stations and sponsors of programs if they want to rid the airways of crime and violence.

Both Collins and Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, said they have little faith in the accuracy of television ratings, the yardstick used by broadcasters to determine what people want to see.

"I think entirely too much credit and too much influence is exercised by the ratings in connection with the whole business of television programming," Collins said.

Minow said many fine programs which would have substantial audiences are no longer seen on television because other programs are more popular.

"What we have now is a tyranny of the ratings, which is a very distressing element in television," Minow said.

Both men were interviewed by Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York, in a program taped in Washington for use by New York radio and television stations.

Collins said although he is opposed to pay television the agitation for it should prompt commercial television interests to concentrate on improving the quality of their programming.

DIEFENBAKER, IKEDA CALL FOR FREE WORLD UNITY

OTTAWA, June 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan and Canada's Prime Minister John Diefenbaker joined yesterday in a call for unity of all democratic nations in the face of Communism's challenge.

In a welcome ceremony on Ikeda's arrival from New York, Diefenbaker called "challenging and ominous, if not forboding" Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech last week repeating his intention to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany by the end of the year.

"The need for (free world) unity was never more to be emphasized than at present," Diefenbaker told Ikeda. The Japanese leader said, "we must all admit, whether we like it or not, that we are today faced with the greatest challenge in the history of mankind."

Ikeda, accompanied by his wife and three daughters and Foreign Minister Zentaro Hosaka, arrived aboard Diefenbaker's Viscount plane for a 24-hour visit. Ikeda spent six days in the United States.

WHAT WILL YOU HEAR AT RIVER ROADS?

Stix, Baer & Fuller
DOWNTOWN and WESTROADS

Rube Goldberg would have loved River Roads

We can see him gleefully inspecting our electronic system for receiving, marking and delivering merchandise to the proper departments at our new branch store soon to open at Halls Ferry and Jennings Road.

It all starts at the loading docks, where the merchandise is placed on power conveyors. These move automatically through an opening in the wall, and discharge their loads on to other power conveyors, which take off to the marking area. Here the merchandise is opened, checked and marked.

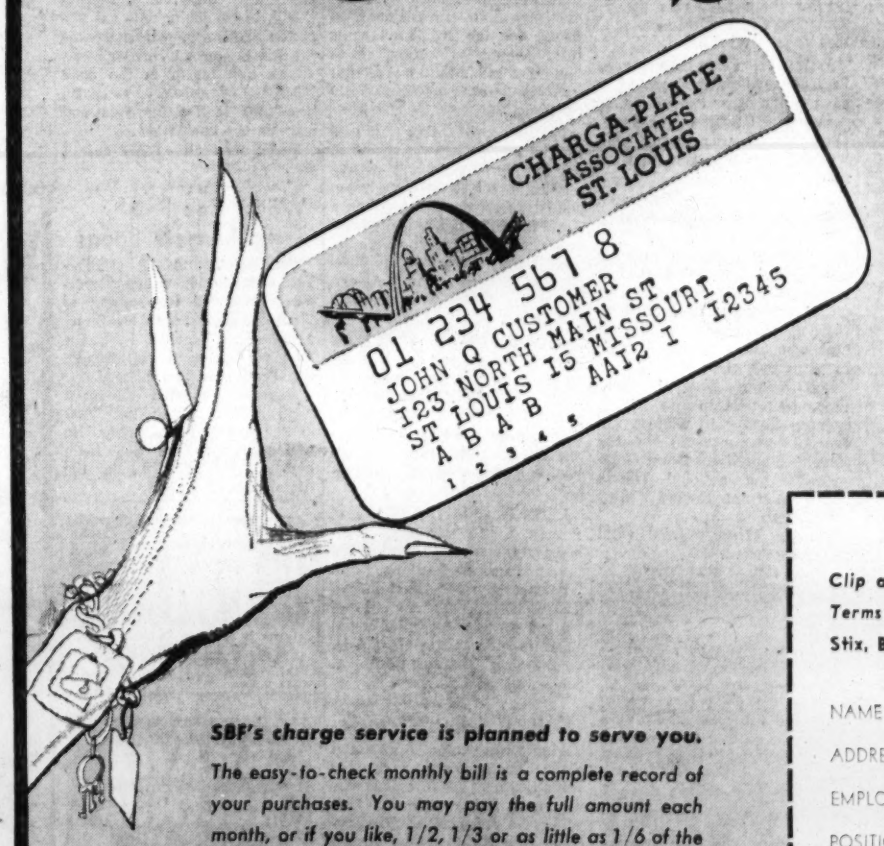

Then the fun really begins. The stuff is put into carriers that move on an overhead monorail. By dialing the proper location (our fingers itch to think about it) the carriers move up, down or sideways to the proper freight lobbies (one on each floor.) Here they release themselves and they are then wheeled to the perimeter stockrooms . . . and before you can say "Rube Goldberg," there's the merchandise, right where it belongs.

What next? The carriers are wheeled back to the freight lobbies, hooked on to the monorail, and off they go like obedient little robots to the marking area, ready to make another trip . . . and we've had our fingers crossed the whole time we've been talking.

These same carriers take all the debris—excelsior, paper, empty cartons—and deliver it to a trash room right next to the incinerator.

Know how a small boy feels about his first electric train? that's us, man, that's us.

"Charge it, please."

These words aren't magic . . . they don't pull rabbits out of hats! But they do make shopping at SBF easier and more convenient! An SBF charge account eliminates the bother of paying cash or by check for each purchase you make. And the new, plastic CHARGA-PLATE assures prompt, correct deliveries! So, if you don't already have a charge account at SBF, simply fill out the coupon below, clip, mail, and the pleasure of charging at SBF will soon be yours. Who wants rabbits when you can charge at Stix?

SBF's charge service is planned to serve you.

The easy-to-check monthly bill is a complete record of your purchases. You may pay the full amount each month, or if you like, 1/2, 1/3 or as little as 1/6 of the monthly balance. All credits and previous payments are deducted; then the usual credit charge is added to the unpaid balance. For larger purchases, you can use the Continuous Extended Payment Plan which enables you to enjoy furniture, appliances or other home furnishings right away, while you take 24 months to pay. There's no down payment and only a small charge for this service. So, talk to a credit counselor at SBF, the store that has a credit plan to suit your particular need.

Sadecki and Miller in Form, but Erring Cards Gain Only Split

Ray Holds Giants to 2 Hits in Nightcap

By Neal Russo

If Ray Sadecki doesn't have to pitch early on Sunday afternoon and if Bob Miller can keep his newly found curve ball, the good Cardinal pitching staff should continue to improve.

After pitching a two-hitter to beat the Giants, 3-1, in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader at Busch Stadium, Sadecki recalled that in his last two Sunday afternoon starts the enemy chased him early. The Pirates bombed him in a 1:30 game. So did the Reds in the opener of a doubleheader.

Miller, who was lifted after seven innings of the first game Sunday with the score 4-1, said he finally had turned his curve from a "waste" pitch to an "out" pitch. Miller's successors could not hold San Francisco, and the Redbirds suffered a 6-4 defeat.

"I've always preferred night baseball and the second games of afternoon doubleheaders," said Sadecki. "Because I was scheduled for the second game, I was able to sleep till 10:30 and didn't have to get to the park until 3 o'clock."

Walks Only One Man.

Sadecki pointed out that if he had had to pitch the first game, he would have had to get up by 7 a.m., go to church at 7:30 and hurry to the park in plenty of time for batting practice, set for 11 o'clock.

Sadecki, who agreed with Miller that the Giants presented the most terrifying power in the National League, was proud of his control. He walked only one batter and struck out three.

"It had a good fast ball, was able to keep it down and get ahead of the hitters," Sadecki said. "When I don't walk five or six men, I feel I'm in the ball game. I hated to walk Tom Haller because he was the only left-handed hitter in their lineup. But it was a close call for the fourth ball."

After Felipe Alou singled through the shortstop hole in the second inning, the Giants failed to get another hit until Willie Mays belted a home run in the ninth with a 2-0 count and two out. Sadecki permitted just five baserunners and only one man besides Mays got as far as second base.

"This is the first time I ever threw more than a couple of curves in one game," said Miller, whose new curve grip was suggested by pitching coach Howie Pollet. "I've been working on the curve for four years and in this game I threw as many curves as I did fast balls."

4-1 Lead in Opener.

Miller, defending Manager Solly Hemus's decision to remove him, said, "I felt tired in the seventh. I made 112 pitches and I never had gone more than three innings this season."

Leading by 1-0 on Ken Boyer's triple and Charley James's single in the third, Miller gave up the tying run in the seventh when Orlando Cepeda bounced a high slider off the scoreboard. It was his fifth homer off St. Louis pitching this season.

Boyer gave Miller a 4-1 lead as a going away present with a drive into the right-center pavilion seats for his ninth home run in the seventh inning. Starter Mike McCormick had walked Julio Gotay and Bill White with two out before Boyer delivered.

Rookie Craig Anderson gave up a leadoff home run to Jim Davenport in the eighth before Lindy McDaniel rescued him with two on and two out. Then with an excellent 29,710 crowd smelling victory, the Redbirds fell apart.

After Joe Amalfitano opened the ninth with a pinch single, Charley Hiller hit a sharp bouncer to second baseman Bob Lillis. Instead of starting a double play, Lillis fumbled the ball.

Davenport's run-scoring single to center finished McDaniel. Against Al Cicotte, Harvey Kuenn bunted. White fielded the ball, Cicotte ran to cover, then stopped when he saw Lillis already covering. White's throw, headed for Cicotte, hit Kuenn on the elbow for the second error of the inning, and the score was tied.

Three Unearned Runs.

Mays then singled to break the tie and when Gotay was guilty of obstructing Kuenn on the baseline, Kuenn was waved home with the third unearned run of the inning.

In the second game, the Redbirds got enough to beat Billy Loes by scoring twice in the second inning. Boyer opened with a single and Stan Musial doubled off the right field wall. After James struck out, Gotay was intentionally walked. Red Schoendienst batted for Lillis and also walked, forcing in a run. Sadecki himself drove in the second run on a force-out.

Sadecki's only regret was that he failed to get a hit.

"Cepeda had to make a great play in the hole to stop me, though," said Sadiecki, still happy that he was able to get plenty of Sunday rest before pitching.

Boyer Ends Drouth In RBIs; Birds Face Braves Here Tonight

Ken Boyer, ending his 15-game runs-batted-in famine with three in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, said he wasn't discouraged during the drouth.

"As long as I set up the runs, I feel that's about as good as driving them in," said Boyer, who has kept his batting average high. It's now at .313 and he is tied with Stan Musial for ninth place in the league.

Boyer, whose home run was his first since June 2, robbed Jim Davenport with a good stop in the first game. However, the play of the day was his brilliant smothering stop of Joe Amalfitano's smash headed for the shortstop hole in the ninth inning of the second game. Boyer got up and easily threw out the runner.

The Braves call at Busch Stadium tonight at 8 o'clock for the opener of a three-game series. Larry Jackson is scheduled to face Milwaukee's Lew Burdette.

The Giants led for just six minutes of the 208-minute opener but continued the jinx on the Cardinals in first games of doubleheaders. In eight days the Birds have blown chances to win three openers.

Stu Miller struck out the side to close yesterday's first game. . . . Orlanda Cepeda leads the National League with 20 home runs and 59 RBIs. . . . The lights were turned on at the start of the fifth inning of the second game. . . . The 29,710 crowd was the largest here since 30,712 turned out to watch the Pirates last Aug. 27.

Julio Gotay's three errors, including one for obstruction, lifted his total to 10 for the 10 games since he joined the club. No record! Back in 1885 a shortstop named George Smith made 10 errors in just two games.

Sam Jones, demoted to the bullpen, checked the Birds on one unearned run in five and one-third innings in the second game. The run came on a walk, a sacrifice and a throwing error by Jose Pagan.

By kicking away the opener, the Cardinals fell farther below .500—six games—than they had been all season.—N.R.

Two S.I.U. Stars Win A.A.U. Titles

NEW YORK, June 26 (UPI)—The United States will send its youngest international track team in modern times against the might of the Russians in a dual meet at Moscow next month.

"A great group of youngsters emerged from the National A.A.U. championships," said Jim Elliott of Villanova, who will coach the Yanks on a four-stop tour of Russia, West Germany, Britain and Poland. "It will give us a great start toward the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo."

First and second place winners in the national championships were eligible for the tour, but some of the older guard, including shot putters Dallas Long and Parry O'Brien; hammer thrower Hal Connolly and two-time Olympic discus champion Al Oerter declined the invitation. Long and Connolly were among the 20 A.A.U. title holders crowned Saturday and Sunday, while Oerter and O'Brien qualified as second place finishers.

Two stars of the Southern Illinois U. team of Carbondale, Ill., gained victories. Jim Dupree won the 880-yard run, while Don Styron was first in the 220-yard low hurdles. The hurdles race is not included in the European trip, so all Styron won was a medal.

Pole vault king Ron Morris, who set one of the six A.A.U. records during the two-day show, planned to teach summer classes at Burbank, Calif., high school, but may change his mind and include himself in the team to be announced late today.

Burleson Wins Mile.

"However, we do have miler Dyrol Burleson, who is only 21," said Elliott. "And others like schoolboy Ulis Williams, who finished second in the 440, and a couple of Villanova sprinters named Frank Budd and Paul Drayton."

Budd, 21, set a new world record of 9.2 seconds in winning the 100-yard dash on Saturday and Drayton, second in the 100, won the 220 with Budd third behind Charles Frazier of Texas Southern.

Wimbledon Play Cut by Showers

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26 (UPI)—Rain ruined most of the opening day's program of the diamond jubilee Wimbledon tennis tournament today, but in between raindrops defending champion Neale Fraser of Australia and three Americans scored comparatively easy first-round victories.

Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, Crawford Henry of Atlanta, Ga., and Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., were the Yanks who survived their first-round tests before tournament officials called off the remainder of the day's play because of failing light.

Two Americans were eliminated and two more trailed in their matches when play was halted.

Stocky Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, the other Yank considered a title possibiliyt, was scheduled to oppose Italian Sergio Tacchini, but his was one of the matches set back to tomorrow because of rain. Eighteen Americans were in the men's play.

Fraser accounted for the first Yank eliminated when he trouced Rudy Hernando of Modesto, Calif., 6-3, 6-1, 6-1. Another Aussie star, Bob Howe, defeated John Lesch of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Gardnar Mulloy, 47-year-old Coral Gables veetran, and Bob Siska of San Francisco will start wiht a disadvantage when their first-round matches are resumed tomorrow. Mulloy trailed John Ward of England, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1; Siska trailed Nicole Pilic of Yugoslavia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, although the American was ahead in the fourth set, 7-6.

Holmberg, the 23-year-old Brooklynite, managed to hold his footing on the slippery grass of the center court much better than did Enrique Morea of Argentina, and the American won, 7-5, 7-5, 6-3.

Henry, a 20-year-old cub reporter, dropped the opening set but pulled his game together and elimnated Michael Hann of England, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Forehling beat John Barrett of England, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., led John Hillebrand of Australia, 2-0, when rain forced postponement of their match.

Besides top-eseeded Fraser, the next five seeded players all won their opening-round matches without the loss of a set. Rod Laver of Australia, who is seeded second to Fraser but is the tournament favorite of the bookmakers, eased his way through a 6-4, 6-1, 6-1 triumph over 19-year-old Toomas Lejus of Russia. Lejus was the first Soviet athlete ever to play on the center court.

Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy, Roy Emerson of Australia, Manuel Santana of Spain and Luis Ayala of Chile, seeded from third through sixth in order, all won with little struggle.

Women's singles play doesn't begin until Tuesday with Sandra Reynolds of South Africa, the No. 1 seed, favored to win the title. Karen Hantze of Chula Vista, Calif., is the only American seed at No. 8

Miss Richey draws Margaret Smith, Australia, in the first round. Other matches include Justina Bricka, St. Louis, against Mrs. S. Rosin, Sweden, and Carol Hanks, St. Louis, against Miss Karen Schuster, Austria.

Castoffs Cash, Jay and Blasingame Pace League Leaders

Detroit Star Hits 3 Homers

CLEVELAND, June 26 (AP)—Norm Cash is money in the bank for the Detroit Tigers, but he is drawing interest all over the American League as the circuit's potential most valuable player for 1961 as well as its triple crown champion.

That's an amazing achievement for a fellow who was traded away by another big league club only a year ago in a deal for a guy who's now languishing in the minor leagues. The Cleveland Indians, who cast Cash away, did not even bother to give him a trial.

The 26-year-old Tiger first baseman hit three home runs Sunday to share the day's spotlight with the Chicago White Sox, who soared to their tenth straight, sweeping a doubleheader from Washington, 7-3 and 6-3. The double triumph gave Al Lopez's comeback crew a record of 17 victories in its last 18 games.

Despite Cash's heroics, the Tigers could do no better than split with Cleveland, thereby cutting their first place lead in the A.L. race to 1½ games over the New York Yankees. The Tigers won the opener, 6-3, and Cleveland took the nightcap, 4-3. The Yankees downed Minnesota, 8-4; Baltimore outlasted Los Angeles, 9-8, in 14 innings and Boston and Kansas City divided a pair, the Red Sox winning the first game, 7-4, and the A's salvaging the nightcap, 3-2.

Cash Bats in Four Runs.

Cash drove in four runs in the opener, walloping a pair of two-run homers off loser Wynn Hawkins. His slugging enabled Jim Bunning to register his seventh victory. The veteran right-hander needed help in the eighth but did very well in a scuffle with Cleveland's Jimmy Piersall three innings earlier.

Cash's nightcap homer was not enough. The Indians snapped a tie in the ninth. Vic Power avoided goat's horns of monumental proportions in the final inning of the second game which ended when Chuck Essegian hit a 380-foot drive to right field with the bases filled and one out. Power, thinking the ball would go over the fence for a homer, neglected to run and was forced at second base when Al Kaline relayed the carom off the fence to second base. Essegian lost a hit but Mike De La Hoz's run counted because Power's out at second base was only the second out of the inning.

The Indians snapped Detroit's five-game winning streak and, at the same time, broke their own seven-game losing string.

Pierce and Wynn Win.

Veterans Billy Pierce and Early Wynn pitched the victories for the White Sox, whose spectacular three-week surge has lifted them from last place to a fifth-place tie with Baltimore. Fifteen and a half games off the pace June 11, the Sox now trail front-running Detroit by nine and one-half lengths.

Catcher Ellie Howard drove in four Yankees runs with a home run and single and offset the torrid hitting of Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew. The Twins' strongboy clouted a home run and single to account for half his team's runs off winner Bill Stafford. It was the sixth homer in six games for Killebrew, who drove in 15 runs and hit .591 during that span.

Mike Fornieles pitched four scoreless innings to protect Don Schwall's sixth victory in seven decisions since the latter joined the Red Sox weeks ago. Gene Stephens, a former Red Sox outfielder, smashed a two-run homer to give the A's the split and furnish Bob Shaw with his first Kansas City victory since he came from the White Sox two weeks ago.

Ronnie Hansen homered in the top of the fourteenth and Jack Fisher survived a bases loaded situation in the bottom of the inning to feature the Orioles' marathon victory over the Angels, which consumed four hours and 42 minutes and 16 pitchers.

Saturday Night Game.

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (UPI)—Rookie Ron Moeller and veteran Art Fowler teamed Saturday night to pitch the Los Angeles Angels to a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles before a sparse ladies' night crowd of 7882.

Cantrell's Gale V Wins Detroit Regatta

DETROIT, June 26 (UPI) — Bill Cantrell piloted Gale V around a choppy Detroit river course at an average speed of 98.391 miles an hour yesterday to win the unlimited class powerboat championship in the Detroit memorial regatta.

Cantrell was locked in a tight duel with Bob Hayward of London, Ont., and Miss Supertest II, a Canadian boat, until water pressure ripped an 18-inch hole in the deck of Hayward's craft.

Hayward kept Miss Supertest II in the race, but had to cut his speed to an average of 89.335 miles per hour and wound up in second place.

Three heats were won by Gale V, a Detroit boat, and the fourth heat was won by Miss Supertest II.

Bragg Plans to Quit

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP) — Don Bragg, Olympic pole vault champion, said he is retiring from track.

"I'm through. I quit. That's my last meet," said Bragg after losing in the national A.A.U. track and field championships yesterday.

Ron Morris of the Southern California Stridors won the pole vault by soaring 15-8, erasing Bob Richards 15-4½ record. Bragg tied for sixth at 15 feet.

Pitcher Fans 20

Norman Ludwig, 8 years old, struck out 20 and walked one batter as he pitched his team into first place in the Atom Olivette, Khoury League. The score was 3-0.

Nicked Piersall Reverts To Fiery Form of Old

CLEVELAND, June 26 (AP)—The reformation this season in the behavior of Cleveland's Jim Piersall has been given a setback by the sting of a pitched ball on his right wrist.

It was the old Jim Piersall—emotional, fiery, irritating umpires and hamming it up for fans and a national television audience—who touched off a near donnybrook in the Indians' opener with Detroit yesterday.

The result was that Piersall, who was ousted from eight games last year, got thumbed from the field for the first time this year.

Piersall dashed to the mound to get pitcher Jim Bunning after he was nicked on the wrist with a pitch. Soon both dugouts were empty as players milled in a wild scramble.

No Intent, Says Bunning.

"That guy (Bunning) has hit me six or seven times in my career," declared Piersall later as he sat out the second game with a tender wrist. "I'm tired of it. He'd better stop throwing at people or somebody's going to get him."

Bunning disclaimed any intent of aiming to hit Piersall, explaining:

"You don't think I'd be throwing at anyone with us leading by two runs and two guys on base. That wouldn't make sense."

Piersall threw a feeble left hook and followed with a right. Both missed as Bunning, wanting no part of a fight, ducked away. Then came an exchange of kicks. These were more effective. Both participants had shin scratches.

The Tigers took the opener, 6-3, on a pair of two-run homers by Norm Cash, who also belted a solo shot in the nightcap. But the Indians won the second contest, 4-3 on a line drive off the right field fence by pinch hitter Chuck Essegian with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Piersall was such a problem last season, that the club gave him a week to "rest up" at home in Boston. His teammates called a meeting to deal with the problem and even Joe Cronin, American League president, called in the high-strung centerfielder for a "Dutch uncle" lecture. But Piersall went his merry way.

Having Great Season.

Manager Jimmie Dykes put his thumb on Piersall this season and said all the problems with the umpires were over. Piersall played baseball and is having one if his greatest seasons, fielding brilliantly and hitting at a .346 clip.

"I'm going to demand a hearing before I pay any fine on this one," said Piersall, Bob Hale and Johnny Temple also got the heave-ho from the umpires.

Joey Wins 9th Game For Reds

CINCINNATI, June 26 (AP)—Experts shook their heads in disbelief last December when Cincinnati general manager Bill DeWitt traded shortstop Roy McMillan for Joey Jay, a second rate Milwaukee righthander.

"How can you trade away your best infielder for a pitcher, who has not won more than nine games in any season?" they asked.

The experts were even more critical last May when the Reds sent their No. 1 catcher, Ed Bailey, to the San Francisco Giants for second baseman Don Blasingame.

"Bailey reached double figures in homers in each of the last five years," they pointed out accusingly, "while Blasingame had just had his poorest season, hitting .235. Besides, who's going to catch for Cincinnati?"

The Reds answered their critics long ago. They merely threw in another convincer Sunday when Jay registered his ninth victory of the season, aided by reliever Jim Brosnan, with a 3-2 triumph over Los Angeles. The triumph widened the Reds' first place lead over the Dodgers to three games in the National League race.

3 Hits for Blasingame.

Cincinnati scored all its runs in the first inning and it was Blasingame who opened the gates with the first of his three hits. The Reds got eight hits off loser Stan Williams and four successors and Gerry Zimmerman, who stepped into Bailey's shoes as the team's No. 1 catcher, made two of them.

San Francisco's third place Giants fell four games off the pace, splitting a doubleheader with the Cardinals. The Giants won the opener, 6-4, and the Cards took the second, 3-1. Chicago's Cubs downed Milwaukee, 5-3. Philadelphia earned a split with Pittsburgh, winning the nightcap, 4-3, after the Pirates had won the opener, 10-5.

Cincinnati used only two hits to score three runs in the first inning. After Blasingame singled, Gus Bell walked and Vada Pinson doubled home a run. Gordie Coleman drove in another with a sacrifice fly and the third run scored on a balk.

Cubs Drub Spahn.

George Altman and Billy Williams slammed Warren Spahn for seven of the Cubs' 10 hits. Altman had a double, triple and homer and scored three runs. Williams had four singles and drove in two. Don Cardwell, with the help of Barney Schultz, who pitched hitless ball in 3⅓ relief innings, gained his sixth victory.

Homers decided the Phillly-Pirate twin bill. Roberto Clemente had two for Pittsburgh in the first game, his second starting a four-run rally in the seventh of the nightcap to snap a 2-2 tie.

Ben Agajanian, 41, Will Play Again

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 26 (UPI)—Aging (41), baldish and rotund, with only one toe on his right foot, Ben Agajanian is due to begin his fifteenth season of professional football this season.

Agajanian returned a signed 1961 playing contract to the San Diego Chargers.

The veteran place-kicking specialist came out of retirement last season to kick 46 out of 47 extra points for the Chargers. He was fifth in scoring the American Football League last season, scoring 123 points and scored 13 of 24 field goal attempts.

Kutis South's Hricko Proves Manager Made Right Decision

By Dave Lipman

A couple of weeks ago, Dean Williams, who was predestined to end up in baseball after being named for one-time Cardinal great Dizzy Dean, attempted to strengthen Kutis South for the rest of the Muny Association's North-South Traveling League schedule by adding an infielder.

"When I signed Stan Hricko, I wasn't even positive he'd make the team," said the outspoken manager. After yesterday's game with the Kimacks, South Side Division leaders in the league, Williams has no doubts about his new third baseman.

It was Hricko's home run leading off the last of the tenth inning that gave Kutis South, now 4-3 for the season, an 8-7 victory over the Kimacks. Hricko, who had some good years as a hitter with the old Polish Falcons here, also provided a key hit in a three-run, seventh-inning rally that wiped out a two-run Kimack lead at the time.

The loss ended a seven-game winning streak for Joe McDonald's team, which now has an 8-2 record. The other defeat was administered by Kutis North, pacesetter in the league's North Side Division and the only undefeated team left in the Muny Association.

Kutis North stretched its perfect mark to 7-0 with an 8-4 decision over Borbein Young. Don Mumm went the route for the victory, his fifth without a loss.

Union Printers Win.

Pete Traina's four hits and two runs batted in paced Union Printers to a 9-4 victory over Ceresias in a North-South Traveling League game at Fairground Park No. 2.

A sacrifice fly by Dan Schuchardt scored Joe Mowry in the last of the fourteenth and gave the Hoffmeisters a 12-11 victory over the Vonder Haars in a Heine Meine League game at Meine Field.

Jim Salsman had only one hit but that still enabled him to outshine all other hitters as St. Pius defeated St. Francis, 18-1, for its sixth victory in seven C.Y.C. Bishop Winkelmann Senior League games. The hit by Salsman was his sixth straight and gave him 17 out of 26 for the season. Perry Jones pitched a three-hitter and fanned 10.

Stellman Fans Eight.

Holy Rosary boosted its Bishop Helmsing record to 5-0 with a 9-1 victory over Cardinal Glennon College as Johnny Stellman pitched a three-hitter and fanned eight. Meanwhile, St. Anthony, defending C.Y.C. playoff champion and league-leader in the Bishop Cody Senior League, defeated Resurrection, 21-8, for its sixth victory. Bobby Baer, Jerry Everding, Charley Bockskopf and Larry Vowell each had three hits for the winners.

Jim Green of St. Cronan in the Bishop Byrne League of the Senior Second Division pitched a no-hitter but still barely came off with a 5-3 victory over St. Michael. He struck out eight.

John Gibbear of the Eighty-Niners in the Tandy League added 17 more strikeouts to his league record of 20, set a week ago, but four unearned runs cost him a 6-5 defeat at the hands of the Corsairs.

Ballwin Wins Two.

Creve Coeur handed County League-leading Giesler-Jorgen only its second loss of the season, 8-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Jules Faron in the first game of a doubleheader.

Giesler-Jorgen won the second game, 13-9, to boost its record to 9-2. Creve Coeur now is 5-6.

Ballwin moved into undisputed possession of second place in the league by defeating Vigus, the team with which it had shared the spot, in both ends of a doubleheader, 19-12 and 12-2.

Waterson, defending Khoury playoff champion, broke its first-place tie in the University City League with St. Louis Photo by taking an 11-9 decision. Waterson now is 6-1 and Photo is 5-2. In the second game of the league's doubleheader, Niel Klotke of Florissant Khoury pitched a one-hit, 2-0 victory over the Eagles.

Joe Orf's two-run triple and his eight-hit pitching led St. Wenceslaus to a 6-4 Sam Breadon League decision over Liguoris. Gene Barth's run-scoring double climaxed a three-run, eighth-inning rally that gave Blue Circle a 9-8 St. Louis League victory over Riverview.

Nelson's No-Hitter Keeps Chiefs on Top

Jim Nelson's fondness for shutouts has placed the Garrison Chiefs atop the standings in the Khoury Baseball Association's Karner Memorial Senior League.

A month ago he pitched a five-hit shutout for his team's second victory of the season. Two weeks ago, he came up with a second five-hit whitewashing for the Chiefs' fourth straight. Yesterday, the hard-throwing righthander again pitched a shutout, but this time he eliminated all hits.

Nelson stopped the Overlands, 11-0, at Heman Park No. 1 and did not permit a base hit in the six-inning game for the Chiefs' sixth straight triumph of the year. He struck out 11.

Maryville's First Win Is Big One

It took Maryville until its eighth game in the Southwestern Illinois Intercity Baseball League to score its first victory of the season, but that 9-7 triumph yesterday knocked the Mercers out of first place in the league's Blue Division.

The victory came on a four-run last-of-the-ninth rally that featured a three-run homer by Nortie Done. His big blow was preceded by Rich Sauget's double, Harold Kanksley's single and Stewart LuFuria's walk.

White City came up with a similar four-run rally but in the last of the tenth, to knock off Collinsville, the No. 2 team in the Red Division, by a 6-5 score. After Mike Zippay's single pulled White City within one, Bob Plain scored the tying run with a sacrifice fly. Then Paul Vuckovich and Roger Kratochvil walked to force in the winning run. Collinsville now trails Moose Lodge by two games. Moose crushed Carpenter, 14-5.

McAteers, who lead Mercers by .025 percentage points, defeated Troy, 15-0, behind the four-hit pitching of George Teasley. Sacred Heart stopped Pocahontas, 6-5.

Inman Captures Missouri Golf Title on His First Attempt

Joplin Player Beats Cash in Final, 4-3

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

JOPLIN, Mo., June 26—John Inman, a 32-year-old Joplin golfer who was in the tournament on a man-who-came-to-dinner basis, is the new Missouri amateur champion.

It is somewhat remarkable that he won the crown on his first try, but that was more circumstantial than anything else.

The Twin Hills Club member, playing his home course, defeated Springfield's 43-year-old Walter Cash, 4 and 3, in the 36-hole title match under a sultry summer sky here yesterday.

This was, Inman said, the first tournament victory of any consequence in his many years of playing.

On second thought, under questioning, he said he once won a Missouri Junior College golf title while attending Joplin Junior College.

Captained Navy Team.

He had played golf, then, as a young man here. But after one year of junior college he went to the Naval Academy at Annapolis where he captained the golf team.

Even then, playing mainly in Eastern intercollegiate competition, he did nothing particularly outstanding. In the summer he had to go on cruises. This helps to explain how he has missed his own state amateur for so long.

And later, he worked in California for about four years, before he returned here to continue work as a test engineer for a rocket engine division of North American Aviation Corp.

Even now he is not one of the top tournament players in his own club.

"There are three or four golfers with better handicaps here—Marvin Porter, Eddie McKay and Ken Childress are three," said Twin Hills pro Art Wadkins.

Gets Sharper With Play.

"But the point about Inman is that he really never plays in mid-week — only on weekends. He is a good player so that the more he plays the sharper he gets."

Inman himself didn't expect to tarry long in the six-day tournament. He was due to go to California on combined business trip and family vacation and for a refresher course at U.C.L.A.

When he kept winning in the tournament, the two older youngsters of his three children were dismayed. They had been promised an early trip to Disneyland.

But one after another of the regular tournament competitors fell before him—first Tom Hullverson of St. Louis; then Charley Fawcett Jr. of St. Louis; Childress of the home club; defending champion Jack House of Kansas City, and next Bob Smith, a Joplin public links favorite.

Six Over Par in Final.

"I played my best golf earlier in the tournament," said Inman after his six-over-par shooting against Cash in the final. "But one reason was that I got an early lead and was frequently playing safe.

Inman was five up after 10 holes, but just two up at lunch. He was five up again after 22 holes, but only three up after 27. Finally he closed out the match with a nine-foot birdie putt at the thirty-third green.

Body English That Failed

ARNOLD PALMER gave his try something extra in vain on the first hole, but his golfing skill was more than enough the rest of the final round as he won the Western Open championship. He missed a long putt for a birdie on No. 1 but did manage a par.

Western Open Won By Palmer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 26 (UPI)—Arnold Palmer's severest critic must be Arnold Palmer.

The Latrobe (Pa.) perfectionist admitted he wasn't too pleased with his irons yesterday after winning the Western Open golf championship for the first time with a 72-hole score of 271.

"I'm hitting the greens okay but I'm not getting close enough to the pin," Palmer complained. "You can expect to sink a few 20-footers but not all of them."

Palmer posted a two-under-par 69 in the final round to turn back old rival Sam Snead by two strokes. Snead, who started the day in a six-way tie for fourth place at 207, finished with a 66 to give Palmer a run for the $5000 first prize. However, Palmer said that having Snead in the same threesome in the final round didn't bother him at all.

Stevenson

support of the Cuban invasion was a violation of United States treaty commitments.

Stevenson's own conception of what to do about Cuba is to do and say nothing for the present. The first task is to make a success of the inter-American economic conference to be held in August in Uruguay as the start of the Alliance for Progress program to raise economic and social standards.

The ambassador said he found an understanding in almost every South American country that there must be drastic social and economic reforms to undercut the appeal of Castro and the Communists.

After that conference, and after a period of discussion and education, he foresees the possibility of a political conference to redefine intervention so as to include Communist interference in domestic affairs of any American republic.

WITH THAT groundwork, he said, the Organization of American States could demand that Cuba sever its ties with the Communist bloc and could apply sanctions if it refused.

Stevenson emphasized that there must be adequate preparation for such a move. It would require the approval of 14 of the 21 American republics, and those approving it would have to include the two most important Latin American states, Brazil and Argentina. Both have been reluctant to undertake collective action against Cuba thus far.

mean the President will accept the balance sheet when Acheson has completed it.

THE SECOND MEMBER of the three is Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He has kept his own counsel, in this formative period, just as the President has done.

Finally, No. 3 is Secretary McNamara. He seldom gives great weight to political factors—even to such vast international political factors as are involved in the Berlin crisis. He also dislikes taking costly military measures without the kind of proof of necessity which he understands best. Hence his recent press conference statement.

When he first took office, the Defense Secretary was strongly pressed to act, at that time, on the President's campaign commitments to an immediately strengthened defense effort and an intensified air alert. The primary argument, then, lacked the cruel point of the Berlin crisis. But it was essentially the same argument, that Khrushchev had ceased to take the United States seriously, and that it was needful to compel him to do so.

As things have turned out, it might have been better if McNamara had listened to this basically political argument for added defense measures back in January.

ASSAILS CRITICISM OF S.I.U. EXPANSION

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 26—Mrs. Jeanne Simon, former Illinois state representative from Wilmette, disagreed today with a legislative subcommittee's report urging a leveling off in the expansion of Southern Illinois University.

Mrs. Simon, wife of Representative Paul Simon (Dem.), Troy, served on the subcommittee which investigated spending and expansion programs at S.I.U.

In a minority report filed today, Mrs. Simon said that "growth alone is not to be criticized. I disagree with the conclusion that there can be only one outstanding university," she said. "Our neighboring state of Indiana, for example, has two great universities, Indiana University and Purdue University."

The subcommittee, in a majority report, stated that S.I.U. was attempting to outstrip the University of Illinois and the state's taxpayers could afford to support only one major institution.

Mrs. Simon was appointed to the subcommittee in 1959 when she was a member of the House. She did not run for re-election in 1960, but her term on the subcommittee runs until Friday.

She said that much of the criticism of the university was unjustified because S.I.U. now is serving the Madison-St. Clair county area, the second most populous area of the state.

Mrs. Simon agreed with the majority, however, that a single board of education should be appointed to govern all state universities in Illinois.

PUNISH UNETHICAL DOCTORS, LEADER OF A.M.A. URGES

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—"Physicians must not be afraid to censure or punish their fellow doctors who are guilty" of unethical conduct or incompetence, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, president-elect of the American Medical Association said today.

He also called on the A.M.A.'s 185,000 members for all-out opposition to proposals to pay for old-age medical care out of social security funds. Congress now is considering such legislation.

Speaking at opening sessions of the A.M.A.'s House of Delegates, its policy-making body, the Bismarck (N.D.) pathologist said only an infinitesimal fraction of doctors fail "to observe the law or the dictates of good conscience." But "that tiny fraction of undisciplined must be excised from the body of medicine, lest it grow like a cancer and thus pollute and corrupt the entire profession," he said.

CITY, 47 MISSOURI COUNTIES TO GET DISASTER GRANTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 26—Federal disaster grants totaling $500,000 for assistance to 47 Missouri counties and St. Louis for damage caused by floods last May were authorized by the White House today.

Included among recipients of assistance are St. Louis, St. Charles and Franklin counties. The White House announcement said the money is to be used for repair of public buildings, bridges and highways.

St. Louis county previously was designated a disaster area by the Small Business Administration. Such designation permits the granting of federal loans at 3 per cent for reconstruction and rehabilitation of homes, institutions and small businesses suffering storm damage. St. Louis area damage was largely from flooding of the Missouri and Meramec rivers.

NO TWICE-A-DAY MAIL

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UPI) — Postmaster General J. Edward Day said yesterday the Government had abandoned all hope of resuming twice-a-day mail deliveries because it would cost too much.

Day told questioners on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers" that there is no great public demand for mail deliveries twice a day to homes and business establishments. The Post Office Department gave up twice-a-day deliveries under the Truman Administration.

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Delarber, 6524A Morganford road, will observe their sixtieth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Mr. Delarber, 86 years old, was a Missouri Pacific Railroad switchman for 40 years until his retirement 21 years ago. His wife is 82. They have three children, five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

never carried out, it caused a scare in Tokyo. The Japanese had agreed earlier to a voluntary quota on other textiles sent to the United States.

The pottery and china industry also has felt the spur of Japanese competition. Although relatively few workers are involved, they are concentrated in areas where their political protest can be most effective. The theme of the trade unions is that Japanese labor paid only a fraction of what American workers receive will continue to undercut American industry unless barriers are put up. The argument that other industries in this country benefit greatly from trade with Japan carries little weight with an unemployed textile worker.

THE BEGINNING of a new relationship between Peiping and Tokyo may well be exploited by those in this country who wish to discredit Japan and see trade barriers built up against Japanese goods. This is not likely, however, to deter the Japanese from the course they have set out on. As one of the officials accompanying Prime Minister Ikeda put it:

"We do not criticize you for your hostility to Communist China. We understand why this should be. But you, in your turn, must appreciate that we have sentimental ties that inevitably link us with the Chinese people."

Peiping is having to pay nearly $400,000,000 in foreign exchange to buy wheat from Canada and Australia. These purchases are the minimum essential to try to tide China's hungry masses over two years of crop failures. It is this squeeze that, in the Japanese view, has led Peiping to come to Tokyo's terms.

In the Washington talks, a new setup was agreed on that could remove some of the tensions building up in the Japanese-United States trade relationship. A committee is to be formed of top government representatives of each country. It will seek to avoid disputes wherever possible and to resolve conflicts when they arise. American representatives will include the Secretaries of Treasury, State and Commerce. The committee will meet regularly in Washington and in Tokyo.

This will be a forum in which differences can be aired. It is a recognition of the new status of Japan as a formidable power in Asia, a power vital to the position of the West in the Far East. In view of that power, part of the stress from the American side was on the need for Japan to contribute in greater volume to the under-developed countries.

EVIDENCE OF JAPAN'S new status—confidence that the role of a defeated power subservient to the conqueror is at an end—is seen in the insistence on a gradual renewal of the ties with China. It is apparent, too, in the determination of Japan's negotiators to win back some measure of authority in Okinawa where the American military has held out for American supremacy in what was one of Japan's island possessions and is today a vital American Air Force base.

The most important consequence of the meetings that ended Thursday may have been recognition on both sides that Japan is a power that must be accorded a new stature. If a way can be worked out in which the Japanese can join in a solution of the U.N. problem over Red China, so much the better. But if there is no agreement on formula, it is quite possible that Tokyo will go its own way, regardless of American wishes. For the vast bulk of China, with its swiftly growing population, casts a long shadow over the crowded islands that are the Japanese homeland.

operations, by Comdr. James B. Osborn, skipper of the Blue crew of the George Washington, by Comdr. Harold E. Shear, captain of the Patrick Henry, by Comdr. J. L. From, commanding the Gold crew of the Washington, and Comdr. R. L. J. Long, commanding officer, Gold crew of Patrick Henry.

Galantin said Osborn reported that "the most significant thing was that because his ship had been able to perform so successfully in a patrol never before tried it meant that the other submarines coming on would be able to perform even better."

OSBORN AND SHEAR were "delighted" with the ability of their radio receivers to pick up all messages—a matter of paramount importance if Washington should flash the word that war had come and order the launching of the 16 rockets from each submarine.

Similarly, the skippers reported complete satisfaction with the performance of the navigating system. Polaris submarines actually have several systems, one to check against another—the Navy calls this "redundancy." This includes: The ship inertial navigation system (S.I.N.S.) which feeds into an electronic brain each turn, change in angle and variation of speed, resulting in a constant record of where the submarine is at a particular moment; a celestial navigation system by which the navigator can shoot star sights through a new, special periscope; gyroscopic compasses, independent of magnetic attraction; and usual submarine piloting procedures.

Shear reported that during his long patrol there was no period of 24 hours when he was unable to check his S.I.N.S. and compass systems through use of star sight by periscope.

A FLOATING DRYDOCK, towed across the Atlantic in sections, has now arrived at the Polaris replenishment anchorage at Holy Loch, Scotland, is being assembled and will be ready for use this fall.

The atomic-powered submarines, operating in cold water where there is little trouble with marine growths on hull, probably will use the drydock primarily for inspection. The presence of the drydock, capable of making hull repairs to the 7000-ton submarines, will be an ace-in-the-hole if hulls, propellers, planes or superstructures are damaged. This would make unnecessary a time consuming trip back to a United States port.

Three Polaris submarines now are on station. Two more will join them by this fall. More will follow at an accelerating rate.

The Navy claims the Polaris system—with the great advantage of low vunerability to enemy attack while keeping constant vigil on Russia—is a major contribution to the doctrine of deterrence. It does not claim that it makes unnecessary the other strategic systems—the Air Force's I.C.B.M.s and long range bombers or the Navy's carrier-based nuclear bombers.

OVER-THE-COUNTER WEEK'S TRADE QUIET

By ROBERT E. BEDINGFIELD
© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, June 26—Trading in the over-the-counter market last week was the quietest of the year to date. There was no pressure on prices generally, although some issues stood out with sizable gains and losses.

For example, Dymo plummeted 13 points, while Heublin rose 8½. Investors Diversified Services, which is controlled by the Allegheny Corporation, the big holding company, soared 10 points. Xerox was the beneficiary of unusually heavy institutional demand. The stock, which is scheduled for listing on the big board next month, was up 3 points.

But these moves were exceptional. Changes generally were measured in fractions and most issues clung to the minus columns until late Friday. Then traders reported some firming of bids. This was reflected in the national quotation bureau's price index of 35 industrial issues.

Index is Lower.

The index closed Friday at 122.68, down 0.99 on the week. The week's high was reached on Monday, when the index stood at 122.75. The low of 122.43 was reached the next day.

The settlement of a rate case helped Union Texas Natural Gas to recover to about 28¼ bid on Friday, after having been pushed down to 26 earlier in the week. Columbia Oil and Gas, which had been hovering about 15⅜ a week previous, recovered to 16¼ bid. Republic Natural Gas gained 3 points.

In the bank list United States Trust Company was marked down about 6 points. This drop was attributed by one dealer to the fact that a recent secondary offering in the shares "had not been too fully digested, even though the books were closed." Morgan Guaranty Trust lost 2 points. Hanover was off 1¼ and Chase-Manhattan was off ½.

Insurance Stocks Neglected.

Insurance stocks generally were ignored and as a result prices there, too, dropped somewhat. Aetna Life and Aetna Insurance both were marked down 2 points. Glens Falls was off 2¼. Savings and loan issues continued easier on the threat of new tax laws affecting their status.

Commonwealth Oil Refinery of Puerto Rico reflected demand as the company completed finally calling its convertible debentures. In the foreign list Phillips Lamp showed a fractional recovery in late week dealings after having dropped 5 points.

Western Publishing lead its group with a 2½ point gain. Grosset & Dunlop lost 1 point. Trading in public utility issues was dull.

LICENSES OF FIVE TAVERNS IN THIS AREA SUSPENDED

JEFFERSON CITY, June 26—Licenses of five taverns in the St. Louis area were suspended today for the remainder of the month by State Liquor Control Supervisor Hollis Ketchum. The new license year becomes effective next Saturday.

Taverns cited, and alleged violations, were: Home, Sweet Home, 508 North Vandeventer avenue, for permitting women to solicit drinks; Empire Lounge, 3648 St. Louis avenue, permitting gambling; 2700 South Broadway, Donald E. Burmester, sale to a minor; Meramec Tavern, Valley Park, sale to minor; William L. Blankenship, Manchester road, Ballwin, operating beyond closing hours and allowing disorder.

Five licenses were revoked by Ketchum in other areas, including that of the Jungle Nite Club in Kansas City, operated by Philip Simone. Simone's license was revoked permanently following seven recent raids.

Free Time for Cab Driver.

MANILA, June 26 (AP)—Two Japanese sailors sold a watch to a Filipino cab driver Saturday when they came ashore from the freighter Nichiyo Maru. The cabbie paid them in currency issued by the Japanese occupation authorities. It has been worthless since the war.

Sales Up, Profits Also Improving From Low Point of First Quarter

Rise Is Limited by Price Cuts in Many Products—Durable Goods Sales Last Month 10 Pct. Above January.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

With sales increasing, profits of manufacturers also are showing some improvement from the low level of the first quarter of the year. But the rise is being limited by price cuts for many products.

Manufacturers' profits after taxes in the first quarter were $2,900,000,000, down 27 per cent from the total in the first quarter of 1960 and 17 per cent less than in the fourth quarter last year, the Federal Trade Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission reported recently. This was the lowest level since the second quarter of 1958, when profits were also hit by a recession.

W. H. Kester

Manufacturers sales have been rising since January. Durable goods producers last month sold 10 per cent more than in January, after allowance for seasonal factors. Sales of non-durable goods manufacturers rose about 3 per cent from January to April.

Output of manufacturers has risen along with the expansion in sales. The physical volume of manufacturing output last month was 7 per cent higher than in February, the low point in the recent recession, the Federal Reserve Board has reported. Both durable and non-durable goods production have risen steadily in recent months.

Profit-Sales Link.

Profit margins of manufacturers typically rise when sales expand, a recent report of the National Bureau of Economic Research said. In an analysis of the postwar cycles, the study found that there was a net rise in profit margins in 87 per cent of the expansions of sales of the various manufacturing groups.

Conversely, the study found a net fall in margins in 96 per cent of the sales contractions of manufacturing groups. This factor contributed to the decline in profits in the first quarter of this year. Declining sales also were a factor.

Profit margins increased in 70 per cent of the cases in the first quarter of an expansion period, in 80 per cent of the cases in the second quarter and in 64 per cent in the last two quarters of an expansion, the report showed.

Margins increased in 57 per cent of the cases in the intial contraction period but thereafter the proportion dropped substantially.

Labor Costs Constant.

Labor and total costs per physical unit sold seldom rise in the first part of an expansion, the bureau reported. Total cost per unit rose in 16 per cent of the cases in the first quarter and in 40 per cent of the cases in the second quarter of the expansion. In the remainder of the cycle, total costs per unit rose in more than half the cases. The peak was 92 per cent in the second period of a contraction.

The NBER study found also that prices received by manufacturers rose in 38 per cent of the cases and remained steady or declined in 62 per cent of the cases in the first quarter of an expansion.

The slight decline in average wholesale prices in recent months thus apparently conforms with the typical pattern of the initial period of a business expansion. Wholesale prices of processed foods have declined since February and quotations of non-food products have declined since March. Prices of finished goods have been on the downgrade since January and February.

Carr, Adams Co. Sold.

Carr, Adams Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis, with a branch a Mexico, Mo., and seven other related millworking companies have been purchased by the Great Western Millwork Co., a division of O. W. Siebert Co., Inc., New York City, it was announced today.

The eight millwork companies, operating 14 millwork plants in six Midwestern states, were part of Caradco, Inc., of Dubuque, Ia. Purchase price was not revealed but the acquisition adds over $5,000,000 of net assets to the Siebert Co., it was reported.

The new owning group is headed by H. B. Pearl, president and board chairman of Herbert B. Pearl, Inc., and its subsidiary, O. W. Siebert Co.

Fred L. Kuhlmann, an attorney, has been elected a director of Northland Bank.

SOYBEANS LOWER ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Soybean and corn futures weakened but other grains demonstrated some strength in mostly light transactions on the Board of Trade today.

The setbacks in soybeans, with the nearby July contract off as much as six cents a bushel at one time, was attributed to an unconfirmed report among the trade that China over the weekend had sold 25,000 tons of beans to Italy and Denmark at prices below those offered by the United States.

Demand for wheat futures increased late in the trading session, apparently influenced by indications of a pickup in foreign demand. Brazil is expected in the market tomorrow for nearly 4,000,000 bushels of the bread grain.

Government selling of corn depressed the feed grain. Rye was influenced by action in wheat.

INTERN. SHOE PLANS GENERAL PRICE RISE

Henry H. Rand, president of the International Shoe Company announced, at a luncheon meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts in New York today, that the International Shoe Company plans a general upward price adjustment effective July 17. Details of the adjustment were not disclosed. Price adjustments became necessary, Rand said, because of the material cost price squeeze.

President Rand, at the same time, reported sales for the first half had dropped $5,500,000 from the record high of $147,664,610 in corresponding 1960 period. The 1961 first half figure was $142,187,000.

Rand stated that the shoe company expects to show consolidated net earnings of 67c a share of common stock for the six months ended May 31, compared with $1.41 a share for the corresponding six months of 1960. He attributed the lower earnings partly to reduced volume but more to a squeeze on price margins resulting from tightening material costs and also the expenses incurred in the final phases of the company's retail expansion program.

BOND TRADING QUIET WITH SOME SMALL GAINS LATE

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Bond prices struggled barely higher in extremely quiet trading late today after a mixed opening.

The Upide had a slight edge in the industrial and utility sections of the corporate list. With rails, it was a virtual standoff between up and down movements.

Among United States treasury bonds, a few long maturities showed gains of 2-32 while quotations on intermediates remained unchanged.

In the foreign department high authority of the European coal and steel community 5½s lost 1 at 101 and Tokyo Electric 6s of 1963 stamped added a fraction at 101.

BY SOUTHWESTERN BELL NORMAN GESSLEY ADVANCED

Norman Gessley, general plant manager of the south Texas area of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., has been appointed assistant vice president for operations at the company's headquarters here, it was announced today.

Gessley, an employe of Southwestern Bell since 1941, succeeds Budd Reinhold, who was named general manager of the company's north Texas area.

Joe H. Hunt, assistant vice president in charge of training and employment, was selected to replace Gessley in the south Texas area.

Business Outlook

SEC. OF TREASURY DILLON'S FORECAST

By J. A. Livingston

No successful football coach ever sends his team out with the words, "Hold 'em to a tie, boys." Yet that is what Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon is doing.

In talking at the National Press Club, Secretary Dillon said: "We must avoid price increases so that those who live on fixed incomes will not be penalized. This will require a high order of self-restraint on the part of both labor and management with wage increases geared to increases in productivity."

J. A. Livingston

"Wage increases geared to increases in productivity!"

The economist with an understanding of gear ratios would know that this doesn't mean that all increases in productivity should go to workers. The gains would be geared—proportionalized—among workers, stockholders, and, last and often least, consumers.

For most persons, the inference is another round of wage-price pushups. Yet, what this country needs and what the Kennedy administration ought to be emphasizing is price decreases.

Target for Labor.

Such emphasis on price declines is particularly necessary because of Mr. Dillon's hopeful forecast. By this time next year, he says, "We may well be in the midst of an economic boom."

According to his projection, we could have a rise of ten billion dollars a quarter in the annual rate of gross national output in the next year and a half, as follows:

Quarter	Annual Rate GNP
2nd	510.0
3rd	520.0
4th	530.0
1962—1st	540.0
2nd	550.0
3rd	560.0
4th	$570.0

If that growth takes place, the gross national product this year will average out to $515,000,000,000, and next year to $555,000,000,000, an increase of nearly 8%.

What a setting for happy hunting by labor leaders! As business opportunists, they'll try to take their wage gains while they can.

Higher Wages Vs. Lower Prices.

Consequently, unless government officials use stronger words than Secretary Dillon, another round of wage increases — and perhaps price increases—will be the country's lot again.

Yet, prices have been rising too long and too steadily. If we're to achieve "full employment for our steadily expanding labor force," as Secretary Dillon suggests, we've got to do better than "hold prices to a tie." We need to lower them to generate an increased demand for goods which will, in turn, generate increased production and increased employment.

Higher wages put more purchasing power in the hands of workers who get the higher wages. Lower prices put more purchasing power in the hands of all workers.

Further, if we're to "keep our products competitive with foreign products," again we've got to translate increased productivity into price reductions, not wage benefits. If we're to be able to support our foreign aid programs, we've got to sell more U.S. goods abroad, which means U.S. prices must be competitive.

Good Debut for Reuther.

At some point, an Administration spokesman ought to speak plainly on prices. President Kennedy cannot escape responsibility in the long run for inflationary pressures and he ought to make it clear not only to industry that prices increases will not be welcomed, but to labor that wage increases will also not be welcomed.

It is quite possible that the automobile industry will set the stage for the 1962 boom. Sales continue strong, and manufacturers are planning early shutdowns for production of 1962 models. This will give dealers plenty of time to dispose of 1961s and might even result in a shortage of cars. What a welcome contrast with last year's glut!

In a sense, this helps Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers. If he calls a strike, he'll do so when cars are scarce and presumably in demand.

The Henry Ford party for his debutante daughter, estimated in press dispatches to cost $250,000, doesn't hurt Reuther, either. Such consumption, which Economist Thorstein Veblen described as "conspicuous," won't give Reuther a sense of restraint at the bargaining table. Mr. Ford has many friends he wants—understandably—to introduce to his daughter. But ten less conspicuous parties, instead of one, would have achieved the same result without evoking memories of Veblen.

Day's Complete New York Stock Transactions

STEEL AND OIL NEWS WEIGH ON SLOW MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—The stock market declined sharply in very slow trading today.

Key stocks took losses running from fractions to more than a point.

The list was mixed in early trading but buying interest was lacking and prices eroded gradually for most of the afternoon.

A weakening in the steel export market and Iraq's threat to take over oil-rich Kuwait were among disturbing background factors but the possibility of a test of last week's lows was a great element creating uncertainty.

Gulf Oil, which has interestes in Kuwait, was down more than a point. Dupont dropped a couple of points and dragged at the average.

Steels, motors, oils, chemicals, rubbers and aircrafts lost ground.

Down more than a point were such stocks as U.S. Steel, Southern Railway and Goodrich.

Volume for the day was estimated at 2,500,000 shares compared with 2,072,000 Friday.

Gulf oil, softened by the big secondary offering of the stock made recently, was down about 2 after a 12,000-share trade.

A loss of about 2 points by Ford was the worst loss among motors.

American Telephone erased an early fractional gain and eased.

On American Board.

American Stock Exchange prices were generally lower in late afternoon in quiet trading. Mead Johnson was off about 2. Fractional losses were taken by Syntex, Barchris Construction, Webb & Knapp, Polarad Electronics, Cinerama and British Petroleum. Vornado rose more than a point, Universal Controls and Associated Test Laboratories made fractional gains.

LONDON INDEX OFF 3.1 PTS.

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 324.1, off 3.1.

LONDON DRIFTS LOWER

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—Stock market began the new week on a subdued note with prices drifting lower in most sections.

Buyers kept aloof as they waited the Government's measures to relieve the strain on the country's economy. Government bonds were depressed as a result of renewed selling on an unwilling market.

Oil shares were unsettled by developments in Kuwait.

Industrials were dull but a few resisted the general trend and responded to favorable weekend press comment. Gold shares were idle and mainly easier. Coppers were firm and tin shares went ahead.

TEXTILE MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Activity in the cotton textile market Monday was limited to spot sales of print cloths and other constructions. Mills noted some isolated bidding for forward print cloths, but the bids were lower than mill quotations.

Orders for wool goods were light. This partly reflected seasonal factors, with the industry due to begin annual shutdown for vacations next month.

Merger Plans Off, Report.

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—CIT Financial Corp. and Thorp Finance Corp. have called off merger plans announced last month.

STEEL RATE OFF 4TH WEEK, BUT DROP IS SLIGHT

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Steel production fell last week for the fourth week in a row—but by less than one-half of one per cent.

The American Iron and Steel Institute said the nation's output in the seven days ended June 24 came to 1,978,000 net tons, down only 7000 tons from the preceding week.

Before entering upon the traditional summer slowdown, production peaked at 2,077,000 tons in the last full calendar week before Memorial day.

OFFERS MORE FOR STOCK

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—John Lamula Investors Inc., a New York firm attempting to thwart proposed merger of Penn Fruit Co. and ACF-Wrigley Stores Inc., today raised its offer to $21 a share for the 150,000 shares of Penn Fruit stock held by its chairman, Samuel Cooke.

ACF-Wrigley has offered Cooke $20 a share, Lamula says, in the proposed merger of the two big grocery chains.

John Lamula, president of the investment company, said his bid was being made in behalf of a group of Philadelphia and New York stockholders. Penn Fruit operates in both those cities.

Cooke is a brother of James Cooke, now president of ACF-Wrigley and a former vice president of Penn Fruit.

WEBSTER PUB. REPORT

Webster Publishing Co. had net income for the fiscal year ended April 30 of $283,182, equivalent to 39 cents a common share, W. MacLean Johnson, president, reported. Net income for the preceding fiscal year was $117,404 or 16 cents a share.

Sales for the year were $6,185,929 against $4,319,352.

RECORD LIFE INSURANCE

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Life insurance in force at the end of 1960 totaled 645 billion dollars, the Institute of Life Insurance says in the latest edition of the life insurance fact book.

The figure is a record high, says the Institute, and results from a growth in the last decade eight times as fast as the nation's population.

COTTON 40C TO $1 HIGHER

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Cotton futures improved toward the close, paced by increasing short covering in near-by July.

Futures closed 40 cents to $1 a bale higher than the previous close.

Air Show and Aftermath

Neck muscles take the strain while air show spectators keep up with the action aloft. Watching parachute performance are some of the many thousands who jammed Scott Air Force Base yesterday for aerial show commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of naval aviation. Base officials estimated crowd at about 250,000 and said about 80,000 automobiles were on or around the base. Traffic jam (below) extended for miles when spectators attempted to go home after the show. —By Robert Holt, a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

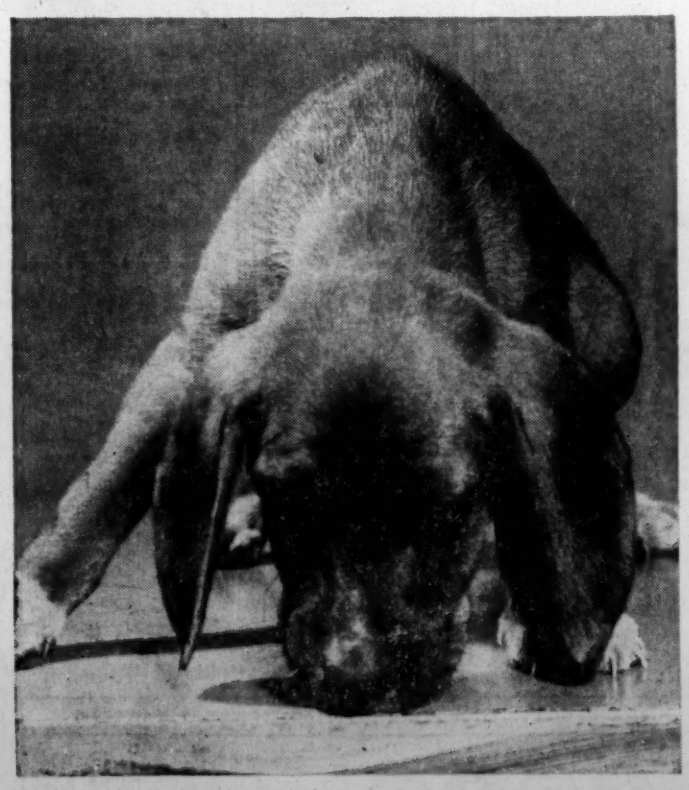

Calculated Crackup

Otis Cooper sits bleeding and dejected near his wrecked truck after steering it into the rear of a building at Nashville, Tenn., Saturday. Cooper, of Scottsville, Ky., said he rammed the building rather than risk running into an automobile that pulled in front of him after his truck's brakes failed on a hill. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Dog of the Week

Large ears and an instinct for tracking are built-in factors with the Humane Society Shelter's Dog of the Week. A beagle, in part at least, he is about 2 months old and is busily developing the beagle's hunting skills. Coloring is brown and white and he is available for adoption on application in person at the shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue. —By Lester Linck, a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Heading for Jail in Mississippi

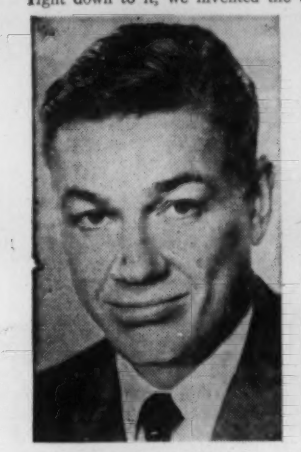

Freedom Riders bound for jail at Jackson, Miss., yesterday burst into laughter on seeing others in their group being loaded into a police patrol car. They were among the 20, nine whites and 11 Negroes, who arrived by train from New Orleans and were arrested when they refused to move from a segregated waiting room. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

John Crosby

Will Man on Moon Have Clean Shirt?

NEW YORK, June 26.

I'M SEEKING A LAUNDRY to wash my shirts. Is this asking too much? I mean, here it is 1961. We put Alan Shepard into space. We invented the nuclear submarine. Come right down to it, we invented the atom bomb. Why is it my shirts are beyond the technical capability of this country?

JOHN CROSBY

The last laundry I tried is a huge chain laundry which has scores of branches throughout New York City. "They do good shirts," said my cleaning woman whose word has been utterly reliable. Off went a batch of shirts, our hopes high. A week passed. The cleaning woman picked up the laundry, inspected the shirts and immediately called me. The gist of the conversation: They did good shirts once; they don't do good shirts now. In short, we have retrogressed in this matter.

I inspected the shirts myself, a heart-breaking experience. The first one had two buttons off, one button broken. Well, I'm a broad-minded man but not that broad-minded. The collars looked as if they had been ironed by a lunatic chimpanzee. (A million chimpanzees pounding away over a million years on a million typewriters would eventually grind out "Hamlet." So they say. But this isn't getting my shirts done.)

Never in the long march of history has there been a nation so soap conscious as ours. ("So join in the chorus for Dial—the soap for people who like people.") The air rings with adjurations to buy Ivory Flakes—"So fine! So fast! So mild!" Or Fab, "Cleans clear through. That is a Fab wash." So why do my shirts come back a dull gray? My own theory is so much of the national energy has gone into advertising the soap we have hasn't any strength left to wash my shirts.

Aah, me! When I was a child, my family had a laundress. Everyone's family had a laundress. But now that I am a man, I have put aside childish things and I have an automatic washer. Or even better yet, oh joy, oh heavenly progress, in this richest of all countries, I can call a laundry chain and they will smash my buttons, age my shirts, to say nothing of aging me, for as little as 30 cents a shirt. Sing ho for the Twentieth century! Sing ha for democracy!

I have gone 2000 miles up the Amazon. In the shallows, braving the bites of the piranhas, and totally devoid of Ivory Flakes, are the dusky maidens of some of the most backward Indian tribes on this circlet earth and they're getting their lingerie cleaner than I'm getting my lingerie. You know what they use? Muscle! The new miracle ingredient! The all-purpose detergent, which cleans clear through, so fine, so fast, so mild!

This is one of those backward areas into which our money is shortly to be poured to bring the natives up to our standard of living. With any luck, their laundry will be as badly done as my laundry within a decade. Maybe sooner. Aah, lucky brown-skinned maiden!

In Europe the shirts still come back snowy white, beautifully ironed, arranged almost like a bouquet on a little wicker basket. At least they did the last time I was there a year and a half ago. But since then, they've put the bowling alleys in the Bois de Boulogne. The quick lunch is spreading all over the continent. Maybe they've even got an American laundry.

The smart thing in Wall street and on Madison avenue is to import an English secretary—with their cool, crisp accents and their English ways. You suppose maybe we might import some French laundresses who know how to iron a shirt? Would it be unreasonable to arrange a trade? For all those billions in foreign aid, couldn't we get just a few backward peoples who are so terribly backward they haven't yet forgotten how to do the work properly?

I'm an ordinary man who desires nothing more than just a clean white shirt. But this is not the right age to ask for the ordinary. Now, if it were trans-Atlantic television, we'll have that in a minute. Or if I wanted a cobalt bomb. But I don't want a cobalt bomb. Just a clean, well-ironed white shirt. It's easier to put a man on the moon.

Ann Landers

Do-It-Yourself Danger

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While my husband is building up his ego he is tearing down our home. For three months he has been remodeling the living room—learning as he goes. Everything is so torn up we can't have friends in for fear someone will fall in a hole or hit his head on a suspended project.

ANN LANDERS

Last week he disconnected the kitchen stove temporarily, and then couldn't put it back together. We had to eat out. He has installed outlets which don't work, and I'm scared to death he will electrocute himself. He knows nothing about wiring, but insists on fooling with transformers and converters. What do you suggest?

SHORT CIRCUIT

Dear Short: There's a great deal to be said for a husband who spends his spare time fiddling around at home instead of elsewhere, but your boy sounds dangerous. Building mistakes can be repaired by a professional, but a serious wiring mistake might call for the services of an undertaker. Insist that for your peace of mind he lay off the electrical projects.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some advice but nobody will give me an unprejudiced opinion because everybody I know has personal feelings about this matter.

I married young and had a baby boy the first year. My husband died shortly after the baby was born and I remained a widow for three years.

Now I am married to a very nice man and we have three children of our own. The oldest boy keeps begging me to change his last name so that it will be the same as his father's and his brothers'.

I want to do it but my first husband's parents are raising violent objections. They say I owe it to the memory of their son to keep his name alive through this boy. Please tell me what to do. I am going crazy trying to decide what is right.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE

Dear Guilty: If the boy wants to change his name so it will be the same as the only daddy he has ever known, I say change it. You can use your first husband's name as the boy's middle name. Then, for example, you can call him Robert Allison Brown.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booket, "How to Be Well-Liked," inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Beauty Mask

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

"What's the secret of a radiant complexion?" This "most asked" reader question was answered by R. Gordon Bau, director of make-up at Warner Bros. He has been associated with cosmetic chemistry for 20 years. "Correct diet and cleanliness are essential," was his reply. He took sister Bonnie to the studio's $75,000 laboratory and prepared a beauty mask "to aid in removing blackheads and impurities from normal skin." Check with your doctor before application. Bau's recipe is: ½ ounce glycerin, 2 drops red food coloring, and 2 drops cologne (optional) mixed thoroughly into 22 ounces of witch hazel. This is added to 10 ounces of Bentonite clay (available through pharmacists) and blended until smooth. Let the mixture set overnight in an airtight jar. Again, mix well; then apply.

Bau "plopped" a spoonful of the creamy mixture onto Bonnie's face. It was applied in long, even strokes, away from the eyes and lids. It felt cool and refreshing. As it dried, it increased the circulation and stimulated the tissue. The "unveiling" came 45 minutes later. The mask, which usually peels off in strips, came off in one piece. Unknown to Bonnie, he had added a binder, so she could figuratively hold her face in her hand. The result, after rinsing, was an immaculately clean skin. Bau, president of the Society of Make-up Artists, makes 90 per cent of the cosmetics used at the studio.

P.S. Shape up for summer: By popular request, reprints of the "Tan 'n' Trim" fact sheet that offers BOTH a diet and a sun tan formula are now available. For your copy, send 5 cents (to cover costs of handling) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "Youth Parade—Tan 'n' Trim," in care of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Ask Teacher

By Shirley Schraub

DEAR MRS. SCHRAUB: My daughter was always an easy-going child. Now, after going through a year of junior high, she is completely changed. She cries and sulks about the least little thing, is usually very bad-tempered and even fresh. It is getting increasingly difficult to control her. All she thinks about is makeup, clothes, hair styles (bleaching her hair is one craze), etc.

I wonder whether rushing these youngsters into junior high rather than waiting for high school makes them grow up before they are really ready. Do these schools handle them differently, too? I'm at a loss.

Mrs. I. O. C.

It's not junior high that has changed her—she's just growing up.

Junior and senior highs do handle their students differently from the elementary schools. They realize that these youngsters need the opportunity to make decisions for themselves. Parents often find it somewhat difficult to adjust to this change in their children's attitudes at this age. There is no bell that rings to let you know that your child is a "child" no longer.

Most youngsters are difficult at this age because they are just not sure of themselves. They act and talk as though there were no limits to their desire for "independence," but, underneath it all, they actually want your understanding, guidance and confidence. Give them to her. Growing up is no snap.

Tobe Says

ALICE IN WONDERLAND could be the inspiration for the newly-revived ribbon-banded hairdo. Except that little Alice's hair was a long blond sweep, and now you do it with short demi-bouffant or even sleek hairdos. It's fun to have a collection of ribbons or ready-made "headache bands" in colors to match or contrast with summer clothes.

I like the idea, too, of little ribbon bows clipped to side-swept cheek curls. Or nestled atop soft side-swept bangs.

The new demi-bouffant hairdos with side-swept bangs, which I have told you about, lend themselves beautifully to these "bits of decor." It's really a do-it-yourself sort of thing—and fun too.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

IT IS VERY EASY to become confused when you play against an artificial system of bidding. most players don't encounter this difficulty because, in the groups in which they play, a spade is a spade, a heart bid shows hearts, diamonds means diamonds, and so on.

However, when you play in tournaments, where so-called advanced bidding methods are used by some pairs, artificial bids are fairly common. Whether they are successful in the long run is questionable. Here is a case where an artificial bid was successful, but for a peculiar reason.

The hand was played in a match between Great Britain and Italy in 1954. Nothing much happened at the first table, where Reese and Shapiro got to four spades. True, Reese made six as a result of faulty defense, but the extra trick he gained was of minor consequence.

It was at the second table that the fireworks occurred. There, Giovine and Franco held the North-South cards for Italy. They were playing the highly artificial Marmic system.

Giovine opened the South hand with a diamond. This had nothing to do with diamonds; it was only an introductory bid.

Franco responded a spade. This had nothing to do with spades. It showed a king and some plus values. Eventually, Franco and Giovine arrived at six spades.

Meredith (West) led the jack of spades, thereby handing declarer the contract. Declarer won with the queen, cashed the A-K of hearts and ruffed a heart, and then had an entry to the ten of spades to obtain two valuable discards on the established hearts. Declarer lost only one trick and made the slam.

It was an unfortunate lead, all right, but it was doubly unfortunate because Meredith had led out of turn. Due to the artificialities of the Marmic system, North had become declarer at spades and East should have made the opening lead.

North accepted the lead out of turn, which was his privilege, and thus made the slam.

Birth of a Song Called 'Peyton Place'

By Jack Rice

A MAN WAS at a piano in a restaurant, playing dinner music for a pack of hungry Chicagoans, giving them pieces by Cole Porter and Irving Berlin and Gershwin, songwriters who flourished the hard way. They tried to make every song sound different. That was before popular music publishers grew smarter and discovered there was more money to be made with one note and an electric guitar.

The man at the piano went into something pleasant and slightly pretentious, too. I recognized everything he had played before but I couldn't place his last number no matter how far back I went, remembering girls' names. He knew the number well and was fond of it. He smiled at the piano board like he was picking out a winner at every key.

When he finished I asked him to name the piece. I do not like to have a melody loose in my mind, making me wonder what scrap of a commercial it is and what I've forgotten to buy.

"That's 'Peyton Place' and I wrote it," he said. "I'm Bernie Yuffy."

I did not know that "Peyton Place" had theme music. The way I heard it, that movie stayed pretty close to the book and didn't have anything.

"That's right." Yuffy said. "The movie didn't have a theme, just background music."

Yuffy saw that he was not making me any smarter. He produced a folder of sheet music. The cover stated the music was "Peyton Place." Music by Bernie Yuffy, lyrics by Hal Tate and Dave Bass. Nobody to worry Rodgers and Lerner, Yuffy said. Just three Chicago boys, too young for Caruso and too old for Ricky Nelson.

"Tate called me a couple of years ago and asked me if I'd read 'Peyton Place.' I didn't read it. Neither did he. All he read was a statistic that 40,000,000 other people had. I didn't know any of them.

"He said, 'Write me a song about it. They're going to make a movie of the book and we'll sell the song for a theme.' I told him he was crazy. We should buck the music department of 20th-Century Fox?"

Yuffy says Tate is a determined fellow. Always has another dime to call again, asking what's been done since the last call. So Yuffy wrote the music to save Tate dimes.

He wrote pretty music. He'd heard the book wasn't pretty but the odds were on his side. If 40,000,000 people had read it that left 120,000,000 people in the United States who hadn't read it. Maybe there was a new market, for people who would say, "I didn't read the book but I heard the music." A record was made of the music and Howard Miller, a Chicago disk jockey, liked it. He played it twice a day for six weeks.

"We didn't sell the music to the 'Peyton Place' movie and we didn't sell it to 'Return to Peyton Place,' either. Like I figured. But we sold over 100,000 records and that's not bad."

"Sure. That's the music business. Meshugah."

Never heard the pop music business called that before.

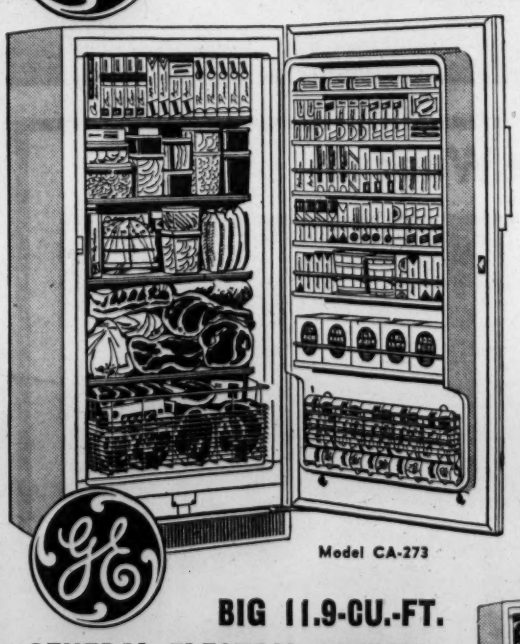

Yuffy grinned. He said, "Sure you have. It's always meshugah. Means 'crazy.'"

Chaos in New York When Power Failed

WHAT HAPPENED WAS that a switch cut out. That's all. Just a little electrical switch. In about three seconds, a large part of New York's civilization fell apart. I know. I was there. . . .

JIM BISHOP

I have never seen anything like it. The switch cut out on West Sixty-fifth street and this caused a series of relays to flip off. In a trice, the area around Central Park died. Man was helpless without his fuse box. I was in a television studio at 5:01 when the lights dimmed, then died.

The studio was below the street level and had no windows. To get out, it was necessary to inch toward big cameras in Stygian darkness, feel them, try to walk around them, skid on snaky cables and grope toward two doors. Then a long black hall to the right, then one to the right again, then to the left, and upstairs to the sunlight on the street.

Books of matches were used quickly. Along Central Park West, people were running out into the streets. Air conditioners died in doctors' offices and in apartments. Channel 7 expired in a tiny white button of light on a half million television screens.

Traffic lights between Forty-second and Seventy-seventh streets winked out and a tinge of panic hit the streets. No one seemed to know what to do. Or where to go. Automobiles inched out of side streets to snarl cars coming down Broadway and Amsterdam avenue and Fifth.

The Independent subway quit and the temperature was 93. A flood of phone calls hit police headquarters and the operators lost their minds repeating: "Yes, we know about it, lady . . . Consolidated Edison is doing everything it can . . ."

Electric ranges went cold, and so did 20,000 half-cooked dinners. Elevators stopped between floors in tall skyscrapers and not one could move them. Under the veneer, nerves began to unravel and a woman in the Coliseum elevator moaned: "We're going to fall. We're going to fall to the bottom." A young reporter stood on a corner and murmured: "What a publicity stunt!"

The garages went dark and no one could bring a car down the elevators. Fire department units rolled through the streets to rescue citizens caught in their own monsters of masonry. All off-duty policemen were called back to emergency duty.

In mid-town, a thousand extra policemen were dropped off at street corners to try to untie the deep snarl of honking traffic. In hundreds of taverns, the beer began to warm up. Freezers thawed out. Burglar alarms quit working as burglars went to work.

Escalators stopped in department stores and subway kiosks spewed up thousands of hot people. News of the emergency was put on radio, but no sets were working. Taxicabs were loaded and some people stood on street corners for an hour, perspiring and waving. Busses were so jammed that to let one passenger off sometimes required a three-minute stop.

Trains were stalled under the East river. There was no way out for anybody. Motion picture houses went dark and patrons demanded their money back. The big neon signs around Times Square quit and along the Hudson river, the piers went black. In one hospital, eight patients in iron lungs waited for a miracle, and the next breath.

At the New York Times, reporters and editors worked by candlelight. Four police stations lost their teletype service and their lights. New York officials requested all people to remain outside the affected area. Subway trains on the Independent line were turned back, further snarling the jam. Channel 5 quit and remained off the air.

In Roosevelt Hospital, the last operation of the day had been completed 15 minutes before the blackout. Traffic piled up in front of bridges and tunnels. A boy alone in an automatic elevator started to cry and firemen spent two hours cutting a hole in the roof to get him out.

Some women in the Esso building fainted and were taken to the street on stretchers. Stores closed. Merchants in hock shops and jewelry stores cleaned the window displays out. The late sun was merciless and traffic policemen began to lose their tempers.

It was like this for over four hours. I got in my car and went home. I had seen enough of man's 110-volt civilization. Take away his electricity and he goes right back to the cave.

What had happened was that a switch cut out. That's all. Just a little electrical switch. . . .

CABIN ON THE LAKE: If you've long yearned for a vacation cabin near a lake but found it out of the question because of the high price of waterside land, here's something you might want to consider—a pre-fabricated cabin for on the water. Actually, it's designed to convert a standard raft or pontoon float into a houseboat with accommodations for a family of four or five. The nine feet four inch cabin can be put together in about three hours by two persons. It has a dining nook, settee, dome lights, screened windows, running water tank and fenced-in deck. You can trail it—on a pontoon float—to the water, use a 5- to 35-horsepower outboard motor with it. Cabin cost runs $800 up, and optional equipment includes chemical commode, refrigerator, stove.

WATER DRILL: Attach a new four-foot long aluminum tube to your garden hose and it drills inself into the soil at a rate of up to four feet a minute. Its jet-drilling nozzle works even through clay without hand pressure. The inexpensive device can be used to water trees and shrubs at the roots. It opens a hole in the soil one inch in diameter and, with the drill withdrawn, the hole can be partially filled with a "charge" of fertilizer to slowly feed the roots. The device also is useful for digging small diameter post holes.

ONE FINGER CHORDS: Well, now they've done it to the piano—put a set of electric buttons on the left side of the keyboard so anyone who can read numbers or pick out a tune with his right hand can play chords with one finger of the left. The latest "music the easy way" device is to go into pianos produced by nine different manufacturers—at an added cost of something over $300. It's intended for novices who'd like to play songs immediately by numbers from song books—and maybe eventually, with some practice, from ordinary music sheets. The device is said to serve as a teaching aid, too, since when you press a button, the proper keys on the board are depressed, showing you how to form chords.

IN BRIEF: Add a new help for house and car—a dirt- and grease-dissolving foam cleaner in an aerosol can. It gets rid of bathtub rings with minimum rubbing, simplifies the cleaning of enamel and metal as well as porcelain surfaces, works on whitewall tires, too.

Did Lizzie Borden Really Kill Her Parents?

Legend Brands Her as Ax Murderer, but New Book on Old Crime Contends 'Not Guilty' Verdict Was Correct

LIZZIE BORDEN, as she appeared about the time of the murders.

ANDREW J. BORDEN

MRS. ABBIE D. BORDEN

By Olivia Skinner
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

DID LIZZIE BORDEN really give those 40 whacks? Generations of whodunit fans have shuddered happily over the blood-all-around details of the double murder of her father, Andrew J. Borden, and her stepmother, Mrs. Abbie D. Borden in Fall River, Mass. For 69 years small fry at their play have chanted:

Lizzie Borden took an ax
And gave her mother forty whacks;
And when she saw what she had done
She gave her father forty-one.

A more gloriously gory crime has seldom occurred in American history. It was so spectacular that the legend of Lizzie Borden has been the base of a number of novels. Broadway has staged two dramas about her, and in 1948 choreographer Agnes De Mille staged a ballet named "The Fall River Legend." Not too long ago, Princess Margaret Rose of England entertained her friends with verse after verse of a Lizzie Borden ballad sung in a current London musical.

Yet, when one examines the evidence presented in Edward D. Radin's "Lizzie Borden, the Untold Story" just published by Simon and Schuster, a more unlikely murderess has seldom sat in a courtroom. Though she was acquitted by the jury, song and story around the world have almost unanimously maintained her guilt. Radin offers a step-by-step demonstration that Lizzie's jury was right.

On Aug. 4, 1892, she was a small, delicate, gently-reared spinster of 33. Though not pretty, her auburn hair and large eyes placed her far from the plain Jane category. She and her older sister Emma had not married because there were simply not enough men of their own class to go around in Fall River. Their father's wealth made working outside the home unthinkable, but Lizzie was a devout member of the Congregational Church and active in the Fruit and Flower Mission, a useful charitable organization which visited the poor and friendless in institutions, brought toys to children in hospitals and food to their elders, read newspapers and books to bed-ridden patients and in general relieved the nurses of many other tasks.

Details of the crimes of which this delicately nurtured female was accused took up 1930 pages of trial testimony. These, plus hundreds of pages of preliminary court hearings and the portions of the inquest which were made public were scrutinized by Radin.

The Lizzie Borden legend claims that, armed with an ax, this respected, church-going spinster crept up on her stepmother in the upstairs guest room where the older woman was making the bed.

The legend, according to Radin, went like this:

"Nineteen times (Lizzie) flailed away in fury at the older woman . . . hacking out a five-inch hole in the skull and chopping most of the head to ribbons . . . she let the body remain where it had fallen, quickly cleaned herself and the weapon, and then for almost 90 minutes calmly engaged in such homely chores as carrying up clothes from the cellar laundry, sewing a loop on a dress, ironing several handkerchiefs and leafing through a magazine . . ."

When her father returned from his office, continued tradition, Lizzie, with her prone stepmother drenched in blood upstairs, calmly helped Borden out of his hot black wool coat and into a loose jacket and encouraged him to stretch out on the sitting room couch for a nap. When her father was asleep, she returned to the sitting room with the ax. "Now the weapon of death descended 10 times, once with sufficient force to slice through her father's cheek bone, sever an eye completely and continue deep into his skull. As the weapon rose and fell . . . blood splashed onto the walls and even spattered the ceiling of the room."

On completion of the second murder, concludes the legend, ". . . in 10 minutes or less she removed . . . all traces of blood from her face, her hands, her hair and from her dress, her shoes, her stockings. And during that interval she also managed to scour the blade and the handle . . . so thoroughly that later . . . tests failed to show the slightest trace of blood."

Feeling ran high in Fall River after the murder. That day thousands of workers had gathered in front of the narrow frame house on Second street and later jammed the town's saloons. There was rejoicing in this spree. For the Irish and French Canadian cotton mill workers, Lizzie and her family were members of a hated ruling caste. The dictatorial Andrew Borden, a wealthy, self-made man, was noted for his hard bargains and skinflint dealings. It was felt he had received his comeuppance. On the day of the double funeral, 4000 people watched the hearse's progress through the streets.

It was common knowledge that the household had not been a happy one. The spinster daughters had resented their father's stubborn refusal to let them entertain on a scale his money warranted. Radin wrote: "They were not an affectionate family . . . tenderness, love and devotion were words rather than feelings to them." On the torrid murder morning, the enormous New England breakfast of johnny cakes, bread, coffee, cookies, mutton, hot mutton soup and fruit had been eaten only by Borden and his wife, Lizzie's visiting uncle, John Vinicum Morse, and the maid, Bridget Sullivan. Emma was away visiting. Lizzie did not eat with the family.

Did she murder or didn't she? It was up to the jury to decide. On the first day of her trial months later, Julian Ralph of the New York Sun wrote: "She is either the most injured of innocents or the blackest of monsters. She either hacked her father and stepmother to pieces with the furious brutality of the ogre in Poe's story of the Rue Morgue or some other person did it and she suffers the double torture of losing her parents and being wrongfully accused of their murders."

It was intriguing for future generations to picture Lizzie as an enigmatic Medea, a woman who planned the perfect crime, got rid of her hated and inconvenient father and stepmother and then spent the rest of her life enjoying her murdered father's wealth. Such a legend was also sponsored by the heretofore most prominent authority on the case, Edmund Pearson, in his "Studies in Murder," and his more complete account "The Trial of Lizzie Borden" published in 1937. This, according to Radin "misled successive generations of readers. . . . By the use of innuendo, by accepting unfounded rumors as facts, by deleting words and phrases from his presented parts of the trial minutes, by suppressing many details . . . Pearson presented a distorted and inaccurate version of the case; so much so that it is one of the strangest episodes in American letters."

BRIDGET SULLIVAN

The prosecution presented Lizzie as a cold, emotionless criminal. But the maid Bridget Sullivan testified that Lizzie was crying when she discovered her father's body. Lizzie herself commented on the attempts to show her as a heartless monster: "I know I am innocent and I have made up my mind that no matter what happens, I will try to bear up bravely and try to make the best of it. There is one thing that hurts me very much. They say I don't show any grief. Certainly I don't in public," said that well-bred, controlled New England spinster. "I never did reveal my feelings and I cannot change my nature now." Nevertheless when the skulls of her father and stepmother were produced in court, Lizzie fainted.

One of the strangest features of the case was the lack of strong motives for the killings. Especially did Lizzie lack reason for murder. But the two most telling points for the defense were that the murder weapon was never found, and that though the murder room was splotched from floor to ceiling with hundreds of bloodstains, not a drop of blood was ever found on Lizzie or any of her clothes. The ax head which the prosecution exhibited as the murder weapon contained a spot of dirt in a recess of the handle. If, established the defense the weapon had been used for the murder, the dirt would have absorbed some of the quantities of gore then flowing. But laboratory tests failed to find any blood.

When the jury voted her innocent, Lizzie, with her customary public poise told reporters, "I am going home and I am going to stay there. I never thought of doing anything else."

And home she went. She did sell the murder house and move to a larger, handsomer residence called Maplecroft on fashionable French street. But she lived out her remaining 35 years in Fall River. She never married. Her sole romance was blighted three years after the trial. A rumor that she was engaged brought swarms of reporters on the run. Her beau, a school teacher, went into hiding. The betrothal was never announced. For the rest of her days she lived the life of a retiring, kindly old maid of comfortable means.

She supplied her workmen with cooling drinks in hot weather, bought church raffle tickets from small boys and sent many deserving but impecunious students through college. On her death she left securities and $30,000 in cash to the Animal Rescue League in Fall River.

But if Lizzie didn't kill, who did? Was the murderer Bridget Sullivan, the maid of all work? Was it Lizzie's uncle, Morse, or her sister Emma, both of whom had alibis? Or was it one of the mysterious bloodsoaked strangers who were said to have been seen around Fall River by the excited populace right after the crimes?

The author has his own strong conviction. But mystery story lovers are often tempted to give 40 whacks to other fans who prematurely betray the identity of the criminal. I will merely quote Radin: "The reader can agree with the writer, make his own choice or reject them all. As in a trial, a reader is a juror and a juror is the sole judge of the facts."

"Lizzie Borden Faints Away" during the trial, as imagined by a Police Gazette artist.

WOMEN

Three Debutantes Make Bows at Party

By Peggy Johnson

THE CIVIL WAR CENTENNIAL provided inspiration for the decor at a coming-out party Saturday afternoon. The guests, invited to "come, eat and dance and join the ranks of staunch Confederates and Yanks," found Confederate and Union flags crossed over the door of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gordon Hertslet's home at 1132 Hampton Park drive, Richmond Heights, where the party took place.

Guests of honor were the Hertslets' daughter, Miss Sharon Anne; Miss Eleanor Chenault Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Chenault Rogers, 2 Bridle Creek road, Ladue, and Miss Dorothy Ann Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Renick Dixon, 7026 Westmoreland drive, University City.

Wrought-iron grillwork on the porch was decorated with magnolia leaves and blossoms. Inside the door stood a sculptured head of Abraham Lincoln.

The young women and their parents received guests in front of the living room mantel over which were hung two embroidered pictures of the Old South in wide gold frames. Pedestals holding black wrought-iron dolphin bowls filled with old-fashioned summer blossoms flanked the fireplace.

All three girls chose white cotton dresses. Miss Hertslet's is of white pique, embroidered in red around the hemline of the bouffant skirt. Miss Rogers's gown, also of pique, is printed with red roses. Miss Dixon's white polished cotton full-skirted dress is trimmed with roses and ivy. All three had bouquets of white stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Hertslet chose a silk shirtwaist dress in shades of yellow and green. Mrs. Rogers was in a white linen sheath. Mrs. Dixon's dress was of off-white silk.

A sunporch leading to the garden was decorated with crossed flags and old Civil War recruitment posters. A large marquee covered the terraces above the garden. The buffet table, where a Southern-type luncheon was served, was trimmed with a tall white wrought-iron garden epergne holding red, white and blue flowers. The flower motif was repeated on individual tables, where Civil War flags were added. Guests were given their choice of Confederate or Yankee hats.

Singleton Palmer's orchestra played for dancing on a portable dance floor at the foot of the Hertslet garden.

All three debutantes are graduates of John Burroughs School. Miss Hertslet and Miss Rogers attended Pine Manor Junior College, Wellesley, Mass., last year. Miss Rogers plans to return in September. Miss Hertslet will enter Washington University in the fall. Miss Dixon, whose friends call her Dixie, will return to Vanderbilt University for her sophomore year. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Mary Institute Girls Traveling Abroad.

SIX MEMBERS of the Mary Institute graduating class by Miss Thekla L. Forsyth, head of the Middle School. They sailed on board the S. S. Atlantic for Gibraltar. MISS FORSYTH . . . chaperoning group.

The following is a list of the travelers, together with the names of their parents and the schools they will attend in the fall: Miss Forrest Hatton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Hatton, 29 Aberdeen place, who will study at Garland Junior College, Boston; Miss Kathy Disbrow, daughter of the Francis H. Disbrows, 7 Clermont lane, Ladue, and Miss Margaret Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Adair Logan, 7360 Westmoreland drive, University City, both of whom will attend Briarcliff Junior College, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.

Miss Adele Braun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Walker II, 26 Westmoreland place, Centenary Junior College, Hackettstown, N.J. Miss Deborah Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer III, 59 Kingsbury place, who will matriculate at Bennett College, Millbrook, N.Y., and Miss Annette Schweighauser, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Schweighauser, 12 Maryhill, Ladue, who will be a freshman at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.

Party for Three Debutantes

THREE MANNEQUINS, dressed in Bermuda shorts and sport shirts, stood at the door of Mrs. Shearer Cella's home at 39 Willow Hill road, Ladue, last night to welcome guests to an informal barbecue party. Each mannikin bore the name of a guest of honor, Miss Jane Simmons, Miss Susan Simmons or Miss Elizabeth Folk. All debutantes, the girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Middleton Simmons and Mrs. Jamison Folk.

A canopy covered the terrace where the buffet table, with a red and white checked cloth, had as a centerpiece a large ball of cotton studded with red carnations. Smaller tables held hurricane globes encircled with cotton balls and red and white carnations.

Singleton Palmer's orchestra entertained the young guests, who were served chicken, ribs and hush puppies from an outdoor barbecue pit.

Visitors in St. Louis From Bermuda.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS A. KUHN II, whose home, Overwoods, is at Paget, Bermuda, where they have lived for several years, arrived yesterday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Pangman, 4654 Pershing place. Both are former St. Louisans. Mrs. Kuhn was Miss Joan Pangman.

The visitors came to the United States to attend the wedding of their son, Francis A. Kuhn III, to Miss Dona Ruth Gennari, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vasco James Gennari of Yardley, Pa., which took place Saturday at St. Ignatius Church in Yardley. The reception was held at the Gennari home, 1906 Crescent drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn also attended the graduation of their son, Peter, from Amherst College, where the bridegroom earned his degree several years ago.

After leaving St. Louis, the Kuhns will go to South Bend, Ind., to be the guests of Mrs. Kuhn's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Douglass Campbell (Hope Pangman) and their family. They will return to Bermuda from there.

MRS. ANDREW CUNNINGHAM of New York and her son, Andrew Cunningham Jr., are the guests of her father, James H. Homeyer, 10 North Kingshighway. The visitors are spending about two weeks here.

Bound for a Tour of Europe

Webster Groves Residents on Trips Abroad

TRAVEL ABROAD highlights summer plans for several residents of Webster Groves. Mrs. A. Beverley Kelley and her son, William Lee Kelley, 212 Portland terrace, have arrived in England, Mrs. Kelley's native land. This is her first trip home in 22 years. The travelers are visiting her sisters, Mrs. Robert Somerville-Boyntun, who formerly lived in Webster Groves, and Mrs. Frank E. Foley, both of whom reside in Moneyglass Cottage, Honiton, Devonshire.

They will visit outstanding Anglican churches in London, escorted by Mrs. Kelley's nephew, the Rev. Michael Mayne, chaplain to the Bishop of London. Another nephew who will entertain them is Michael Higgs, Conservative member of Parliament, who lives in Brieley Hill, Staffordshire.

Mr. Kelley will spend the major part of the summer traveling on the continent, while his mother will confine her visit to England. They will return in September.

Miss Judith Beasley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Kenneth Beasley, 444 Somerset avenue, will join a group of students in London tomorrow for a month's tour of England, The Netherlands, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy, France and Switzerland, conducted by Dr. A. Reid Winsey, head of the art department of DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

Debutantes Introduced At Breakfast

THREE DEBUTANTES classmates at Marymount College, Arlington, Va., were introduced to society yesterday at a breakfast at Sunset Country Club. The honorees were Miss Bonnie Louise Budke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Henry Budke Jr., 812 Elm Tree lane, Kirkwood; Miss Judith Kathryn Fehlig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Clement Fehlig, 73 Clermont lane, Ladue, and Miss Mary Ann Sciuto, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Charles Sciuto, 5901 Highfield road.

With their parents, the girls received in front of the Italian rose quartz fireplace in the club lounge which was decorated with a profusion of pink roses against gold Florentine candelebra studded with white porcelain flowers.

Two hundred contemporaries of the debutantes, their escorts and friends of their parents were invited to the party. Pink and white flowers transformed the lounge into a garden setting centered with an elaborate fountain. Emphasing the color scheme were arrangements of pink and white carnations.

In the dining room a serpentine buffet table was covered with white satin on which stood a centerpiece of pink and white roses and carnations in an angel epergne. In addition to tables on the terrace, which overlooks the golf course, there were pink-covered tables in the dining room with miniature crystal epergnes filled with pink and white daisies. A silver punch bowl containing an arrangement of pink and white flowers was on a credenza at the far end of the room. Strolling musicians played.

Miss Budke selected a bouffant white dress of silk organza embroidered with tiny pink roses. Miss Fehlig wore a white organza frock embroidered with small bands of pink roses, and Miss Sciuto received in a pale pink and blue organza dress with alternating bands of lace inserts. All three girls held nosegays of pink roses and miniature ivy.

Mrs. Budke wore an imported Swiss eyelet costume suit with pink chiffon bodice and lining, while Mrs. Fehlig selected a floral silk print with a draped bodice. Mrs. Sciuto's dress was a linen floral print of rose and green. The mothers each wore pink-throated white cymbidium orchids.

The three debutantes are graduates of Villa Duchesne.

Martha Carr's OPINION

She Wants Her Husband Back.

Dear Martha:

MY HUSBAND LEFT ME about a year ago because I threw him out. I know now I was at fault. I am very unhappy because I can't get him to come back to me. Now he is going with some girl and wants a divorce. I know who this girl is and I decided to make some trouble for her. I have no children to hold him with. He told me he loves her very much and I thought before he would let me cause trouble for this girl he would come back to me but it didn't work. Everyone says I have no pride but I feel like he is still my husband and really just a little boy who will thank me some day if I make him come back. Am I wrong? Why doesn't he give me another chance? J. T.

You can't make him come back to you but you can try making him want to return. Talk to him and ask him to give your marriage another try for at least six months. Tell him you realize that you were at fault in throwing him out of your house and promise to mend your ways in whatever manner he suggests. You'll get nowhere as long as you regard him as "some little boy who will thank you some day if you make him come back." You should have learned in the past year that you can't "make" this man do anything. Forget about being the dictator and try being a human being.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHEN A MAN is escorting two women for a meal in a restaurant how are the women seated? MAN IN DOUBT.

Circumstances must be taken into consideration in this case. Women are always given seats with the best view and at the most comfortable place at the table, that is, out of the path of waiters and customers coming and going.

Dear Martha Carr:

SOME TIME AGO I am told you had a recipe in your column for "Charnina," or duck's blood soup. A man where my husband works told my husband about it. This man is Polish and he said this Polish soup is wonderful and now my husband wants me to make him some. Do you still have the recipe? INTERESTED.

Send me a self-addressed stamped envelope and I will be glad to send you this recipe.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I'M MARRIED and have three children. My husband never takes us out and he seldom has much to say to us. Saturday night he goes out by himself. He acts like he lives in a world of his own. He is a good worker and brings home his pay as husbands should. How can I make him change? END OF MY ROPE.

Ask your husband to take you and the children some place like the zoo or on a picnic next weekend. If he refuses, ask him why he is refusing. Then don't nag. Repeat the procedure in following weeks and still don't nag if he continues to refuse. Eventually he will give in and when he does make the outing so pleasant he will want to repeat it. Also, pay him a few compliments now and then. Tell him you appreciate the fact that you have a husband who is a good worker and brings home his pay. Don't take the attitude that this is something husbands should do. They should, of course. But many of them don't. And ask yourself if you talk too much or find fault with him too often. Many husbands retreat into silence when their wives talk or nag continuously.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for Martha's "Pot Pourri" leaflet, giving directions for making a rose jar.

Gout Sufferer's Diet

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I am writing for my brother who is troubled with gout. What causes it? What is he allowed to eat and what not? What can he do for it? His doctor told him not to eat pork. We met someone with gout who said his doctor has him on a pork diet but he is not allowed to eat beef. Now we are puzzled. Who is right? V. K.

Gout, a disease known as far back as the days of imperial Rome, is a disorder in the metabolism of uric acid. That is to say, uric acid is present naturally in the system, but when the body cannot, in turn, dispose of it adequately, the excess can cause trouble.

When one has gout, the uric acid accumulates in the blood, and eventually is deposited (or some of it is) as crystals in certain joints, or even in such places as the ear lobes. The big toe is the classic spot, but it by no means is the only one.

Uric acid is one of a group of chemicals known as purines. If you eat a low-purine diet, you get less uric acid in the system, and there's less for your faulty metabolism to get rid of.

So a low-purine diet is reasonable and I see no objection to it between attacks—except that a purine-free diet is low in protein, which is necessary in a good diet. For that reason I can't advise continued use of a low-purine diet. Nor would it be very tasty, in time. It would get monotonous.

The HIGH-purine foods are meats (including sweetbreads, kidney, liver), fish and seafoods, with herring, sardines, crab and anchovies being very high.

Beef, pork, veal and mutton are about equal in purine. I suppose if I had a patient who loved pork, I might prohibit it on the grounds that he'd eat some—but less—of other meats. Or vice versa for people who can't say "no" to a 20-ounce sirloin. "No beef—but you can have some pork." Anything to cut down excess purines.

Mushrooms, asparagus, cauliflower, spinach, lentils, beans and peas are vegetables high in purines. Coffee, tea and cocoa are high, also.

So a gout patient asks, "What CAN I eat?" It's a good question. The answer is that cheese, milk and eggs have protein but no purine. Fruits, cereals and most vegetables except those listed above are low in purine, or have none.

Sufferers of gout should go easy on purine foods. However, it's hardly reasonable to try to avoid them all the time, because so many foods with them are highly valuable otherwise.

Try and Stop Me

THE GREAT ZIEGFELD, master showman of another era, had an unusual first name for a male: Florenz. And the brilliant star he married, Miss Billie Burke, had a real first name that was equally odd for a girl: Ethelbert. The printer assigned to furnish their wedding announcements, therefore, had a plausible alibi when his first proof brought a roar of rage from the principals. It announced the marriage of Mr. Ethelbert Ziegfeld to Miss Florence Burke!

AN INDIGNANT chorus girl pointed to a friend, "Remember that fellow I told you about who got a date by saying he makes Westerns? The phony cuts up the ham, onions, and green peppers for omelets at the Automat!"

Marriage on Business Basis

By Donald I. Rogers

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 26.

A GREAT MANY young couples now are getting down to the day-to-day routine of married life after glittering June weddings and a few of them—the smart ones—have taken the time to write me at the Herald Tribune financial department seeking counsel on their prospective financial programs.

They'll do all right, these kids, because they're approaching the family budget in an orderly manner.

The women's magazines are jammed with information on how to buy proper clothes for a wedding, how to run a successful reception and even on how to adjust psychologically to marriage, but rarely, if ever, do you see advice on how to run a marriage on a financially sound basis. It's as though money weren't the transcending reason for most marital problems.

It's nice, indeed, to have a pretty wedding and a memorable reception, and it's wholesome to be prepared for the adjustments necessary in sharing life, but no matter how philosophical you care to wax, it's a darn sight easier to be happily married if you have financial security and financial competence than it is if you go along like Aesop's grasshopper and throw the household into turmoil when the first utilities bill comes bounding in.

If I could do it all over again, the first thing I'd do would be to make my wife my business partner. I'd make it clear from the outset that my role is to earn the money and hers is to be custodian of it.

I'd ask her to pay all the bills, dole out all of the monthly repayments, and yes, by golly, keep track of the whole operation so that she and I, together, could work out the tax schedule on Form 1040 next April.

I'd expect her to save some, too, and in time, if she's a successful saver, to work with me in selecting some investments, such as good common stocks.

Since she'd be the beneficiary, I'd want her to figure out just how much insurance I should place on my life, and just how much I should increase it as my income increases and the size of our family grows.

That's partnership, real partnership, and we'd both be lucky, because neither of us, in any other line of endeavor, would ever have partners we'd be in love with.

If it sounds as though I'd make a business enterprise out of marriage, that's what I intend it to mean. I've seen too many letters from unhappy people because of the unbusiness-like approach to marriage. Two cannot live as cheaply as one, and two cannot live as cheaply after they acquire children as they can when they first start out in life. The articles which say otherwise are usually written by old maids, bachelors or women who live on high alimony payments.

First off, I'd want to draw a will, and I'd want my wife to draw one, too. In them we would have to take into consideration what would happen to our possessions and accumulation of wealth or property if we died in a common accident, such as happens every weekend on our highways. Further, we'd have to consider what would happen to our possessions in the event one of us predeceased the other.

Next, I'd want us both to begin to plan for my retirement. Not because I'm lazy and look longingly toward the day when I get the gold watch, but because I'm a realist about our economy.

Moreover, it is not in my makeup to want to pressure my employers or my government to provide for my retirement, I'd like to be able to do it myself, and turn to my employers and-or my government only if I lack the ability to do so.

So I'd start out, with my new bride, planning for my eventual "independence." That is a better word than retirement, and a far better concept than social security.

My independence would require careful planning and pleasingly close co-operation with the partner who would share equally in whatever success the program had.

That's what I'd do if I could go back to the beginning. That's what I'd tell any young folks heading toward the altar and who haven't given much thought, yet, to those ugly little envelopes with the cellophane windows . . . Those ugly little envelopes that ruin more marriages than any other factor.

10. The Post-Dispatch is not responsible for entries that are lost, that arrive too late, that are incorrectly filled out or illegible. It also reserves the right to correct typographical errors and to discontinue the contest at its discretion.

Asia's Walking Fish

By Ramon Coffman

THERE ARE PERSONS who think it is "just a joke" when someone speaks about walking fish. We know that fish swim, and that they have fins instead of legs. How COULD they walk?

When sailors from Europe reached southeastern Asia more than 450 years ago, they took greater interest in trade than in the wonders of nature. So far as we know, they failed to report anything about walking fish.

As years went by, some white persons from Europe made reports in letters, or in talks with their friends after they returned from southern Asia, about strange fish. You may imagine what treatment was given to any statement that they had seen walking fish!

Not until scientists and other careful observers watched the fish in question could the reports gain a good following. The scientific reports made it clear that these fish (members of the goby group) performed walking of a sort. A few aquariums now have these remarkable members of the fish world on display.

Walking fish live near the shores of continents and islands in some tropical parts of the Pacific and Indian oceans. They have the special name of "mudskippers," and appear on beaches between high and low tides.

The front fins are large and strong, and are fastened to special muscles. These fins provide "front legs" of a sort and are used to propel the fish on the beach.

Close view of a walking fish, showing development of a front fin.

That kind of "walking" is slow, but there are times when mudskippers use their strong tails to make jumps of two or three feet.

While skipping along a beach, or across a mangrove swamp, these fish move rapidly. They catch insects flying low over their heads.
